 Already the Japanese are subsiding from ruthless aggression in China. Japan has heard from the greater powers of the world, and the United States has spoken in no uncertain terms against the wanton destruction of innocent noncombatants. Japan sought to terrorize the people of the cities of China with battleships and bombing planes into submission, and strike such fear into their hearts that they would abandon support of their armies. To China's credit, both as a nation and as a people, these unwarranted attacks seemed to fire the Chinese citizen and soldier to greater resistance and China is surprising the entire world with its nationalism. Now, that other nations are moving into the crux of the situation because of humanity and broken treaties, Japan is finding itself out on a limb. What the militarist government of Japan may do to prevent entrance of other nations and save the face of its own powerful government, we may soon see.

with Masfield, Conrad, and others in "Great Sea Stories" of pirates, traders, and fishermen?
 If you choose, you may go with Dr. Heiser to 45 countries in "An American Doctor's Odyssey" and discover how he has worked to save and prolong human lives, or you may go with Richard Halliburton on "The Royal Road to Romance," and experience with him his glorious adventures to many countries.
 Alice Tisdale Hobart and Pearl S. Buck invite you to take a peek at China through their respective novels, "Oil for the Lamps of China," and "East Wind: West Wind."
 Patience, Richard, and John Abbe went "Around the World in Eleven Years," but you may take the very same trip with them in a few hours, or perhaps, a few days, and you'll thoroughly enjoy their style of adventure.

Mr. Mayer expressed a 180 pound buck to Hermiston early this week which was taken care of by employees of the Umatilla Cooperative Creamery.
 Mrs. A. A. Thomason, Mrs. Wm. Carter and Mrs. A. L. Brunton of Freewater were in Hermiston last Saturday for a short time. Their husbands are employed on the construction of the Farm Bureau Cooperative storage warehouse. Mr. Thomason is foreman and the other two men are carpenters working under him.
 Chester Dyer, who is employed at Duncan, visited late Sunday and Monday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Dyer, also with his sister-in-law, Mrs. Lee Dyer, who was visiting here from Boise, Idaho.
 Mrs. R. E. Hobbs and daughter Shirley and Mrs. Hobb's mother, Mrs. Julia Prann, former Hermiston residents, of Portland, visited friends and relatives here from Thursday of last week until Sunday.
 New hats, purses, silk and cotton dresses at Ruby McMillian's, adv. Al Wilson, who farms the old A. E. Bensele place on North Hill, broke his leg and twisted his ankle Monday while working with a wood saw. He was taken to the Pendleton hospital immediately. Mrs. Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Rex Jackson called on him Tuesday and found him resting comfortably.
 The Sunshine Girls' Sunday school class of the Union church, was entertained last Friday afternoon and evening by their teacher, Mrs. W. A. Morehouse. After school the girls went on a hike and upon returning roasted weiners and marshmallows over a bonfire, later playing games. The group attended the church service in the evening. Those present were Lois Williams, Lauree Gimbel, Beverly Walker, Patricia Warner, Ethel Clarke, Byrnee Barlow, Magdolene Jackman, Lauree Saylor, and Audrey Phelps, who was a guest of the group.
 Ralph Fix was pleasantly surprised last Sunday evening when friends called at his home at the invitation of his wife to celebrate his birthday. Refreshments of cake, fruit salad and punch were served to sixteen guests. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. John Blain of Umatilla, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Dunham, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Addleman, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Fix and Mr. and Mrs. F. Cooper of Helix, Margaret Boylen, Wayne Lindner, and Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Fix.
 A group of Hermiston people motored to White Swan Indian Mission at White Swan, Wash., Wednesday to visit the school and Mr. and Mrs. Ward Rice, who are superintendents. Mr. Rice is a brother of Mrs. R. G. Saylor, active in the Missionary society of the Union church. Among those making the trip were Mrs. A. W. Turnblad, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Morehouse, Mr. and Mrs. C. Warner and son Cecil Jr., Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Saylor, Mrs. J. B. Saylor, Mrs. Waldo Dyer, Mrs. W. D. Neill, Mrs. Jens Skovbo, Mrs. Mathew Gordon, Mrs. C. R. Moore, Mrs. Broston, Louise Saylor and G. B. Schmid.
 Grandma Ellis and Miss Mary Ellis, who have been making their home with Mrs. Anna Smith north of town, are now making their home with Mrs. Bert Quick on Hermiston Avenue. Both Grandma and Mary are unable to be out much and appreciate and enjoy calls from their friends.
 Mrs. Ina Wessell and daughter Barbara and Gladys Driscoll and B. I. Whitney motored to Portland last Saturday where they attended the Pacific International Livestock show. Miss Driscoll looked after business interests while there. They returned to Hermiston late Tuesday.

The fact that President Roosevelt delivered an address in Chicago against what was going on in the undeclared war in the Orient, and that other great nations joined in his sentiments, means that Japan must take some other course. If in her extremity she "accidentally" fires into an American or European battleship, she may learn a lesson in modern civilization; and that war does not consist in the ruthless destruction of women and children, schools, missions and hospitals. Even Mussolini may take a tip on the attitude of most of the world on war for aggression.

 H.H.S. Begins Own Library.
 Hermiston Hi now has a "Browse-Shelf" which marks the beginning of a high school library.
 Why not treat yourself to a thrilling adventure with Frank Buck in "Bring 'Em Back Alive," or

Henry Williamson tells you a story of "a five year old salmon called Salar, a very old sea trout named Trutta, and Gralaks the Grilse, from the time when they came into the estuary from the Atlantic feeding banks in the early spring until the river cycle ends after the winter spawning." His book is entitled "Salor the Salmon."
 Would you like to know "How to Win Friends and Influence People?" If so, Dale Carnegie can give you definite points on how to go about it in his book by that title.
 On the novel list you'll find the Peter B. Kyne Omnibus which contains three complete novels, "Kindred of the Dust," "Never the Twain Shall Meet," and "The Pride of Palomar." You'll also find a Pulitzer prize novel, "Alice Adams" by Booth Tarkington, "Happiness Hill" by Grace Livingston Hill, "Dods-worth," by Sinclair Lewis, and "The Bent Twig" by Dorothy Canfield Fisher.
 And there are more to follow!
