Do You Buy at Home?

Why should we trade at home? Instead of rearing back and saying we have a right to trade anywhere and with anyone, trying to muster a few arguments in support of alleged independence, just think of some of the reasons why you should support the businesses and enterprises of your home communities.

Do the people of the distant towns buy anything from you? Do you always get reliable goods elsewhere? Do you have credit away from home? If something goes wrong with what you buy does the foreign dealer quickly adjust the item or make repairs on your machinery or come to your assistance when you need him? Has the money you spent far away half the chance to get into channels where you may get benefits, as that you spend at home? Do you add the car mileage to the merchandise you buy elsewhere?

Isn't it better, on any basis of fair treatment and reasonable prices to assist in building up your local community by buying at home. Would it not be very disadvantageous to you if there were no good business enterprises in your vicinity? Are they not handy to your interests in your needs and welfare and reciprocal to any effort you may put forth in the betterment of yourselves and community.

Inquire first at home for all your needs.

The rock crusher is busy seven days a week preparing rock for the oiling of the Diagonal road. It is located at the point the Diagonal intersects the cut-off highway.

Mrs. Mabel Weeks has bought the Harvey DeMoss place and will move as soon as school is out, with her three children. Mrs. Weeks is a sister of Henry Wheeler.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Ott and daughter Marian and Miss Martha Walter made a trip to Yakima last week. They report that many of the fruit trees in the Yakima valley were in full bloom.

Clement Stockard arrived Sunday to spend a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Stockard. He has been in Seattle for four weeks.

Mrs. Duane Lathrop, who is being treated for a broken hip at the Hermiston General hospital, is reported to be getting along as well as can be expected.

Mrs. Jackson Harr made a trip to Pendleton last Saturday to visit Mr. Harr who is in St. Anthony's hospital.

Gladys Whitsett and brothers, Oscar, Claud and Woodrow, all of Seattle, were here over the week end visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Whitsett.

Lowell Stockard and family of Heppner were here Friday visiting relatives.

H. J. Ott received 1700 baby chicks from the Washington Chick association last Friday.

C. L. Upham and Gene Buzzard received their spring supply of chicks Friday.

Jesse Moore returned Sunday from Oregon City where he had attended the state Christian Endeavor convention.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hyde of Walla Walla and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Anspach of Milton were visitors at the Christley home Sunday. They were all neighbors in Baker, Ore., many years ago.

Bennie and James Boylen have been assisting Dr. Theo. Beletski with his farm work the past week.

Mrs. I. W. Geer and daughter Helen Wilkes, spent Friday at the R. W. Wilkes home last week.

Mrs. R. W. Wilkes, who has been ill for a number of months, is reported improving.

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Corman were visitors Sunday at the Charles Epperson home.

Mrs. Nellie Tucker and son Cecil Rogers made a business trip to Pendleton Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Williams and son and Mrs. Bearden of La Grande were at the Baxter Hutchison home Sunday. Other guests were Miss Myrthena Martin and Edward Shaw.

RECOMMEND CORN ACREAGE INCREASE

from corn ear worm infestation.

All seed corn should be tested to assure strong germination. Corn on weedy land should be checked so that it may be cultivated both ways. It should also be planted three stalks to each hill. Drilled corn can be slightly thicker. Usually one foot to 18 inches apart in rows three feet wide is recommended. Many people bury their corn rather than plant it. On the mellow moist soils corn should be planted no over two inches deep. On the coarser sandy soil, from two to three inches deep.

The soil should be irrigated before planting. Corn planted in furrows should be irrigated several times before the furrows are filled level with the rest of the land. After it is a foot to 18 inches high, the furrows can be made in the center of the rows for irrigation.

A good stand of corn usually means a good yield; no field full of missing or vacant hills can produce well. Avoid planting when too cold or wet; have seed bed properly prepared; use good seed and do not plant too deep, especially in the finer soil types.

It is usually safe to plant at least 25 per cent more seed than you want, as this insures a full number to the acre. Usually eight to twelve pounds of seed per acre is enough.

Harrowing after planting, so as to kill weeds, is a good practice. This should be done during the middle of the day when the dew is off and when the plants are dry and less brittle. Cultivation should begin when the plants are about four inches high. First cultivation can be done fairly close to the plants but after the roots begin to branch out, care should be taken not to plow too close. Later plowing should be shallow to prevent root pruning. Cultivation should be kept up until there is no longer need for killing weeds or for maintaining the mulch. Corn by this time should be twenty-four to thirty inches high and is ready to lay by.

When the corn acreage goal has been reached in the irrigation sections of Umatilla county, the county will have fewer weeds, more clover and alfalfa, cheaper and larger yields of both forage and grain, and better crop rotation will be in evidence on the farms.

OREGON TURKEYS SEEK OTHER MARKETS

Oregon must find markets outside of the state for approximately two of each three turkeys raised. H. E. Cosby, head of the poultry department at Oregon State college, points out in a new extension circular entitled, "Turkey Chats."

Oregon turkeys are known far and wide for their fine quality, but the increased production of turkeys in states near large terminal markets brings Oregon producers face to face with such problems as quality improvement, lower production costs, orderly marketing, improved packaging for consumers and advertising, Cosby continues.

"The Oregon turkey grower is fortified by years of experience and by availability of quality breeding stock, says Cosby. "He is further protected by having a choice of two methods of marketing his turkey crop through established independent dealers and established cooperative marketing associations serving the western surplus producing areas. He is still further fortified by having a choice of purchasing his feed either through cooperative or independent feed agencies."

The seven-page circular contains considerable specific information relating to steps in most efficient turkey production. Feed formulas are given for both breeding and growing flocks. The handling of breeding stock is discussed at some length, as is the handling of hatching eggs, the feeding schedule during brooding, points on finishing turkeys for market, and methods for avoiding off-flavors in turkey meat. The circular, No. 314, may be obtained free.

CHURCH NOTES

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES
"Everlasting Punishment" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 1. The Golden Text was, "Have I any pleasure at all that the wicked should die? saith the Lord God: and not that he should return from his ways, and live?"

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Now no chastening for the present seemeth to be joyous, but grievous; nevertheless after it doth yieldeth the peaceable fruit of righteousness unto them which are exercised thereby" (Heb. 12:11). The Lesson-Sermon also included the following correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The sharp experience of belief in the supposititious life of matter, as well as our disappointments and ceaseless woes, turn us like tired children to the arms of divine Love. . . . Through the wholesome chastisements of Love, we are helped onward in the march toward righteousness, peace, and purity, which are the landmarks of Science" (pp. 322, 323.)
