The difficult task of learning some five hundred Chinese words for her latest Twentieth Century-Fox triumph, "Stowaway," coming Sunday to the Oasis theatre, proved loads of fun, rather than tedious work to Shirley Temple.

When the picture was completed, Shirley, with the help of her Chinese teacher, carried on a conversation in Chinese with a six-year-old youngster from Peiping, China.

After a few warm-up questions, Shirley asked the boy if he knew any English words.

CO-OPERATIVES
MAKING GROWTH

Spokane, Wn.—Reflecting steady growth and increasing volume, cooperative marketing and purchasing associations in Washington handled products totaling nearly $58,000,000 in value for their 78,000 farmer members during the 1935-36 marketing season, according to figures announced this week by A. C. Adams, president of the Bank for Cooperatives at Spokane. This represents a substantial gain in membership and a large increase in business volume over the year before and if membership and dollar volume of cooperative financing organizations were added, the totals would be considerably greater, Mr. Adams points out.
