Now that the Round-Up is over, and the irrigating season is completed, and the warm weather has ceased to be burdensome, and school is well underway, and the fair buildings are rising rapidly, let's all turn our minds and energies and good spirit toward making our own Umatilla Project fair a grand success.

If there is a more meritorious project for irrigation than Butter Creek, it hasn't been found. Neighbors can help neighbors and now is our time to help bring back these great feeding grounds of eastern Oregon.

Bill Hanley could have hardly ordered his departure from the scenes of his beloved ranges in a better way. At his last round-up the romantic picture of his lifetime was set before him. The cow hands were there, the horses and the cattle and the color of the hills and plains. Then the curtain fell. This great actor in the drama of the west had gone on the long, long trail.

We have had plenty of water in a year of drouth. We have good crops when many others have little. Our relief roll is scarcely what we had before "relief" was heard of. And with it all we have the splendid wherewithals for a real Thanksgiving.

It looks like war again. General Sherman told us once what war is, and we have seen how well he described it in recent years. The World War started like the bursting of a bomb. This war had been approaching against, and with discussion of all the nations. But war it looks like it must be and it will be the same kind of war. And it may reach out, who knows how far. Let us hope that America has a higher vision than a power mad monarch dictator and that the thoughts of our best citizens will transcend all the dire desires of greedy, selfish interests.

JANE WITHERS PROVOKES LAUGHTER IN "GINGER."

A bundle of sure-fires, top-notch comedy entertainment will be at the Oasis theatre Sunday and Monday in the picture "Ginger."

"Ginger" boasts the world's champion small girl and boy heavies of the screen - Jane Withers and Jackie Searl. There's a swell clash, with a world of comedy, when these youngsters get together, although they're not heavies in this picture.

You'll enjoy the manner in which the talented, little, orphan Jane, denied the love and care of a mother and father, herself looks after O. P. Heggie, gives him lectures, loves him, defends him and keeps house for him. When Jane is taken into the Park Avenue home of the pampered Jackie Searl, trouble and fun are certain to follow and they do.

Sol M. Wurtzel produced this new screen hit, which was directed by Lewis Seiler.
