THE LORD HELPS THOSE...

(Co-op League News Service)

New York—Ten years of economic experimentation in the laboratory of social change have brought forth a program of reconstruction which is commanding nation-wide attention.

Five poverty stricken counties on the windswept eastern coast of Nova Scotia comprised the laboratory. Fishermen, miners and farmers who had been eking out an existence on starvation incomes were the objects.

A handful of Catholic priests at St. Francis Xavier University were the experimenters.

Just a few years ago these fishermen, miners and farmers were sunk in poverty as wretched as that endured by the sharecroppers of the South. The fishermen's boats were mortgaged, the farmers were losing their land, and the pittance earned by the miners was barely sufficient to keep their families from starvation. Today the fishermen are freeing themselves from debt, the farmers are achieving a measure of prosperity and the miners are freeing themselves from complete dependence on the mines.

The change was wrought by a program of adult education and cooperative organization carried out under the guidance of St. Francis Xavier University.

This, briefly, is the story that is told in a new book, "The Lord Helps Those", by Bertram B. Fowler which was published by Vanguard Press, New York, May 31. Immediately preceding its publication sections of the book appeared as articles in JUNE READERS DIGEST and the JUNE issue of SURVEY GRAPHIC. The May issue of FORUM carried an article on the Nova Scotia co-ops entitled, "Scandinavia in America" while FREE AMERICA for May contained a case study of the "Little Dover" co-ops, both by Mr. Fowler.

Tillamook Sells Dairy Calves.

TILLAMOOK — Fifty-nine heifer calves from Cow Testing association dams of 300 pounds of butterfat or more were sold by Tillamook county dairymen during April, according to County Agent C. H. Bergstrom. Of these 32 went to Montana and the others to Idaho, Wyoming and Oregon.

SPECIALIST GIVES HINTS ON CURTAINS

New curtains will do the same things for a room that a newly-leaved tree does for the garden, or a new dress for one's personality, says Miss Joan Patterson, extension specialist in home furnishings at Oregon State college. They can make an individual seem to be living in an entirely different environment, she feels.

Curtains can be simple or elaborate, according to the taste of the homemaker, but it is wise to remember that curtains have special duties to perform, Miss Patterson says. They soften the structural lines of the window, soften otherwise glaring light, and help tie together all the colors and patterns in the room.

In addition to these important reasons for their existence, curtains also serve as a part of the background along with the walls, to set off the furnishings rather than fight with them for attention in the room, says Miss Patterson. If the upholstered furniture and the rugs are of figured designs, it is unwise to have figured draperies, elaborate net curtains and flowery wallpaper, she believes. Plain, simple backgrounds will set off the figures in the furniture.

Among curtain materials that Miss Patterson recommends for this purpose, because they will wear well, wash well and remain good looking for several years, are plain serim, marquisette, theatrical gauze, rayon net, simple cotton nets and voile. It is wise to select good quality materials that will hold up under the testing strain of jerking the fabric and sliding a finger nail across the weave.

Color fastness is important too, and it is well to select curtains of neutral tones such as white, cream or ecru, because they hold up well against the light, she says. Colored curtains, though pretty and somewhat of a fad at the time they are bought, do not have the lifetime wearing quality that the homemaker plans for a pair of curtains, and in the end are a poor investment, she believes. It is better to express the desire for color in the wallpaper and other furnishings of the room, she feels, and points out that the house looks better from the exterior, too, if all the windows, on the front of the house at least, display curtains of the same color.

METHODIST CONFERENCE TELLS MEMBERS TO SUPPORT COOPERATIVES

(Co-op League News Service)

Brooklyn, New York—The New York East Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, meeting here for its annual conference, May 21, adopted a broad program of social action which placed its members on record as being in favor of slum clearance, adequate relief for the unemployed, Federal regulation of wages and hours of workers engaged in interstate commerce and the organization of consumer cooperative.

The section of the report dealing with cooperatives declared: "We rejoice in the inter-faith support recently given to consumer cooperatives by official groups of Jews, Catholics and Protestants; and recommend the uniting of all these groups in local cooperative enterprise and study."

"We again urge the members of the conference to take the initiative in setting up local groups to study the ethical and economic possibilities of cooperative enterprise, and wherever possible to encourage the organization and patronage of cooperative business and credit unions."

CO-OP WHOLESALE TRIPLES MEMBERSHIP; DOUBLES BUSINESS IN YEAR.

(Co-op League News Service)

New York — Two hundred and seventy-nine representatives of 178 consumer cooperatives with 16,735 individual members in eleven Eastern states and the District of Columbia met here Memorial Day for the annual meeting of the Eastern Cooperative Wholesale.

In a huge showroom decorated with displays of a greatly enlarged line of "Co-op" labeled products, L. E. Woodcock, manager of Eastern Co-op Wholesale, reported that the number of co-op store members had tripled during the year; that business was up 86 per cent. for 1937 over 1936 and that the first three months of the current year show an added increase of 46 per cent. over the same period in 1937. Since the end of 1936 the fully paid membership of E.C.W. has increased from 14 societies to 68. An additional 29 have part paid memberships in the wholesale and one hundred more cooperative stores and buying clubs are buying through E.C.W.

Delegates at the meeting approved an amendment enlarging the directorate of the wholesale from 5 to 9 members; endorsed a proposal for descriptive labeling of all "Co-op" label goods; voted to continue a standing policy of paying no interest on capital provided by member cooperatives; and passed a resolution approving the organization of cooperative employees and calling on organized labor to recognize the importance of cooperatives to labor and that co-ops not be set at a disadvantage with respect to private business as the result of trade union agreements.

A unique feature of the congress was the division of the delegates into 30 discussion groups for an hour in the afternoon to discuss the problems raised by reports and addresses at the previous sessions of the conference.

E. R. Bowen, general secretary of the Cooperative League of the U.S.A., at the closing session stressed the need for increasing the capital of local retail and wholesale cooperatives and declared, "When money of cooperators is pooled in one mighty fund it will be powerful enough to bend down any price level that is too high and raise any pay level that is too low and bring monopolies to their knees. The final result will be the distribution of purchasing power equitably among all the people."

Newly elected directors include: Hartley Cross, Springfield, Mass.; A. E. Kazan and Mary Long, New York; Arvo Mandelin, Fitchburg, Mass.; Kenneth Compton, Madison, N. J., and Ward Cann, Staten Island, New York.

BUILDING A BRIDGE FOR HIM

An old man, going a lone highway. Came at the evening, cold and gray, To a chasm vast and deep and wide.

The old man crossed in the twilight dim,
 The sullen stream had no fear for him;
 But he turned when safe on the other side
 And built a bridge to span the tide.

"Old man," said a fellow pilgrim near,
 "You are wasting your strength with building here;
 Your journey will end with the ending day.

You never again will pass this way,
 You've crossed the chasm deep and wide,
 Why build this bridge at eventide?"
 The builder lifted his old gray head—
 "Good friend, in the path I had come,
 "There followeth after me today
 A youth whose feet must pass this way;

This chasm that has been naught for me,
 To that fair-haired youth may a pitfall be;
 He, too, must cross in the twilight dim—
 Good friend, I am building this bridge for him."
