BOYHOOD RESIDENT WOULD CORRESPOND

As for myself, after a feeble struggle through high school and several colleges, I have managed to apply my knowledge to the newspaper racket forceful enough to make an existing livelihood, I have established and published two successful South Carolina weeklies...

"Married? certainly. To one of these Southern Bells. We have two fine red-headed children and at the present both of them have the whooping cough in a big way.

"By the way, while I was wondering, I forgot to wonder if they trucked and did the big and little apple dance out there. We just finished our annual Strawberry Festival last week and Guy Lombard and his orchestra furnished the dance music.

"Being a journalist myself, I realize that publishers don't like extended copy, so I will cut this chit-chat short stating I would be 'tickled-to-death' to hear from anyone in or around Hermiston.

I'll be seeing you, LEM WINESETT.

BETTER VARIETY OF WHEAT SOUGHT BY STATION MEN

A high yielding wheat that is smut resistant and has good quality for milling and baking purposes is the chief aim of cereal breeding work being carried on at the eastern Oregon branch experiment stations...

"In the years when the Pacific northwest had export outlets for all its surplus we produced a lot of Club wheat for the export trade."

RED CROSS OBSERVES NURSING ANNIVERSARY

1937 Marks 25th Year Of Public Health Nursing In Rural Areas

"Prior to inauguration of the Red Cross Town and Country nursing service in 1912, no national effort was made to bring nursing skill to the rural sickbed."

In a plea for an increased membership during the coming Red Cross annual Roll Call held from November 11 to the 25th, Mr. Fieser pointed out that Red Cross rural nursing rounds out 25 years of continuous service this year.

In 1910 Lillian Wald, then head resident of the Henry Street Settlement in New York City, proposed that the American Red Cross pioneer in the field of rural nursing.

Two years later the first Red Cross rural nurse set forth upon her rounds in a county in Massachusetts. Jacob Schiff, member of the Red Cross Board of Incorporators, and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid each contributed funds to start the project.

who thoroughly knew the mechanics of this new job.

By 1918 there were 100 rural nursing services conducted by Red Cross chapters; and 18 months later the number of services had skyrocketed to 2,000, as the signing of the Armistice released a flood of War nurses for peace-time duty.

"Reorganization and consolidation eventually cut the number of public health nurses serving under the Red Cross flag," Mr. Fieser stated.

Mr. Fieser called attention to a study of Red Cross public health nursing accomplishments since the service was begun. "Statistics show that in all nearly 3,000 services were established by the Red Cross," he said.

"Each year during the past 11, more than 440,000 rural school children have been found to have physical defects. Each year 189,000 of these children were helped through treatment."

At the present time there are 666 Red Cross public health nurses engaged in health work in rural communities, and last year more than 1,000,000 visits were made on behalf of the sick.

"It has been our purpose from the first," Mr. Fieser emphasized, "to demonstrate that rural nursing was needed and could be organized. In many instances we have turned established community nursing services over to local health authorities.

Other Red Cross services supported by Roll Call memberships are life saving; first aid; disaster relief and the work of organized Red Cross volunteers.

Many Red Cross chapters carry on extensive civilian relief work. During the past year 120,000 needy families received this type of Red Cross help.

says Dr. Hill. "Now that a much larger percentage of our wheat is being used in domestic channels, Club wheat is harder to sell. Consequently, it has been necessary to replace a considerable portion of the Club acreage with new varieties of different quality.

The necessity for continuous search for new and better varieties was recently demonstrated in the irrigated sections of eastern Oregon. Dr. Hill points out. For years farmers on irrigation projects were entirely satisfied with Federation as a rotation crop, or a nurse crop for clover and alfalfa. In 1935 and 1936, however, an infestation of rust seriously reduced the yields of Federation. There is now demand for a variety which will yield as much as Federation under irrigated conditions, and be resistant to rust.

The new Rex wheat, recently introduced after being bred at the Moro station, is rapidly replacing many other varieties, including Federation. It is stiff-strawed, non-shattering, reasonably resistant to smut, and much more winter hardy than Federation.

New varieties must undergo years of rigid testing before they are released for general use.

Men Make the Best Tea, Canadian Expert Says

Vancouver.—F. E. B. Gourlay, chief Canadian commissioner of the market expansion bureau, questions housewives' supremacy as tea makers.

Gourlay, who was a tea planter in Ceylon before coming to Canada to direct empire marketing operations in the dominion, said that men are more conservative and therefore more likely to follow directions.

"They buy differently, too," said Gourlay. "As a rule a man doesn't 'shop.' He knows what he wants, buys it and that's that."

Iced tea, so popular in North America, is rapidly taking hold in England, he said.

Prospector's Bullets Were Cast From Gold

St. Paul.—Back in the boom days of the gold rush, at least one of the lucky prospectors was so rich with gold that he used the precious metal to make bullets when he ran short of lead.

That is the story of Carl Worm, bootmaker, who roamed the Black Hills of the Dakotas when the gold rush was at its height.

Worm says he owns the gun used by the prospector—known to the Indians as "Doc Suamico." The gun was charged with powder before the lead slug was inserted. It still is serviceable.

Old Age Is Often Mental, Iowa Professor Declares

Iowa City, Iowa.—"Premature old age is often an attitude of mind," says Charles McCloy, research professor in anthropometry at the University of Iowa.

Regarding other causes of old age, Professor McCloy had this to say:

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"GOD the Preserver of Man" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, June 12.

The Golden Text was, "As birds flying, so will the Lord of hosts defend Jerusalem; defending also he will deliver it; and passing over he will preserve it" (Isa. 31:5).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "For the Lord God is a sun and shield; the Lord will give grace and glory; no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly, O Lord of hosts, blessed is the man that trusteth in thee" (Ps. 84: 11,12).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "God is the Life, or intelligence, which forms and preserves the individuality and identity of animals as well as of men" (p. 550).
