Meadow Foxtail Promising.
DALLAS—Meadow foxtail is the most promising of three grasses that have been on trial in pastures of Polk county for the past three years, reports County Agent J. R. Beck. Tall fescue is second best and chewing fescue third. Mr. Beck recently visited trial plantings of these crops on the J. L. Palmer, J. H. Baker and J. S. Ediger farms, and found them doing well. On the Palmer place meadow foxtail seed was harvested in 1935 and sowed this spring to expand the planting. Chewing fescue develops so slowly that it is questionable whether it is a good grass to use alone for pasture in Polk county, Mr. Beck points out.

POULTRYMEN AMONG FARMERS ON STANFIELD PROJECT.

These are from 300 mixed day old chicks secured from the McGuire hatchery in Portland this spring. Formerly the Tenneys had White Minorca birds but are replacing them with the reds which they believe are better layers. They have a new 12x12 brooder house and expect to add a concrete floor to the laying house this fall.
The Tenneys farm 24 acres and milk 10 grade Jersey cows.
Mr. and Mrs. Jack White go in more for the fryer market business, although they expect to place 125 pullets in the house this fall. They came to the project from Pendleton last year and are farming 20 acres.
The flock of 300 cockerels purchased in February brought $40 profit. Later at two separate intervals they purchased 150 and 200 birds. They expect to enlarge the industry if they stay on the project.
More Experienced Growers.
Dave Shumway has been in the business for many years and now has 400 laying hens. He farms 32 acres, most of which is in alfalfa, and at present is milking four cows.

The alfalfa has been re-seeder this year following a freeze.
Wm. H. Parry has 80 old hens and 75 pullets on his ranch north of the J. M. Richards place. He also has 560 turkeys and milks four cows.
C. W. Ruping has a good chicken house 30x50 and approximately 300 laying hens. He lives just across the bridge from Stanfield.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"LOVE" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 2.
The Golden Text was, "He that loveth not knoweth not God; for God is love" (I John 4: 8).
Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him. . . . We love him, because he first loved us" (I John 4: 16, 19).
The Lesson-Sermon also included the following correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy: "Love, the divine Principle, is the Father and Mother of the universe, including man" (p. 256).
