Let Us Forget.
 Today certain factions are subjecting the American Constitution to vigorous attack. They are saying it is outmoded and unable to cope with modern conditions. And they are suggesting changes and amendments which, in some cases, would amount to complete deprivation of the rights and liberties we now enjoy under Constitutional protection.
 It is usually easier to criticize than to defend, and the critics of the Constitution have found many listeners and not a few converts. Let us forget the virtues of the Constitution, it might be well to recall these words, uttered in 1878 by the great English statesman, William Gladstone: "The American Constitution is, so far as I can see, the most wonderful work ever struck off at a given time by the brain and purpose of man."
 Some things are timeless. Among those things are freedom—freedom of action within the law, freedom of expression, freedom of speech. The Constitution has nothing to do with booms or depressions—nothing to do with partisan politics. It simply guarantees us those essential liberties for which men have fought for thousands of years. Look abroad, at Germany, Russia, Italy, Poland—do we want to follow their example and make freedom an impotent word, and liberty a crime against the state? Then save the Constitution from being weakened or destroyed.

When to Blast Ditches Told.
 Use of dynamite in digging drainage ditches has its place and is more economical than other methods under certain circumstances, but not always by any means, says Art King, soils extension specialist at O.S.C. Blasting is "indicated," as the doctors say, where the soil is too wet to permit machine work, or where stumps, logs, or other obstructions make machine work impractical. If the ditch is to be deep and narrow, hand work is cheapest, he says.

Early Care of Goslings Cited by an Authority
 Goslings do not need feed until they are from thirty-six to forty-eight hours old, when they should be fed stale bread soaked in milk, or a mash made of four parts corn meal and one part middlings, says an authority in the Missouri Farmer. Green grass should make up most of their feed and only a limited amount of grain should be fed. Plenty of fresh, clean drinking water should be supplied. After two weeks, if the goslings have plenty of grass, they will not need any other feed. In case extra feed is needed a suitable mash can be made of two parts shorts, one part of corn meal or ground oats. After six weeks old, if extra feed is still needed, the mash should be changed to equal parts shorts, corn meal, and ground oats with 5 per cent meat scrap. Where pasture is good, most goslings are raised from the time they are two or three weeks old to fattening time without additional feed. Whole grain should not be fed until the goslings are well feathered. Because of a limited demand, it is doubtful if geese can be profitably raised except where they have good range.

Cutting Range Costs
 Next to the feed cost, the greatest expense in brooding and rearing of chicks is in labor. Any poultryman, observes a writer in the Country Gentleman, whose range is not already so equipped can well consider installing certain practical labor-saving devices. A lot of time can be wasted carrying water in pails, so any range on which a considerable number of chicks is reared should be piped for water. Three-quarter-inch pipe for leaders one-half-inch pipe for laterals, with an automatic, self-feeding shut-off near each colony house, will more than pay for the complete cost before the season is half over. To keep the water cool, the pipe should be laid in a furrow which has been plowed up and laid back over the pipe. Once a day the pans can be rinsed with a large bottle brush, which is all the labor required in the watering operation. In the fall the pipes can be taken up and stored till spring comes again.

No Cure for Stunted Chicks
 Start a chick in the way he should go—and you will reap the reward, says Miss Cora Cooke, extension specialist in poultry, University farm, St. Paul. Flocks in which some chicks lag behind the rest, carry evidence that something is wrong. Some chicks, unfortunately, are "born runts." There is nothing to do but put them out of their misery. Some of these runts could have been avoided, however, if the parent stock had been selected with care—selected for health, vigor.

Production of Geese
 According to the 1930 census, Missouri ranks fourth in the production of geese, says a writer in Missouri Farmer. Geese production in the United States has, since 1910, passed completely from the South Central to the North Central states. This shift is attributed to the fact that geese were formerly produced in the South mainly for the feathers, and that as the demand for feather declined in that section the production of geese was abandoned.
