ful scenery forms the background for "Hawaii Calls", Bobby Breen's latest musical starring vehicle, which comes to the Oasis theatre Wednesday.

Bobby and Pua Lani, as two San Francisco street gamins, have arrived in Honolulu as stowaways, and escape by diving into the harbor as the ship approaches the dock. Discovered soon after the liner left San Francisco, the boys have been befriended by Ned Sparks, tipping member of the ship's orchestra, and at his suggestion have adopted the only available means of escaping to shore.

Sought by the police, they are the center of many laughable adventures in which they are soon joined by the well-meaning Sparks. When he finally misses his ship he capitulates to the charm of the island paradise, and becomes a temporary Hawaiian by adoption. Later the boys are principal figures in a tensely dramatic hunt for a band of criminals, and the climax of the story finds Bobby embarking on a new life.
