NOTICE!

Please be advised that a new schedule of meat handling charges is now in effect at the Umatilla Cooperative Creamery cold storage plant. Schedule of meat handling charges is:

Cooling and aging of meats and poultry, 25¢ per cwt; meat cutting (all supplies furnished) 1¢ per pound; hamburger and pork sausage, additional 1¢ per pound; All meat to be placed in locker must be pre-cooled and cut by the butcher in charge.

Products other than meat must be packed in satisfactory containers and are subject to inspection before freezing.

The purpose of this change is to establish a more equitable method of distributing overhead expense so that those who store large quantities of meat will pay a proportionate share of the operating expense.

UMATILLA CO-OP. CREAMERY.

By order of the Board of Directors.

TURKEY GROWERS MEET

U. S. FIELD STATION

least three times during the growing period. These birds are marked with wing band numbers and are checked at intervals to determine which is making the fastest growth and setting feathers at the earliest age, and the weights taken. In this way the breeding stock is selected. During the laying season a record is kept of type of bird. In this way the genetic purity of the bird is eventually determined.

Program Follows Dinner Hour.

Approximately 250 people were present for the pot luck dinner at noon which was spread on tables under the tarpaulin stretched from poles on the lawn at the station.

John Jendrzewski, president of the association and member of the board of directors of the North Turkey Growers' association, acted as chairman of the meeting which followed the noon hour. Mrs. Harvey DeMoss lead community singing and music was furnished by Miss Edna Ott, Guy Jeppe and Donald DeMoss.

J. C. Leedy, field manager for the Oregon Turkey Growers' association, stated that production of turkeys in Oregon was the same as last year with a slight increase in the Hermiston territory. Leedy represents the four units of the association which are at Roseburg, Medford, Redmond and Hermiston.

Mr. Leedy explained the method by which advertising of heavy tom turkeys has made hotel and restaurant operators conscious of the value of including turkey on their menus.

H. E. Cosby, head of the poultry department at O.S.C., discussed the project, the industry, the individual and general topics, stating that his first visit to the project was made 18 years ago when it was mostly a hay selling project. He sighted the progress made since that time with the introduction of more cows, larger farm tracts and more turkeys and chickens, stating that the cooperative industries, for which Hermiston is noted, had followed the various industries.

The turkey industry, he said, has become a profitable business, standing on its own merits. New methods have brought higher production and for protection growers have established their own marketing agencies. Growers now seek authentic and basic information not only in production but in marketing methods and their success depends upon their willingness to turn a deaf ear to theories and adhere to good management. Mr. Cosby stated.

Cooperative marketing was established to protect the interests of the turkey grower the same as business is organized to protect its interests, stated A. Willardson, Los Angeles marketing agent for the Northwest Turkey Growers' association, who was the final speaker of the day.

Security and stability for the grower comes through cooperative marketing, Mr. Willardson said, as even the growers at the doors of the terminal markets realize.

Mr. Willardson stated that there has been a tendency to switch from a light tom to a heavy hen in the demand from the housewife, and an increased demand for heavy toms for hotel and restaurant trade.

The outlook, he said, estimated a ten percent drop in production as compared with 1937, with half as many turkeys in cold storage. The purchasing power at present is low, he states, and there is a heavy chicken crop in the middlewest.

Few outside growers attended the picnic this year but local growers showed enthusiasm and interest.

EASTERN COOPERATIVE WHOLESALE TRIPLES SPACE IN NEW WAREHOUSE

(Co-op League News Service)

New York—Eastern Cooperative Wholesale, owned and operated by retail cooperatives from Maine to Washington, D.C., announced August 1 that it has leased a new warehouse which will give it three times the floor space it has in its present quarters and will move to its new home at 135 Kent Avenue, Brooklyn, about September 1st.

The move was necessary to provide adequate facilities to meet the demands of the rapidly growing cooperative business, L. E. Woodcock, manager of the Co-op Wholesale, declared. Cooperatives in Harrisburg, Pa., Washington, D.C., Vineland, N. J., Weymouth, Mass., Baltimore, Md., and Philadelphia were admitted to membership in the wholesale during the last month and business for the first six months of this year was 38 per cent greater than in the same period last year. Business for the first six months of the last three years was as follows, Mr. Woodcock reported:

1936	$130,906.09
1937	247,189.54
1938	341,853.27

Facilities at the new location will include a railroad siding for two cars, enclosed freight platform, recessed loading platform for four trucks, a freight elevator, two chutes for handling merchandise and space for a complete assembly line on the first floor. The new quarters has 27,000 square feet of space as compared with 9,000 square feet in its present location.

NYA ALLOTMENTS FOR COLLEGE AID

Students of collegiate grade who are in doubt as to how they will pay their tuitions and buy books this fall will be heartened by the announcement made this week by Ivan G. Munro, Oregon director of the National Youth Administration, in which he stated that funds available for Student Aid projects in Oregon colleges have been increased $19,000 this year for a total of $134,000. In Oregon there are 23 schools in this group which will receive proportional allotments based on their past enrollment.

These student aid funds are available for needy college and graduate students in regular attendance in institutions of collegiate and university standing for part-time work during the academic year. Individual earnings are limited to an average of $15.00 per month for students of collegiate standing and $30.00 for graduates. Rates of pay at the individual institutions are determined by the college or university. (Continued on page 6)

"COOPERATION IS THE REAL ANSWER", SAYS VERMONT GOVERNOR GEO. D. AIKEN

(Co-op League News Service)

Berlin, N. Y.—At an annual basket picnic for the Rensselaer County Granges, Governor George D. Aiken of Vermont called "government regulation one of the most dangerous pastimes business can indulge in" and offered "Cooperation" as the "real answer". When asked if he had in mind the kinds of cooperative movements now flourishing in the Scandinavian countries, he said he did. He also had in mind collective bargaining for labor.

Kids' Home Duties Radio Subject

Oregon State College—How some Oregon families are handling their problem of home duties for children will be discussed over the NBC western farm period Friday, August 12, starting at 12 o'clock noon. Mrs. Maud Morse, extension specialist in parent education at OSC, will interview a Lane county mother at that time who will recount her success in handling home duties through a family council system.

OREGON CROPPING PRACTICES AIDED IN 1938 PROGRAM

Minor changes made in the 1939 agricultural conservation program compared with 1938 are in line with recommendations made by growers and should further simplify the program, reports N. C. Donaldson, executive secretary of the state AAA committee who attended the conference on proposed changes in Washington, D. C. Other Oregon representatives were William Enechede, Hillsboro, member of the state committee, and W. L. Teutsch, representing the OSC extension service.

Certain changes affecting crop classifications, such as the use of nurse crops with legumes and the growth of winter legumes with grain, are in line with best Oregon cropping practices, Donaldson points out. Changes in regard to orchard cover crops and maintenance of created wheat grass plantings were also advocated by Oregon representatives.

Of prime interest to Oregon was the announcement of wheat payments for the coming year. Because of the smaller national allotment for 1939, the payment per bushel for compliance is increased above the 12 cents prevailing in 1938. It is now estimated that this regular payment will amount to 16 to 18 cents per bushel, to which will be added a price adjustment payment of from 10 to 12 cents per bushel, making a total of 26 to 30 cents per bushel for those who cooperate in the program.

This total payment is figured on the normal yield of the allotted wheat acreage for next year, it is explained. These allotments will average about 12 per cent smaller than the 1938 allotments in order to bring the total acreage for the United States down to around 55,000,000 acres. As in the past, there is nothing to compel any grower to stay within his allotment, but only those who do may benefit from these adjustment payments, loan features and related provisions of the farm act.

Detailed county allotments for 1939, prepared by the state committee, have been approved in Washington and will be distributed to the counties in the near future. Soon afterwards the individual farm allotments will be announced so that each grower will know before seeding time what he can plan on if he cooperates.

Valentine Day Dates to Martyr of Third Century

Valentine day is an observance which seems to be connected with the first signs of spring rather than with the careers or character of any of the several Saints Valentine, observes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. Happening to occur on the date consecrated to a Roman martyr of the Third century, it has simply appropriated his name for what was probably a pre-Christian custom in England and Scotland.

The tradition is that on this date the birds choose their mates for the year. Various old British writers, including Chaucer, allude to such a belief. Emulating the birds, it was the custom in old Britain, for each young maid and man to receive by lot one of the opposite sex as "valentine" for the year. From this evolved the more recent forms of observing the day.

St. Valentine was a priest of Rome who was imprisoned because he had given assistance to persecuted Christians. He became a convert himself while in prison, and although he is said to have restored the sight of his jailer's blind daughter, he was martyred by being clubbed to death. The date of his martyrdom is given as February 14, 269.

New $2,500,000 sugar beet plant to herald making of sugar in state and "Rebirth" of Eastern Oregon lands

Nearing completion at Nyssa, in eastern Oregon, is the huge sugar beet refinery of The Amalgamated Sugar Company which will soon be manufacturing sugar to be made in Oregon and inaugurating an important new industry for the Webfoot state.

The coming of the big plant heralds the "rebirth" of eastern Oregon as an important agricultural and industrial section. Due to the new plant, farmers are settling on 150,000 acres of reclaimed sagebrush lands, irrigated by the Owyhee, Black Canyon and Arrowrock Dams in the Vale-Owyhee project. The new factory will bring $2,500,000 of wealth yearly to the section, and is "booming" this remote section of the state.

The "monster of modern science" turns the beet into sparkling, refined and pure sugar and is one of the most modern plants of its kind in America. It will handle 2000 tons of beets daily and can store a half-million 100-pound bags of sugar. It has a capacity to supply three-fourths of the sugar needs of Oregon's inhabitants.

President H. A. Bonning, of Amalgamated, will have 175 men working in the plant for a 100-day period under Supt. Burnell Brown when the plant begins operations day and night this fall.
