FARM BUREAU CO-OPERATIVE OF HERMISTON.

We are mailing out to each member in good standing in districts number 1, 3 and 5, (districts 2, 4, 6 and 7 do not elect board members this year), a list of the members in good standing in their respective districts.

In sending out the lists of members in the districts concerned, every effort has been made to do this correctly. In case a member finds himself placed in the wrong district, kindly bring the ballot and envelope which was received into the office and exchange same for the correct one.

Each member is requested to check the name of his (or her) candidate, for the nomination for director in that district, on the list being sent out, and bring or send this list sealed in the envelope enclosed with the list, to the annual meeting to be held February 14, 1936, in the Hermiston Union church in Hermiston at 1:30 P. M.

The three nominees receiving the highest number of nominating votes from their respective districts will be considered the eligible candidates for election in their districts. Voting will then be conducted in the usual manner by the members of that district present at the annual meeting, to decide which of the three nominees is to represent that district on the board of directors of the Farm Bureau Co-operative of Hermiston.

Any member in good standing who has not received a nominating list for his district, or who pays up his membership between now and the day of election, may secure this list by calling at the office of the Farm Bureau Co-operative of Hermiston.

The following proposed amendment to the by-laws of the Association will be presented to the members for their consideration:

Paragraph Two of Section I of Article VII of the By-laws of the Farm Bureau Co-operative of Hermiston, shall be amended to read as follows:

The two percent collected for revolving fund shall be deposited to the credit of the Association in a separate fund. To this shall be added, at the close of each fiscal year, any surplus accumulated and shown on the books of the Association. Any losses shown shall likewise be deducted from such fund. This provision shall be retro-active and apply to the surplus accumulated in all the years since the organization of the Association. This fund shall be used for the purchasing, leasing or building of warehouses and other needed equipment, and redeeming of certificates of equity in the order in which they were issued while maintaining the revolving fund at the maximum amount permitted. This two percent charge for revolving fund shall be made on all products sold by the Association, and shall continue during the life of this Association (except as hereinafter by amendment provided.)

TAX OF FIVE CENTS PER POUND ON SUBSTITUTE BUTTER ON BILL

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Directed at the increasing and ominous inroads of oleomargarine on domestic butter consumption, and designed to bulwark dairy prices against consequent price collapses, a measure imposing a flat tax of five cents a pound on the butter substitute was introduced in Congress by Gerald W. Boileau of Wisconsin, member of the House agricultural committee.

Mr. Boileau stated that while previous attempts to give relief to dairymen have resulted in differences of opinion within the industry, it appears that a tax on butter substitutes will have the united support of all. "We are in need of further legislation to restrict importation of dairy products, but such a program cannot be successful unless at the same time the dairymen are protected from increased production of oleomargarine," he said.

Although the proposed tax is believed by many to be inadequate to meet the situation, it would in some measure narrow the price spread between oleomargarine and butter, according to Charles W. Holman, secretary of the National Cooperative Milk Producers' Federation.

"With an increase of 43 per cent in oleomargarine consumption during the past year, butterfat producers are facing a direct threat to their markets," he stated. "Unless this threat is met by some remedial action, there is little hope of long maintaining the present price structure for dairy products. Fluid milk producers, as well as cream shippers, are bound to feel the reaction.

"The Boileau bill, if enacted, should be of some help in averting the market slumps which follow the shifts in consumer demand from butter to oleomargarine. Proposals such as that of the Institute of American Fats and Oils for a tax only on oleomargarines containing foreign products, on the other hand, are worse than useless. Such a tax would not benefit domestic producers of fats and oils, and would simply throw the control of oleomargarine production and marketing largely into the hands of the meat packers."

The Boileau measure bears the endorsement of the National Grange, the American Association of Creamery Butter Manufacturers, the National Association of Local Creameries, the Wisconsin Council of Agriculture, and numerous other state and regional dairy organizations. The American Farm Bureau Federation favors a five cent tax, with an additional five cents imposed upon oleomargarines containing foreign fats or oils.

Poultry

INCREASED DEMAND FOR POULTRY, EGGS

Expansion of Industry Now Seems Assured.

By Roy S. Dearstyn, Head of North Carolina State College Poultry Department. WNU Service.

The increased demand for poultry and fresh eggs over present production is leading to a conservative expansion of the poultry industry. Hatcheries are already booked far ahead, and indications point a favorable season for the hatchery industry.

The development of hatcheries leads to a balanced industry, since the poultrymen utilize the superior products of the hatchery in improving their flocks and the hatcheries pay premiums for good eggs from the poultrymen. The two phases of the industry are interdependent.

As the mating season approaches, poultrymen should start putting their brooding and housing equipment in good condition and lay plans for managing their flocks for a successful season.

Probably the most important factor in the success or failure of the coming year lies in the quality of baby chicks hatched or purchased. If the chicks are of proven stock, high in vitality and descended from high producing, blood-testing parents, no amount of equipment, care in feeding or management will develop a quality flock.

The production of quality chicks is expensive, but it is well worth the extra cost. Constant culling to eliminate low producers, blood tests, and sanitation and feeding costs money. But a few cents difference in the price of a chick may mean a difference of 50 eggs a year in the production of the bird when it has matured.

Poultry Rations

Many poultry feed experts think it is a wise practice to build all poultry rations around yellow corn, believing that under normal conditions it may make up one-half to two-thirds of the grain mixture, depending on the season of the year, possibly more being required in the winter season than in summer. Wheat is well liked by fowls and may form a part of every ration. In feeding value it is said to be approximately equal to corn, pound for pound. When it is low in price it may be fed up to one-half the total grain allowance and when relatively expensive, it may be reduced to a fifth or even less, according to the Illinois Experimental station.

A kangaroo may cover as much as 30 yards in a single leap.

Tropical medicine is traced to a start in 1600 when the East India company carried doctors to the tropics.

IN SOME parts of the country hills are taken for granted... and good steep ones, too. But for some of us who live in flatter country, hill driving is not so familiar.

As a matter of fact, there are several conditions peculiar to driving in very steep hills or mountains, especially if the altitude is high. For instance, a car that develops 100 horsepower at sea-level, has only 82 horsepower at an altitude of 5000 feet, and only 60 horsepower on top of Pike's Peak.

Another thing is that sometimes grades are deceptive and we don't realize how steep they are, if there is no level ground to judge by.

So if we go on a road trip and happen to get into country where hills are hills, we often have no idea of what is in store for us. Like as not, we will come rolling up to a hill, taking it for granted that we'll make the grade. But before we've gone very far we find that our power seems to be giving out, and we're slowing down. Then we realize we must shift to second gear, but we're lucky if we haven't found out so late that there we are, stalled on a hill!

Now people who drive on hills all the time say one thing to remember is that there's nothing like a good start. Of course, this is true, because the minute we start up, gravity starts to work and work fast. Yard-by-yard it uses up our momentum till by-and-by that momentum is just about gone. Then we have to shift to a lower gear to increase our power.

Experts tell us that by far the most common fault in hill-climbing is failure to shift to a lower gear soon enough. So just to be sure, some drivers set a definite point at which to change gears. The consensus of opinion seems to be that we should always go into second gear as soon as our speed gets down to 20 miles an hour.

There are times, however, when we want to stop on a hill. So it's important to know how to start again, with our car on an upgrade. And there seem to be two methods used by experienced drivers.

Some use their foot brake to keep their cars from rolling backward, put their engine in low gear and accelerate slowly with the hand throttle, gradually engaging their clutch and releasing the brake at the same time. Other good drivers do exactly the same thing, only they use the hand brake and the foot accelerator. But both groups tell us it doesn't make much difference... to use whichever method we happen to like the better.

Now there aren't many hills that cars can't climb nowadays... and what goes up must come down. And that's where we have to look out for momentum. He may have been a friend in need when we were coming up hill, but going down he'll run away with us if we aren't careful. And if there are any sharp curves or any bad bumps or loose gravel, we have to be careful or he'll pick us right off the road.

Many drivers say that we should go down a hill in the same gear we would use to get up. In other words, if it's steep enough so we would have to go up in second or even low gear, then we'd better get into that same gear before we start down. If our car is in second or low gear, our engine works as a very effective brake, and besides it saves a lot of wear on our real brakes.

Speaking of gears, experienced drivers say we should never, under any condition, disengage our clutch and coast down hill. That's just what momentum is waiting for. Just give momentum a free rein, without our engine to check it, and nobody can tell what's going to happen.

When we do get in country where people are used to driving on hills all the time, it may seem to us that they take those hills without the slightest concern. But if we were in their cars with them and could watch them closely, we would see that they take all these precautions we have mentioned, just as a matter of habit. And one thing is sure. They make it a rule never to pass other cars on hills, or get on the wrong side of the road, when they can't see far enough ahead to be sure whether anyone's coming.
