Seymour, state leader of club work in the OSC extension service, has been notified that the winner of the contest in this state will be given a free trip to Pullman, Wn., to compete in a tri-state regional meet being sponsored by the American Institute of Cooperation, which will hold an annual convention there this summer.

Cooperative Expansion.

Regardless of the volumes you may read

It takes actual experience to sow cooperative seed.

We read how the English started the Rochdale plan

To buy groceries, feed, clothes and even a pan.

How the idea spread through countries around

Until Europe, 'tis said, cooperatives abound.

In Scotland, Wales, Ireland, Denmark as well.

Had plans of their own and successes to tell.

'Tis said without fear of telling a lie,

You'll find cooperation wherever you try.

The world itself is explanation enough

To convince you no matter how hard or how rough

The road to success over life's high hill,

Can be best achieved with a cooperative will.

Cooperative means, group buying to me

And there the wolf can be tied to a tree,

Chain stores we know buy from one source,

The reason is simple, its saving of course.

They don't bid against each other the prices to raise,

They buy together and in this way save

But their profits go back to Wall street and are put on the shelves,

The example they give us should be plenty indeed.

To show that cooperative buying we also need

The purpose for writing this spasm in rhyme

Is to help you be cooperative all of the time.

Why we all should think the cooperative ways,

It's proven beyond doubt that this system pays.

Take our co-op as an example for all.

We've made the high cost of traveling fall

Fifteen thousand dollars dividends in four years, B-gosh,

Besides building our plant and equipment, no josh.

Will we all get stuck if the co-op goes broke?

Sometime we're asked that possibly as a joke.

Well, set yourself down and rest your socks,

You couldn't lose any more than your socks.

Anyway how can you lose with little at stake.

There's everything to gain, always you make

When you buy it all at your cooperative store.

You've bought from yourself and something more.

The larger the volume the cheaper the price.

And cooperatives sell anything from tractors to rice.

So folks, take a tip and get the cooperative view.

The system is solid and not anything new.

The plan extends the whole world over

From ocean to ocean and shore to shore.
