A section of the federal code states that except as otherwise provided by law, all stocks, bonds, treasury notes and other obligations of the United States shall be exempt from taxation by or under state or municipal or local authority. OREGON STATE NEWS OF GENERAL INTEREST

Brief Resume of Happenings of the Week Collected for Our Readers

Newport—Lincoln county schools this year reached a new record for enrollment.

Salem—Repeal of the $10 annual license fee on pickup trucks will be recommended to the next session of the legislature.

Portland—Residential construction is ending the year at the highest level since 1928—even beating the magic boom year of 1929.

Silverton—One hundred and fifty bales of hops recently were shipped from storage here to London. The hops were sold at 47 cents.

Gold Beach—Reports here indicate that a state patrolman was shot, causing a flesh wound, while trailing hunters who were illegally stalking game at night.

Salem—Oregon's 1937-1938 budget will balance and show an anticipated surplus revenue of $529,509.98 according to Budget Director Wallace S. Wharton.

Salem—Henry J. Bean, veteran member of the Oregon supreme court, recently passed his 83rd birthday. Bean has served on the supreme bench for 26 years.

Hermiston—Several baby beef clubs have been formed here and boys and girls were accommodated by the county agent's office in their desire to buy a beef animal.

Salem—Three Oregon cities will become dry after January 1, 1937 as a result of local option voting in the last election. They are Halsey, Newberg and Monmouth.

Estacada—Classes were recently suspended while the students moved to the new $140,000 union high school building which is now in use. The old building is for sale or rent.

Portland—The longshoremen's strike is costing the logging and lumbering groups $100,000 daily according to word received here from the West Coast Lumbermen's association.

Salem—This city is to have a first aid car for its fire department. The apparatus will be dedicated to the memory of Floyd B. McMullen who lost his life in the state capitol fire in April, 1935.

Scotts Mills—Potato dealers have been offering $1.75 for White Rose potatoes. This is the first season that this variety has been grown here. The growers say that they are an improvement over the seed planted.

North Bend—The Pacific Coast Fishermen's union met here recently. About 2000 delegates were present. They will ask for conservation laws and navigation aids from the government of United States and Canada.

Portland—The Oregon system of grading butter and eggs may be adopted by the federal government, according to H. C. Raven, creamery operator, who just returned from a national association meeting in the East.

Portland—Licenses of two physicians were suspended for engaging in contract practice which is frowned upon by the medical profession. Contract practice has found favor among many persons who approve the less expensive features of the system.

St. Helens—For the first time in local history a Chinese subject was granted citizenship. The applicant, C. J. Pape, resident of St. Helens for 15 years, lived in China for 44 years. He was a native of Germany before becoming a Chinese subject.

BIG CROP; BIG PRICES TOO
Klamath Falls—It is not often that a bumper crop comes hand in hand with bumper prices, but that is just what the Klamath basin enjoyed the past season. The total crop averaging over 280 sacks to the acre for Klamath land aggregated over 6000 carloads. Prices ranged up to $2 per sack. So it is plain that Klamath farmers with potatoes have been "cleaning up."

HOT WELL, A MYSTERY!
Bend—At Millican there is a well which turned hot almost over night. Recently, W. A. Rahn filled his cistern from the 409 foot well, and was amazed to discover that the temperature of the normally cool water was almost boiling. He scoffed the idea that volcanic fires were coming to life again. The water in taste resembled that of the mineral springs at East Lake about twenty miles away. More tests are being made.

Hillsboro—A teacher and pupil recently had a narrow escape from death when a bullet crashed through a school house window passing over the head of the teacher and under the arm of a 13 year old pupil. Police are investigating.

Hood River—Members of the Growers club, composed of mid-Columbia orchardists, met to discuss plans to further legislation which would bar strikes or lockouts until efforts at arbitration by the state board proved useless.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Salting Politics Away

LAS VEGAS, N. M.—A few weeks ago everybody on the train I'm traveling on was talking politics. Today everybody nearly is talking football. Exceptions noted thus far:

1. A middle aged lady talking symptoms. It seems she has had practically everything except lock-jaw. And as for operations—well, her whole life must have been an open book. I gather she never had a secret that was not shared with at least three doctors.

2. A gentleman connected with the movies talking movies. In an eighteen-hour shift.

3. Another gentleman talking self. We can tell that, up to now, he is just browsing around the edges of this fascinating topic. By tomorrow we expect him to get really into the meat of it.

4. An elderly gentleman talking steadily. He has been going since we left Los Angeles. We don't know exactly what his subject is. He has not said yet.

Praising Grand Canyon.

SCOOTING across Arizona I was moved to weave into this complete description of the Grand Canyon. But mercy stayed my hand. Instead, I have decided to send to all deserving applicants souvenir postcards showing views of the canyon. This will give the general idea. It looks just like the postcards, only larger.

There's one thing about the Grand Canyon—long after every other natural wonder has been desecrated with architectural doodads and the scribbled names of individuals whose signatures would look all right on the register of any dollar-a-day American plan hotel, but are sort of out of place when smeared over one of creation's masterpieces, the Grand Canyon will still be unspoiled.

California Rivers.

IT'S fun to cross a river with at least a trace of wetness in it. It must be my early raising, but I like a river to be dampish—in spots, anyhow.

After two years I can't get used to southern California rivers, where, for nine months a year, the only craft you can navigate is a stone-boat, and unless they use a sprinkling system you can't see where you're going, and they deepen the channel by blasting and not by dredging, and you come back from an aquatic trip full of hayfever dust. They do say the fish have to learn to swim all over again every fall, and down between the steep banks the poor little frogs suffer terribly from sunburn. It's a great country for Holy Rollers but hard on Baptists.

Crater Versus Manville.

I'M TORN between temptations. I'd like to follow the search now on again for Judge Crater, who has been mysteriously missing all these years except for the two or three hundred times when somebody said he'd been seen. On the other hand, Tommy Manville, the husband of his country, is reported as having fresh woman trouble back east—this time of a blonde nature.

Still, I can always prow the deserts, looking for the judge. Out here, we hunt him at regular intervals. He's different from the Liberty League. It disappeared just as suddenly as he did, but stayed that way.

Commercialized Football.

ONCE upon a time, and not so very long ago, a college was known by the football team it kept. Now it's known largely as the college that some football team is keeping. And sport writers say that more money is now being wagered on football than on any other sport we have. And it doesn't take an expert's eye to see that, each season, football is becoming more and more commercialized, more and more professional, profit-making industry. Well, if football is to go the way of wrestling and horse-racing and prize-fighting, it'll pretty soon be so that about the only game a chap can play without fixing somebody beforehand will be solitaire.

Still, being a football devotee does keep you out in the open air. But you could say that same thing for a seagull.

Happiness

Be cheerful! Which will you do—smile, and make others happy, or be crabbed, and make everyone around you miserable? The amount of happiness you can produce is incalculable if you show a smiling face and speak pleasant words. There is no joy like that which springs from a kind act or pleasant deed, and you may feel it at night when you rest, and at morning when you rise, and through all the day when about your business.

"The Man Who O-O" Tales and Traditions from American Political History
FRANK E. HAGEN and ELMO SCOTT WATSON

A CANDIDATE "ANNOUNCES"

ON THE morning of April 4, 1900, the New York World printed what has been described as "one of the most curious announcements of a presidential candidacy ever made, one of the most naive declarations ever given out by any man who had even the briefest parts in American politics."

Admiral George Dewey, the "Hero of Manila" had given an interview in which he said in part: "If the American people want me for this high office, I shall be only too willing to serve them. . . . Since studying this subject I am convinced that the office of the President is not such a very difficult one to fill, his duties being mainly to execute the laws of Congress. Should I be chosen for this exalted position I would execute the laws of Congress as faithfully as I have always executed the orders of my superior."

"Not such a difficult office to fill," indeed! That was a jolt to the hero-worshipping American public. Already it had begun to suspect that its idol had feet of clay. It had gone wild over his victory in the Philippines. Upon his return to America, it gave him the reception such as few conquering heroes had. It had built a triumphal arch in his honor in New York and had raised money to buy a house in Washington for him. Not long after his return, he had taken a second wife who was much younger than he was and he had decided the gift house to her. That didn't sit so well with his worshippers, nor did the social ambitions of his new wife. Moreover, a matter of religious prejudice was injected into the gossip about the Deweys.

Dewey had been approached on the subject of being a candidate for President and had disclaimed any such ambition. But a "Stop Bryan!" element in the Democratic party had persisted in promoting his candidacy and at last he yielded to the temptation.

Then he made his amazing announcement and the public immediately turned against him. Where he had been previously praised, he was now ridiculed. His candidacy was generally characterized as the "climax to a series of unfortunate mistakes." As quickly as that candidacy had blossomed, it withered. America apparently would elect a military hero President, as witness William Henry Harrison, Zachary Taylor and Ulysses S. Grant. But, as for a naval hero—George Dewey was the first, and so far, the last, to find out that a sea dog isn't wanted in the White House!

A STUDY CAMPAIGNER

THERE is a physical side to this business of campaigning for the presidency.

In the earlier days, candidates went personally into the hinterlands, making, not one-night stands but brief pauses interrupted to move on to a newer and perhaps more fertile field. It was a tremendous strain on them physically.

Today, with improved travel accommodations and the help of radio, campaigning is not the arduous task of former years, but it has its moments.

William Jennings Bryan, torch bearer of extraordinary record in politics, doubtless is the man who proved the sturdiest campaigner of them all. And even he almost broke down.

Bryan was physically fit and energetic when he first stumped the country in 1896, bearing his cross of gold. He insisted on patronizing the local trains, riding in the day coaches at the outset of his tour.

In that campaign, Bryan delivered as many as 20 speeches a day, a great part of them from the rear of his slow-moving train. In Tennessee, his throat began to balk. When this was known, many curatives were pressed upon him. One bottle of a remedy for hoarseness was tested by Benton McMillen of Tennessee and found to contain a caustic fluid which might have injured Bryan permanently.

It was toward the end of that campaign that Bryan began to approach exhaustion. He had completed a three-days' series of speeches in Chicago. Despite his splendid physique, the strain began to tell. He was scheduled to travel north of Chicago when his "loop" engagements were ended. But so trying had been the requirements of his tour that it was necessary to delay the start of the party for more than two hours.

Earliest Settlements

Newport and Portsmouth share with Providence the distinction of being the earliest settlements. After Roger Williams settled at Providence in 1636 another band of religious "outcasts" from Massachusetts, under the leadership of William Coddington and Anne Hutchinson, settled at Portsmouth in 1639. When dissension broke out in this colony William Coddington and a group moved on to Newport in 1639.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for November 29

CHRISTIAN BROTHERHOOD

LESSON TEXT—Philemon 4-20.

GOLDEN TEXT—There is neither bond nor free. . . . for ye all are one in Christ Jesus. Galatians 3:28.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul's Shortest Letter.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul's Shortest Letter.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Slave Becomes a Brother.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christ Transforming Social Relationships.

Letters are always interesting, and especially so when they bring good news. The brief epistle to Philemon is one of unusual charm. Paul writes to Philemon, a Christian brother in Colosse, to inform him that he is sending back to him Onesimus, who was apparently Philemon's brother (v. 16) but who had through misfortune and sin (vv. 18, 19) become a slave. Evidently, he had stolen from Philemon what he needed to enable him to run away, and had ultimately come to Rome.

Having reached this great city he no doubt was satisfied that he had placed himself beyond the reach of anyone who knew him. But he had reckoned without God, who not only knew where he was (see Ps. 139:7-12) but also what he needed. He is brought into touch with the imprisoned apostle, Paul, and through his ministry the fugitive slave becomes a "brother beloved in the Lord" (v. 16). How marvelous is the grace of God, and how patiently he deals with those who attempt to flee even from his love!

Our study of this epistle centers around four great words.

I. Appreciation (vv. 4-8).

After an introductory word Paul speaks of his love for Philemon, his appreciation of the latter's hospitality, his fellowship, and his faith.

Is Paul flattering his friend in order that he may grant his request? Certainly not, but he is expressing his true feelings toward a faithful brother. We need a revival of Christian courtesy and appreciation of one another.

The man who thinks that he must show that he is true to Christ by treating others with boorish rudeness needs to learn a new lesson from the Lord himself, and from his Word.

II. Consideration (vv. 9-14).

Paul could have kept silent, and encouraged Onesimus to remain with him. He needed help (v. 13) but without the consent of Philemon he would not keep Onesimus (v. 14). At the same time he reminds Philemon very tactfully that he owes them both loving consideration.

We have here a striking illustration of the candor and considerate thoughtfulness which should characterize the dealings of Christians with one another. We need to put away careless trampling upon the rights of others in order that our work may go forward.

III. Brotherhood (vv. 15-16).

The fact of regeneration does not change a man's social status so far as the world is concerned, but within the circle of God's household he becomes a "brother beloved." Let us look less at the accidents of circumstance, education, or birth, which differ and rather magnify the family relationship, for all who are born again are brethren.

IV. Partnership (vv. 17-20).

Paul counted Philemon not only a benefactor and a brother, but a partner in the great enterprise of God on earth. Partners share both joys and sorrows, gains and losses. They stand by in the hour of need, they plan and labor, weep and rejoice together. One wonders what might be accomplished for Christ if all Christians would accord one another even the ordinary considerations of partnership.

It should be noted in closing that verses 17 and 18 present an illustration of the great doctrine of imputation. The wrong of Onesimus was to be charged to Paul, and Paul's standing with Philemon is the basis of his acceptance of Onesimus. Even so the righteousness of Christ is imputed to the believer, because our sins have been laid upon him. What a wonderful Saviour!

A Mother's Love

No language can express the power and beauty and heroism and majesty of a mother's love. It shrinks not where man cowers, and grows stronger where man faints, and over the wastes of worldly fortune sends the radiance of its queenless fidelity like a star in heaven.—E. H. Chapin.

Spare Hours

Bind together your spare hours by the cord of some definite purpose, and you know not how much you may accomplish. Gather up the fragments of time, that nothing may be lost.—W. A. Taylor.

Humble Deeds

The humblest deeds, prompted by a pure and unselfish motive, measure larger in God's sight than apparently much greater deeds which are done to be seen of men and for the aggrandizement of self.—Gunn.
