Every business man in Hermiston is expected to do his best in floats for the parade.

Individual farmers are urged to decorate their trucks or cars with products from their farms and take part in the parade. This is a good crop year in which every farmer should have something he is proud to show.

Frank Bilderback and W. L. Hamm deserve credit for the success of the predatory animal eradication contest which closed last week when prizes were issued to contestants. Each year the number of magpies, crows and other pests turned in through the contest have been reduced, which is evidence that the effort is having its effect. A word of commendation to these men comes from the Herald and also unspoken from every citizen reading this paper.

Appreciation of the efforts of ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary, the Methodist Ladies Aid, the Hermiston Union Church Ladies Aid and the Woman's Bridge club in making and stringing banners now seen displayed in the street, is expressed by the committee. It would have been impossible to have street banners up in time had not these public spirited ladies been willing to assist. Also, had the Hermiston Light & Power company not given employees' time to hang the banners.
