Frazier-Lempke Decision
 The unexpected unanimous upholding of the Frazier-Lempke act by the United States Supreme court will prove a boon to debt ridden farmers, who could not otherwise find a way out of their perplexities. On the other hand it will also be unpopular to loan agencies.

The farmer may apply for a three years moratorium and retain possession of his property. The act also provides for a composition of his indebtedness, or a cutting down, or readjustment of the obligation. In the main the effect will be conciliation, and adjustment in meritorious cases, and a defense against aggressions of ugly creditors.

The law had been found unconstitutional by a large majority of federal district judges, and many cases have been settled adversely, and illegally, against the interests of farmers. Lawyers refused to take cases under the act, as they had little faith in a favorable decision, or preferred practice from clients who held the mortgages, or had more money. Therefore the law had become almost inactive.

Coming like a flash out of a clear sky is the unanimous decision of the supreme court in favor of the constitutionality of the measure, and lawyers and courts must act accordingly. What effect the decision will have on farm loans, old and new, and the credit of farmers will prove an interesting problem. The campaign proposal of Congressman Lempke to loan money on farms from a two billion dollar federal fund at two percent interest is very likely to receive attention by congress. Such cheap money may refine loan companies as well as become a subsidy to farming to reduce cost of production, and also lower the rising cost of living in the cities.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"REALITY" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 28.

The Golden Text was, "Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations" (Ps. 90: 1).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all" (I Chron. 29: 11).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Scriptures imply that God is All-in-All. From this it follows that nothing possesses reality nor existence except the divine Mind and His Ideas . . . All the real is eternal. Perfection underlies reality. Without perfection, nothing is wholly real" (pp. 331, 353).
