Loyalty

Tag a dollar bill with this inscription, "Don't spend me outside of my community," and at the end of thirty days the story will read something like this—

"Changed hands one hundred times, traveled all over the community, was in and out of many banks, invaded practically every field of industry and labor, paid taxes and many bills, relieved unemployment, stimulated business . . . still going strong.

The exact figures make little or no difference but the above is what happens . . . this dollar and others like it work night and day to build your community.

Not every dollar can be kept in the community but those spent for local goods tarry longer to increase consumer demands, keep industries busy and put idle men to work.
