Envy

WHAT a wretched and apostate state is this! To be offended with excellence and to hate a man because we approve him! The condition of the envious man is the most emphatically miserable; he is not only incapable of rejoicing in another's merit or success, but lives in a world wherein all mankind are in a plot against his quiet, studying their own happiness and advantage. —Addison.

Misfortunes cannot be avoided but they may be sweetened.

Watch Your Manners
Is politeness decaying? Don't permit that. It will develop into sheer brutality.

If you care a great deal for a man as he is, you may be able to reform him, but be careful.

People have to become thoroughly exasperated before they thoroughly punish crime.

Religion of most people is a very good one if they would pay more attention to it.

What Price Relief

Hurling a bad egg has never settled an argument; but hasn't it been a great relief.

Some can enter a room impressively; and not so many can leave it that way.

Our Pet Peeve—

Comatose Courtship
Bier—The Weavers are so quiet tonight. Is there anything wrong?
Gardiner—No; they're always that way. When he proposed he just held up a diamond ring and said "Eh?" and she looked at it and said "Uh-huh." — Pathfinder Magazine.

Vacation Romance?
Youth—Now, on this ring I should like you to engrave: "For my darling Muriel."
Jeweler—Would it not be better to have simply: "For my darling?" You see, sir, it will be at least a week before we can let you have the ring.—Hummel.

Mutual Concessions
"You dare to ask for the hand of my daughter and a few years ago you were ball boy at our tennis club?"
"Yes, sir, I said to myself, 'He may be a poor tennis player but that does not prevent his being a good father-in-law.'"
