

New Queen Reveals Democratic Personality

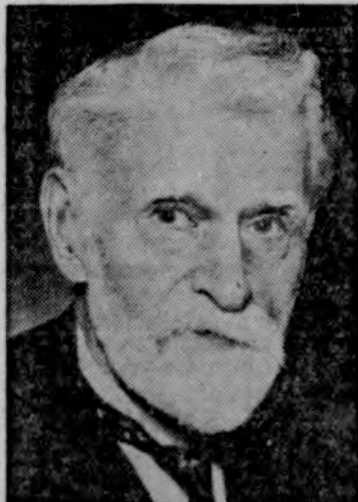

Illustrating the democratic qualities that made her popular as the Duchess of York is the above photograph of Queen Elizabeth of England. Instead of the formal bow, she rushed forward to give an impulsive handshake to the official who greeted her at a London function. Behind her are her children, Princess Margaret Rose and Princess Elizabeth.

Officials Inspect New Air Giant

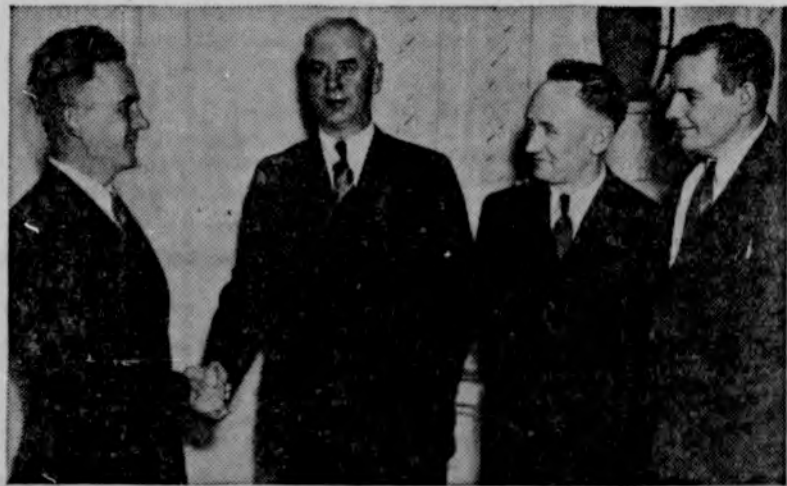

W. A. Patterson (right), president of United Air Lines, and D. B. Colyer, vice president, inspect one of the company's new $3,000,000 fleet of 28 new 21-passenger type Douglas transports which are being placed in faster service on the New York-Chicago-California airway.

FAMED ENGINEER IS 90

Ambrose Swasey of Cleveland, inventor and recipient of every major honor the engineering profession can award, who recently celebrated his ninetieth birthday.

"C. I. O." Elects Council Members

Members of the council who were elected by employee representatives from 42 steel plants between Cleveland and the Atlantic coast at a recent meeting in Pittsburgh. Left to right: Elmer Maloy, president; Phillip Murray, speaker; Thomas Kane, assistant secretary; and William Garrity, vice president.

Royal Exiles of Greece Are Buried at Home

Procession seen winding through the streets of Athens, Greece, recently, as the remains of King Constantine, Queen Sophia and Queen Olga of Greece, who died in exile were borne to the royal mausoleum at Tatoi, near the capital. Twenty princes and princesses of the royal family, as well as church dignitaries, statesmen and diplomats were in the procession.

OREGON STATE NEWS OF GENERAL INTEREST

Brief Resume of Happenings of the Week Collected for Our Readers

Silverton—Silver Falls district, south of Silverton, is presenting a mass of yellow blooms, put out by ambitious Scotch broom bushes. Pussywillows and daisies also have "jumped the gun" and are flowering.

Salem—Incommensurate salaries of chief house and senate clerks and of chief clerks of certain committees during the state legislature, are due for some definite consideration soon. The result will probably be a thorough pruning of these items.

Port Orford—Landis Rohrer, San Francisco tourist, evidently was not superstitious—he didn't believe in signs. The signs said that the cutting of trees along highways is prohibited in the state of Oregon. Justice Tichenor estimated the tree's worth at $20, which Rohrer paid.

Corvallis—An estimated influx of 5000 settlers, new arrivals to the state of Oregon since 1933, will be given coaching in agricultural problems peculiar to their special sections of the state. Experts from the state agricultural school are planning a series of meetings for this purpose.

Mt. Angel—A hurry-up clinic called recently here when it was discovered that young Eddie Hassing was suffering from smallpox saw 102 adults and children vaccinated against the disease. Although Eddie had stayed away from school for two weeks, many of his friends had called on him.

Newberg—Lincoln county truck operators, in conference here last week, favored state regulation of log hauling rates by Oregon public utilities commissioner. Operators also decided to join motorists in opposition to diversion of highway funds, particularly any plan whereby cities and counties would be given an additional cut of gasoline tax money.

Pendleton—Supporting their stand that action must be taken to feed deer and elk in Umatilla and Whitman forests, 75 stockmen and sportsmen recently gathered at Pilot Rock to appoint a committee to confer with state legislators. Stockmen said that the animals are invading pastures in their search for food. One man claimed he was playing host unwillingly to 243 deer and elk.

La Grande—Of 61 forest fires in privately owned forest lands of Union and Wallawa counties, during the past season, smokers were responsible for 25, said District Warden L. C. Morehead in a recently submitted report. Lightning caused seven; logging, three; railroads, three; brush-burning, three; burning of slashings, two, and incendiarism, one. Five were reported as miscellaneous.

The Dalles—Basalt slabs, symmetrically placed, found near Mosier, apparently are the remains of an altar built by an ancient civilization, according to Art Freese, Wenatchee, Wash., member of the Columbia River Archaeological society. Although the slabs have been known for some years, they did not receive particular attention until United States engineers, surveying for the probable flow-line of the Columbia, found them again.

YELLOW LIGHTS OKAY

Salem—No such order as that allegedly quoted by Lieutenant Richard C. Williams, Portland district office of the state police, warning motorists against the use of amber cellulose covering over automobile headlights has been issued to state police officers, according to Charles Pray, superintendent.

Pray characterized the statement that the use of such alleged ray filtering substances is contrary to law as a "trivial technicality."

SALMON MEN COMPLAIN

Astoria—The finding of a 12-inch pilchard in the stomach of an ocean-caught troll salmon at a local cannery has revived the opposition of fishermen to the pilchard reduction industry. Ocean trollers have long objected to the granting of licenses to shore pilchard plants because they considered the taking of that fish as robbing the feeding ground of salmon.

Pacific Coast Fishermen's union, comprised of all trollers in Oregon and many in Washington, besides gillnetters in coastal streams and in Canada, has fought the extension of the pilchard fishery in the northwest. Last season, however, only a small amount of pilchards was caught off the Oregon coast.

Newberg—The Newberg soil erosion project, one of nine in Oregon serving as large-scale demonstration of methods, includes 44,600 acres of the Chehalem mountain area, which consists almost entirely of low, rounded hills.

Sandy—Thomas McGuire, Marmot district farmer, is hoping local hunters soon exhaust the $100 set aside by county officials for paying bounties on slain coyotes. He blames the coyotes for killing 27 of his pigs during recent months.

It's Harder to Lose Pounds Than It Is to Gain More of Them

Overweight Generally Has But One Cause and That Is Overeating.

"The slim, the irritable, the hungry woman takes on the proportion of one of our minor menaces," says Fannie Hurst in her amusing little book, "No Food With My Meals." Miss Hurst is writing frankly from her own experience in attempting successfully to lose pounds. She admits herself that although she undertook her reduction program under the direction of the doctor, she was not content with the comparatively slow results and cut still further the low calorie diet which the physician gave her.

It is one of the mysteries of life that it is much harder to lose added pounds than it is to gain them. The bathroom scales, which are now so general a part of equipment, enable us to keep a check on weight. It is not so easy for those extra pounds which creep upon us unaware as it was once upon a time. A few days of dieting in time will save the slender figure. Remember, however, that, in general, the addition of a few extra pounds with the years is an asset. They are usually needed to balance those lines which the years write.

Unless there is some glandular deficiency, overweight has but one cause, namely, overeating. The avoidance of more calories than are needed for use by the body for its own processes and for the activity of our lives may usually be a simple matter if there are no between meal sweets and no over-indulgence in bread, butter, other fats and rich desserts with meals. Not complete avoidance! It is only the second helpings that are usually responsible for undue weight gain. Looking out for that pound in time will actually save nine. Just one word of warning, however, don't advertise publicly your diet program.

Coffee Jelly.

2 tablespoons granulated gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
3 1/2 cups hot strong coffee
1/2 cup sugar

Soak gelatin in cold water, add fresh hot coffee and the sugar. Stir until dissolved and pour into molds to set.

Mineral Oil Mayonnaise.

1/2 teaspoon mustard 1 egg yolk
1 teaspoon salt 1 cup mineral oil
Cayenne Lemon Juice
1/2 teaspoon sugar Vinegar

Mix dry ingredients and add yolk of egg. Mix well and add one-half teaspoon vinegar. Add mineral oil gradually, drop by drop at first, then more quickly, beating with egg beater. As mixture thickens thin with lemon juice or vinegar and continue adding oil. When finished mixture should be very stiff. Keep covered in the ice box.
© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

Bunyan Created Lakes

Elk and Torch lakes, the beautiful finger lakes that stretch parallel for miles along the shore of Lake Michigan near Elk Rapids, date back to the days of Paul Bunyan, according to the old lumberjacks.

Lake Michigan, they say, was scooped out by the mighty Paul, to be used as a log pond. Instead of skidding the logs into a stream and floating them down to his pond Paul would hitch onto a section of land and drag it over to the lake, log off the timber, and then haul the section back.

One day Paul hooked onto a particularly heavy timbered section near the Boardman and started Babe, the blue ox, out to haul it over to the lake. There had been a heavy rain, the ground was greasy, and Babe's feet slipped.

Torch and Elk lakes remain, an eternal testimonial to the blue ox and the time his feet slipped.—Detroit Free Press.

Here's Simple Way to Ease a Cold

Two Quick-Acting, Quick-Dissolving Bayer Aspirin Tablets with a Glass of Water

The modern way to ease a cold is this: Two Bayer Aspirin tablets the moment you feel a cold coming on. Then repeat, if necessary, according to instructions in the box.

Try this way. Your doctor, we know, will endorse it. For it is a quick, effective means of combating a cold. Ask for Bayer Aspirin by the full name at your druggist's — not for "aspirin" alone.

At the same time, if you have a sore throat, crush and dissolve three BAYER tablets in one-third glass of water. And gargle with this mixture twice.

The Bayer Aspirin you take internally will act to combat fever and the pains which usually accompany colds. The gargle will act as a medicinal gargle to provide almost instant relief from rawness and pain. It is really marvelous; for it acts like a local anesthetic on the irritated membrane of your throat.

15¢ FOR A DOZEN
2 FULL DOZEN FOR 25¢
VIRTUALLY 1¢ A TABLET

Sit in Your Chair at Home . . . and Shop

The things you want to buy . . . at the time you want to buy them . . . at the price you want to pay. You can find these right in the paper. Your newspaper advertisements make it possible to do your "looking around" right at home . . . and then go downtown to do your buying . . . saving you time and energy.