STANFIELD

By MRS. J. M. RICHARDS
First may we unscramble the items of last week's issue. The talk on San Francisco should have been recorded as part of the Women's Study club program, and was given by Mrs. Ila Wallace instead of by Mrs. J. M. Richards. At the Student Advancement meeting Mrs. G. E. Greathouse and Mrs. G. G. Smith were hostesses during the tea hour which followed Mr. Yeager's talk on "Current Legislation."

At the Commercial Club meeting Thursday night O. Dyer and J. W. Chenault of the Soil Conservation service gave talks on the scope of their work in this vicinity. They also showed slides which illustrated the disastrous effects of erosion.

Dr. Weir of the Eastern Oregon State Hospital was an interesting speaker at the Ladies Aid meeting Thursday afternoon. Mrs. W. G. Wallace was hostess.

Stanfield Grange observed anniversary night Tuesday, February 14. Joe Meyer, master, gave a brief history of the organization fourteen years ago. Reminiscences were given by the honor guests, Mrs. L. L. Penney, F. B. Stuart and K. Gabriel, charter members, and by Mrs. F. B. Stuart and R. G. Penney, who were admitted to membership during the first year. The latter part of the program commemorated Oregon's 80th birthday. A "Know Your Oregon" quiz was conducted by the lecturer. Current legislation was discussed by Messrs. J. M. Richards, R. G. Penney and Joe Meyer. During the recreation hour Roy Attebury presented the Grange with a tether tennis game, darts, Chinese checkers and pinochle were also in play. Other charter members who still retain their membership are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thorne, who were not present. The general arrangement committee included Mrs. J. F. Rueber, Mrs. R. G. Attebury and Mrs. J. M. Richards. Huckleberry pie a la creme, and coffee were served.

Mrs. C. H. Herrick was hostess to the Harmony club at her home Tuesday afternoon. Each member responded to roll call with valentine greetings. Guests included Mrs. F. Shelton, Mrs. H. McCormick, Mrs. H. Hiatt and the following members of the Get Together club, Mesdames Oscar Martin, Marker, F. Cornielle, Jess Anson, H. Hammill and Lester Sutton. A program consisting of a skit by Marie, Betty, Freddy and Lester Tenney; a reading by Marie Tenney and Edgar Guest's "Valentine" by Mrs. C. H. Herrick. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Miss Claudia Gabriel who teaches near Tygh Valley spent the week end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Gabriel.

U. G. Shipley has been ill at his home for the past week.

Mrs. Frank Nudo and son Frank Jr. returned to her home Saturday, following a week's visit in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hiatt and son Alvin were week end guests at the Fred Shelton home while enroute from San Francisco to their home in Julesburg, Colo. Mrs. Hiatt and Mrs. Shelton are sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Clay Van Buskirk, Mrs. D. R. Starkweather and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoggard of The Dalles were Stanfield visitors Monday. Mrs. Starkweather remained until Thursday and returned to her home with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harle Rogers.

The Christian Endeavor society gave a valentine party at the F. A. Baker home Monday night.

Mrs. M. Refvem, Miss Elva Berry and Mrs. Ernest Greathouse were hostesses for two bridge parties at the Refvem home early this week. Five tables were in play each day. On Monday high score was won by Mrs. D. R. Starkweather of The Dalles, who with Mrs. Charles Hoggard was an honor guest. Tuesday's high scoring lady was Mrs. Stanley Lyon of Echo.

Mrs. Homer Hedrick accompanied her son-in-law and daughter to Portland Monday, returning Wednesday.

Mrs. N. D. Bard left Pendleton Sunday with representatives of Old Timers clubs to attend a convention, being held in Omaha. Mrs. Bard will represent the ladies auxiliary of the Old Timers club in Pendleton of which she is president.

The Pollyannas were entertained Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Frank Sloan at her home. Mrs. Fred Thorne, president, presided during the business meeting.

Mrs. J. F. Rueber returned Sunday from Corvallis where she attended the Home Interest conference at O. S. C. the past week.

Mrs. Whipple, county health nurse was in Stanfield Wednesday conferring with Mrs. M. Refvem, S. A. A. president, with reference to state public health speakers to come to Umatilla county this spring.

And there's the one about a preacher who amazed his congregation one Sunday morning with this announcement:

"You don't love me, because you don't pay my salary. You don't love one another, for there are no weddings. And God doesn't want you, because nobody dies."

"Now, since I have the honor to have been appointed chaplain for the penitentiary, this will be my last Sunday among you, and I will ask the choir to stand and sing, 'Meet Me There.'"

Vicuna, Taruca, Natives

Of the Andean Heights

One of the most thrilling expeditions in the world is a hunt among the high Andes for the shy and elusive vicuna and the still swifter and even more elusive Andean deer, known by its Quechua Indian name, taruca. This is not only because of the extreme altitudes at which these animals live and the physical and emotional effect upon the hunter of the rare atmosphere and the vast landscape, but because of the wariness and speed of these rare creatures and their extraordinary protective coloration, writes Alida Malukus in the New York Times.

The taruca and the Andean camel tribe, of which the vicuna is the wildest species, are the only creatures which inhabit the Andean heights, and they exist in no other part of the world.

Below an altitude of 10,000 feet the taruca dies. Fleet, alert, living in the almost inaccessible fastnesses of the snowy Cordilleras, he is so vigilant that it is almost impossible to get within 200 yards of him. His vigilance is directed against only his own kind, other stags, envious of his following of females.

Vicuna (this, too, is a Quechuan Indian name) is better known as a soft and luxurious fabric than as the rare and vanishing creature whose pelt was once reserved for the shoulders of Incaic princes, and is the most costly of wools. The vicuna is one of the four surviving species of the Andean auquenidos, or camels.

Bands of wild vicuna range the Andean Cordilleras above Arequipa, Peru, and about Cuzco, the ancient Inca capital upon which the present city is built.

The taruca cling to the high Andes and are best sought at from 12,000 to 15,000 feet. Because of their protective coloration, it is difficult to see them, except in flight or when silhouetted against the sky.

Halifax Explosion Left Many Killed and Injured

The Halifax explosion which occurred in the harbor of Halifax at nine o'clock on the morning of December 6, 1917, was caused by the collision of the French line steamship Mont Blanc with the Belgian relief steamship Imo.

The Mont Blanc carried a thousand tons of munitions and was bound in from New York. This ship had almost passed through the narrow leading from the outer harbor into Bedford basin to the northwest when the collision occurred. The Imo, westward bound, was just putting to sea.

The collision occurred because of misunderstanding of signals, and the efforts of both ships to avoid each other were unsuccessful. The Mont Blanc was pierced on the port side, and a few minutes later flames burst from the wreckage.

The monstrous energy suddenly released by the blast swept irregularly over the country about Halifax, destroying practically all of the older part known as Richmond; and the terrific heat from consuming gases of the munitions swept over a vast area, leaving most of this district in ruins.

The number killed was close to 2,000, and injured about 3,000.

Parchment Paper of the Ancients

Parchment was the paper of the ancients and also of those who maintained the literary tradition in the dark ages. Monks in gloomy monasteries spent their lives in writing and rewriting the religious narratives and philosophical and scientific papers which were studied by the clergy, observes a writer in the Chicago Tribune. The painful labor and the cost of the parchment made the contents of those massive books extremely valuable. It was logical, therefore, that they would be bound in fine, heavy leather covers, made by hand and carved with decorative borders and center designs. Skins from sheep and lambs (vellum), cattle, pigs, or goats (morocco) were used in book binding. Skilled labor and material expense involved make leather bound books costly. Leather binding is a rare and exclusive art. Mechanical binding and cheap cloth covers made it possible to sell books at low prices.

Early Color Psychology

An early psychological use of color was demonstrated by Lord Nelson, admiral of the British fleet and hero of Trafalgar. In 1805 before his ships closed in with the enemy off the Spanish coast, he had the bulwarks and companionways of his ships, the powder buckets, gun carriages, and some of the guns, painted a brilliant red. With this accomplished, blood that followed the hand to hand fighting of naval battles in those days would be far less noticeable and consequently less discouraging to Nelson's sailors.

Wrote Famous 'Annie Laurie' Song
This famous song, "Annie Laurie" was written by Annie Laurie's lover, William Douglass, of Fingland, Scotland, about the year 1705. She was the daughter of Sir Robert Laurie, first baronet of Maxwellton. Douglass' courtship was unsuccessful, as she married a Mr. Fergusson of Craigharroch in 1709. The music was written by Lady John Scott, about the year 1835. The first authorized publication of the song was during the Crimean war in 1854, to aid the wives and families of soldiers.
