A MESSAGE TO EVERY MEMBER.

CANNING SCHEDULE

TUES., A. M., Oct. 13—Meat and squash. This probably will be the last canning date for some time, so if you have anything to can, please be here on this date.

STATE GRANGERS AT BOARDMAN

Officers of the Oregon State Grange will be in Boardman, October 12, for a Grange conference, which will take the place of the regular County Grange Council and will be of interest to all grangers, officers and members, alike.

Dinner will be served at noon and the business meeting will be called immediately afterward. Supper will be served in the evening and drill contests will be conducted and other business discussed.

WESTLAND GRANGE HONORED

The following item and a picture of Miss Jenny Sophie Keikkala appeared in the National Grange Monthly of October, 1936:

"Frequent references are made in these columns to 'youngest master,' 'youngest secretary,' etc., but now comes forward Westland Grange, No. 827, in Umatilla county, Oregon, with the claim that it has the youngest 1936 chaplain of any subordinate Grange in the United States. This is the bright young woman here pictured, Miss Jenny Sophie Keikkala, who is 14 years old, but looking forward to her 15th birthday very soon. She is filling her office as chaplain in an efficient and reverent way, very much to the satisfaction of her associates in Westland Grange, who number 76 at the present time, notwithstanding this subordinate is scarcely more than 16 months old.

Not only has Westland Grange, which is located in the town of Hermiston, this youthful chaplain whom it is glad to present to National Grange Monthly readers everywhere, but young officers quite predominate in the leadership list of the present year. When installed last November some of them with their respective ages were as follows:

"William Harris, steward, aged 20 years; Harold Laird, assistant steward, 15 years; Samuel Keikkala, Jr., gate keeper, 17 years; Miss Joretta Mulkins, Ceres, 14 years; Miss Alma Laird, Treasurer, 14 years; Miss Jenny S. Keikkala, chaplain, 14 years. Two other young girls, aged 16 and 18 years respectively, were installed in the officers' list at the same time, but have since married and removed from the town.

CLUBBERS ATTEND EXPOSITION

The Pacific International Livestock show in Portland during 1936 will long be a vivid memory to Marie Skovbo and Wallace Buholts who this week were in Portland to attend the Pacific International as guests of the First National Bank of Portland, because they both led all Umatilla county boys and girls in 4-H Club leadership and achievement. The bank awarded 42 free trips, with hotel accommodations, transportation, expenses and a great variety of entertainment, to one boy and one girl from 21 Oregon county 4-H Club groups, deciding the winners by totalling their points of leadership and achievement as shown on their 4-H Club charts.

Arriving in Portland Monday, these 4-H Club representatives were greeted by Grant Hemphill and Miss Bertha Singer, First National Bank employees who are special chaperones for the group during their stay in Portland. A visit to the Pacific International Livestock Exposition was first event of Monday's entertainment, followed by attendance at the 4-H Club Banquet held in Penney Hall on the exposition grounds. The remainder of the evening the bank's 4-H Club guests participated in the Boys' and Girls' 4-H Livestock parade in the exposition arena and attended the horseshow.

Entertainment during their visit included: a tour of the head office of the First National Bank of Portland early Tuesday morning, visits to the Exposition, sight-seeing tours of Portland, a banquet with First National Bank officers as hosts on Tuesday evening and an evening at one of Portland's finest theatres.

Following a farewell luncheon on Wednesday, Marie Skovbo and Wallace Buholts left Portland for their return trip.

MARKETING CO-OPS SHOW GROWTH

Farmers' fruit and vegetable marketing associations in Oregon experienced a gain in both membership and volume of business during the 1935-36 season, according to figures assembled this week by A. C. Adams, president of the Bank for Cooperatives at Spokane.

The 52 groups handling fruits and vegetables in the state have a combined membership of approximately 9,500 as compared with 8,600 the year before, and they increased their volume by $1,600,000 to reach a total of approximately $9,600,000. Only California, Florida, Washington and Colorado outrank Oregon among all states in the country in volume of fruits and vegetables marketed cooperatively.

The Bank for Cooperatives makes facility, working capital and commodity loans on a sound business basis to qualified associations, President Adams explains, and also extends help on management and research problems.

WESTLAND GRANGE H. E. CLUB MEETS

The Home Economics club of the Westland Grange met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. M. Berry. The afternoon was spent in sewing for a bazaar which will be held in the near future. The club voted to send $5 to Bandon to assist in the relief of fire stricken refugees there.

An all day meeting is planned for the next regular meeting which will be held in the Grange hall Wednesday, October 14th. A pot luck dinner will be served at noon and all members are urged to be present.

A number of the Westland Grange members motored to Irrigon Wednesday night to take part in the booster night program.

POMONA GRANGE REPORT

(Continued from page 1) The Grange to be voted on by the electorate in November, and on Grange work in general, asserting that the building and development of individual character is the greatest accomplishment of the Grange; development of individuals in the better understanding of youth movements, legislation, woman's place in the Grange, and in our economic life.

The program closed with a song by the audience. A recess of 30 minutes was allowed by the Pomona master, for visiting with the State Grange Party, consisting of the state master and wife, the state lecturer, and Mr. Carson of the Grange at Portland.

The business session was taken up at 4:00 o'clock, at which time resolutions were introduced and reports of committees given.

Resolution was adopted supporting the act providing for an appropriation by the county of one-tenth of one per cent for rodent control. Also resolution was adopted endorsing action taken by the "Blow Control" committee of the county in seeking to prevent wind erosion in certain sections of the county.

The subject of the Agricultural Conservation program was discussed and it was recommended that each subordinate grange invite a speaker to explain the compliance provisions of this program. Mr. Peck or Harry Miller were suggested as men who could do this well.

The report of the road committee was given by Ernest Heliker, and the subject was discussed at length with the hope of something definite being accomplished in the future, since considerable dissatisfaction was expressed and constructive criticism offered.

The budget committee of which Orville Cutsforth is chairman, and which was appointed for the purpose of securing more information as to how our county budget is allotted, and promoting a better understanding between our county officials and county residents, reported that so far the county budget committee had not met but had been informed he would be notified when this committee meets.

The Highway Beautification committee was urged by the Pomona Master to put on in cooperation with the Pomona Lecturer, one program each year relative to this subject in each subordinate grange of the county.

The subject of grassfires came up during this business session, and means of control of such were discussed with a view to further investigation.

Mary Lundell, county deputy and state chairman of H. E. C. of the Grange, gave an interesting talk on State Grange Conferences and urged a good attendance at the one to be held at Boardman October 12th.

FARM PROGRAM DISCUSSED

County and community committeemen, representing the Umatilla County Agricultural Conservation Association, met in the Federal Court room in Pendleton on September 28 to consider recommendations for a farm program. It was the unanimous agreement of the 31 persons present that so far as the wheat farmer is concerned, the so-called trashy fallow soil conservation operation was of most importance. The weed problem, too, came in for serious discussion, and the group recommended that greater consideration be given, as well as larger payments applied to the solving of this difficult question.

The orchard group representing the Milton-Freewater district expressed the opinion that the program as it now stands is not sufficiently attractive to fruit growers, and should be altered to provide for at least a minimum payment of $20.00 on all orchards of 20 acres or less in those cases where cover crops were turned down for soil building. The group felt, however, that the present regulations should stand, to the effect that hay should not be cut, nor any crop removed, where this payment was to be received, the crop to be used entirely for soil building. It was thought, too, that the assessed valuation of orchards should be taken into consideration in determining the proper returns or grants.

In reviewing the situation dealing with the diversion of grain or other crop-producing lands to permanent grass plantings, it was recommended that any such plantings of grasses or legumes be provided a substantial diversion payment for maintenance, this to deal with plantings made in 1936 or in subsequent years. It was the feeling that the 1937 payment should be as great as that of 1936 in such cases.

The crop insurance feature of the program was discussed, and the group voted favorably upon a recommendation that this be retained as a part of any program which might be developed. It was not determined specifically as to whether this should deal with the so-called ever normal granary idea, or whether premiums could be paid in cash as deduction from the grants due producers under the conservation program. It was felt, however, that the crop insurance feature was of very substantial importance.

Those present were Henry Dell, C. L. Upham, James Beamer, Elmer Crow, Elmer Chastain, James Buchanan, LeRoy Penland, Sam Ingle, E. E. Walden, A. C. Denny, George Woodward, Guy Rockwell, W. W. Wegner, Lon Etter, Claude Meyers, Charles Betts, Jens Terjeson, James Mossie, Wm. McKenzie, Fred Johnson, Otis Lienauisen, Wm. Steen, John Crow, A. R. Coppock, Harmer Snyder, C. E. Fisk, M. H. Carter, Hans Pahl, Edwin Hill, Ernest Duncan and Walter A. Holt.

CO-OP GLEANINGS

By E. H. Dunning.

Cooperators may disagree as to the type of government aid which they believe the Department of Agriculture should render, but they will all surely applaud the specific statements of Secretary Wallace in the concluding chapters of his latest book "Whose Constitution" relative to the Cooperative Movement. A Christian Century editorial well says that, "Mr. Wallace's utterances—vocal and written—have foreshadowed a more specific commitment to the cooperative way of life for a long time, but his present position takes him far out ahead of anything that any new dealer has ever said yet—or has been expected to say." Two statements in particular which Mr. Wallace made can be quoted effectively by cooperative speakers and writers. The first is his specific declaration of the need of Consumers' as well as Producers' Cooperatives, when he wrote, "Producers' Cooperatives are not enough—there must be Consumers' Cooperatives as well as Producers' Cooperatives." The second is his general statement, "A Cooperative Economic society is the living stream of thought for the twentieth century as a democratic political society was for the eighteenth."

Cinnamon commonly used in America is not cinnamon at all, but is made from the bark of the cassia tree grown in Java and South China.
