

FARM CO-OPERATIVE DIVISION

A MESSAGE TO EVERY MEMBER.

VACATION FOR HOMEMAKERS

An inexpensive, but entirely restful and refreshing vacation is being made possible again this year for some 600 Oregon homemakers in 21 counties who are signing up to attend the 12 vacation camps sponsored by the Oregon Extension service. This will be the sixth year that such camps have been held in Oregon.

The camps run from four to six days, and the cost per day is kept to the minimum that will make them self-supporting, and part of this may be paid with farm produce that can be used in camp. Any woman over 18 years of age is welcome at the camps, but it is essential that those planning to attend should sign up promptly with their county agent or home demonstration agent, so that plans can be completed, according to Mrs. Azalea Sager, state leader of home economics extension, who is in charge of the camps.

Scenic sites as convenient as possible for the women planning to attend are chosen for the vacation camps. Those to be used this year include forest camps, private camps and those belonging to Campfire Girls and other organizations. Wherever possible a woodsy spot has been chosen near a lake or stream to provide swimming, boating, hiking and nature study. Accommodations vary from tents and tables under the trees to shelters and kitchens in forest camps and cabins and recreation halls in others. Complete information about any particular camp can be had from the home demonstration agent or county agent or from Mrs. Sager at Corvallis.

Homemakers attending the camps have no dishes to wash, no meals to prepare—no work at all, in fact, except to make up their own cots. Each camp is staffed with a director, assistant director, cook and helpers, registered nurses, life guards, librarians and chore boys. In the crafts work, which is taught at the camps for those interested, emphasis is to be placed this year on use of natural resources, according to Miss Izola Jensen, extension specialist in community social organization, who is in charge of that phase of the program.

Counties having camps this year, with dates, are as follows: Clackamas, July 14 to 18; Deschutes, Polk, Yamhill, Marion, Benton and Linn, July 25 to 28; Klamath and Jackson, July 26 to 31; Coos and Douglas, July 21 to 25; Josephine, July 18-22; Lane, August 3 to 8; Umatilla, August 4 to 8; Multnomah, August 9 to 13; Columbia, August 12 to 15; Baker, July 28 to August 1; Wasco and Hood River, August 4 to 8; Malheur, August 11 to 15, all dates inclusive.

Using Columbus' motto of "Sail On, Sail On, Sail On," members of the So We Sew club, and the We Can Canning and Kookie Kooking club, under Esther McMullen and Mrs. W. A. Hineine, met last Wednesday to further plans for the ice cream social to be held July 29th on the lawn at the reclamation building.

The meeting held top interest up to the time of dismissal. Although exact assignments of parts for the program have not been formulated by committees, these will be announced at the next meeting. The girls appeared to be alert in regard to this coming event.

A committee consisting of Esther McMullen and Frances Dawson was chosen to serve at the next meeting. Ann Sommerer and Marie Skovbo acted as hostess serving ice cream and cookies. The next meeting will be held July 28th.

This year for the first time there will be a cooking and clothing judging contest for 4-H club girls at the Umatilla Project fair, September 2, 3 and 4. Each Home Economics club may enter a judging team of two girls to represent their club.

In cooking, the members will judge four classes in baking: light bread, angel food cake, drop cookies and baking powder biscuits. In clothing, hand hemmed towels, cotton school costumes, home dresses, and stocking darning will be judged by the contestants. In each contest the first prize will be $1.50, second $1.00 and third 50 cents.

The demonstration team from a Homemaking 4-H club in Lane county and the state champion demonstration team in the Home Economics division at the state fair last year, put on a demonstration at the American Legion hall last Saturday. Jacqueline Morton and Lillian Gear are the team members who demonstrated how to prepare and use raw wool for hooked rugs.

J. T. Pierson, assistant county agent, acted as chairman in the absence of Miss Frances Clinton, home demonstration agent, and introduced Miss Helen Cowgill, state 4-H Home Economics leader, who accompanied the demonstration team. Miss Cowgill gave many pointers and suggestions on judging and demonstrating which will prove helpful to club members taking part in these activities in the future.

After Miss Cowgill introduced the team they presented their work in a capable manner, showing the various stages of cleaning, dyeing and making rolls of the wool in preparation for use in hooked rugs. At the close of the demonstration each one present was allowed to examine a sample of this wool used in a hooked rug.

Miss Cowgill presented various bulletins on home economics which were distributed to those interested.

This is the first time the state champion demonstration team has visited Hermiston.

As a feature of the afternoon entertainment of the Happy Hour Cooking club meeting at the Community hall in Umatilla last Thursday, each girl was asked to read a poem. Calories was the main topic discussed.

These poems were composed by the members, and some of the girls chose to write a song. This one was written by Mary Margaret Kennedy and is to the tune of "I Joined the Navy."

We joined the cooking to see some cooks.

And what did we see, we saw our books,
All our poems we have to make.
If we don't our lives are at stake,
For we're the Happy Hour Cooking Club.

Catherine Kennedy and Veta Moran will serve with Mary Margaret Kennedy on the social committee for the next meeting July 22, for which a surprise feature is planned. Eleanor Fuchek and Marjorie Olson, both of Tacoma, Wn., and guests at the W. E. Kennedy home, were visitors at the meeting.

By Catherine Kennedy.

The Streamline Seam Stitches greatly enjoyed the farewell party given by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kennedy the evening of July 9. The party was held in honor of the departing guests, Mrs. J. E. Fuchek, Miss Eleanor Fuchek and Miss Marjorie Olson from Tacoma, Wn. Mrs. Fuchek is the local leader's sister.

The evening was spent playing games and singing. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Those present were Mrs. Fuchek and daughter Eleanor, Marjorie Olson, Mr. and Mrs. Cooney and children Alice, Tom, Joe and Dan, Mr. and Mrs. Duff Knight, Edith Pettersen, Mrs. Moran and daughter Veta, Grace Bense and Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy and children Don, Agnes, Mary Margaret and Catharine.

COOPERATIVES SUCCEEDING

(Co-op League News Service)
DETROIT—"Self-help, no less than self-government, is indispensable to democracy." Dr. Horace M. Kallen, Professor of Philosophy of the New School for Social Research told the 75th annual convention of the National Education Association meeting here July 1.

"The way in which individual consumers form consumer cooperatives and consumer societies join together in consumer federations, in almost every free country in the world, is an old told tale. Less has been said of the consumer cooperative movement as a free economy, as the basic pattern of the economic organization of liberty," Dr. Kallen declared. "It is like political democracy itself, a method of keeping open and multiplying the ways to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

"The record of consumer cooperative organizations in different parts of the world shows them to accomplish what free competition was supposed to accomplish but did not.

HERMISTON CO-OP CANNERY,
By O. L. Barlow, Manager.

Consumer cooperative organization brings price as close as possible to costs and tends to reduce cost. It ensures to the users the quality of the goods and services they use. It multiplies varieties and increases quantities without exposing the consumer to the risks which face him even with the protective policing of a benevolent government."

Dr. Kallen pointed out that "The prevailing rule of business under a producer economy is 'let the buyer beware'. Every customer buys on faith. He has only the producers' or distributors' word for the quality of the foods he puts in his mouth, the clothes he puts on his back, the roof he puts over his head. He risks his digestion, his health, his safety and his wellbeing on this faith. By contrast the consumers who have successfully joined together in cooperatives have learned and employ the sciences and arts wherewith to control the quality, the quantity, the variety and the costs of the goods and services they consume. By making the buyer one with the seller, consumer cooperation makes it unnecessary for the buyer to beware."

F. B. AUXILIARY LAWN SOCIAL

The Farm Bureau Auxiliary will hold a lawn social in Columbia park Friday, July 23rd, at 8:00 o'clock. Proceeds from the sale of ice cream will go toward a scholarship for a sewing club member of the 4-H clubs. Everyone is invited to come and enjoy an evening with the Auxiliary.

A program is being planned and games will be directed. Ice cream and cake will be served at a reasonable price.

The next meeting will be held Friday, July 16th, with Mrs. J. H. Reid, Mrs. Emma Christley, Mrs. N. W. Bloom and Mrs. Orvil Dawson in charge.

Stanfield Grange Picnic.

The Stanfield Grange will hold its regular meeting the fourth Tuesday in July, which will be the 27th. The business meeting will be preceded by an indoor picnic at the Stanfield Grange hall and everyone is invited to bring a covered dish and be present.

Stanfield Home Economics Club

The Home Economics club of the Stanfield Grange will meet at the home of Mrs. S. L. Chapin in Hermiston Tuesday, July 20th. All members and friends are urged to be present.

POULTRY PROBLEMS RESEARCH TOPIC

Numerous research projects in poultry management have been started or continued by the Oregon State college experiment station as a result of the new appropriation passed by the recent legislature which was specifically earmarked for use in investigation of poultry disease and management problems.

A number of the projects are directly or indirectly connected with the current interest in production of eggs in laying batteries. In order to find what the possibilities are in this field under Oregon conditions, studies are being carried on with these laying batteries and on the related problem of rearing pullets to maturity in confinement.

The study on the control of wet litter and floor heating is being continued, as is the study of the efforts of floor heating on the laying stock. In the nutritional field studies are being made on the possibility of using cornless rations for chicks and laying hens and on the effects of dried yeast added to the feed of the laying flock.

The relative advantage or disadvantage of fall hatched Leghorn chicks as compared with spring hatched chicks for laying purposes is another project being investigated, as is the possible cause of crooked "keels" which develop sometime between the time the pullets are placed in the laying houses in the fall and when the flock is culled the following year.

Problems of turkey hatching and brooding are also being investigated including turkey egg incubation studies and problems of starting poults in battery brooders.

REALISM REALLY SO IN WINCHELL FILM

Motion-picture acting was an absolute cinch for Walter Winchell, for all the famous columnist had to do was be himself and talk shop. In several scenes of the howling, glorious musical he made with Ben Bernie and Alice Faye for Twentieth Century-Fox, "Wake Up and Live," at the Oasis theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, Winchell was actually at work on his daily column and even received genuine tips for his inimitable stories right before the camera.

One setting was the interior of a New York nitery, and Winchell, seated at a ringside table, was ribbing Ben Bernie, who was shaking a stick at all the lads. As soon as director Sidney Lanfield okayed the scene, Winchell answered a New York phone call and came beaming back to his table for the next sequence. From one of his mysterious sources he had once more scooped everyone on an important story.
