POULTRY SURVEY—

Milking Shorthorn strain of cattle is of main interest in a herd that tested more than 300 pounds during the testing year.

Mrs. Turnblad, however, has 150 pullets, and plans to increase the flock this year to 400 which will require an addition to the laying house.

A. E. Bensei is building an addition to his brooder house bringing the capacity to 2000. The addition is being built of stone, made smooth on the inside with concrete.

J. A. Gilley has built a dual-purpose house to be used for brooder and a portion as a laying house. The brooder will have a screen floor, and feather boards and an oil brooder stove will be used. He is assisted by Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Webb, who make their home with him.

In Columbia district W. B. Foster expects to increase his laying flock to 400 this fall. He built a 26 by 48 laying house with a concrete floor last spring. The brooder has a hot water system and running water was piped into the house this spring.

A. R. Blinston has 150 New Hampshire reds and expects to increase the flock to 500 pullets.

W. R. Struthers is going into the chicken business in a bigger way and expects to have 500 hens in the laying house this fall. They now have 250 baby chicks in the brooder house. They will add a cement floor and new roof to the laying house this summer.

L. Hammer has gradually increased the capacity of his laying house over a period of years, making the hens pay for any improvement. He now has a capacity for 1000 laying hens. He will feed out 1000 cockerels as broilers and then put in 500 sexed pullets for fall and winter laying.

J. H. Ryland built a new brooder house this spring, a 24 by 48 foot, with capacity for 500 chicks. He expects to put in 500 chicks by the first of April.

E. Dunham has a new brooder house with a capacity for more than 200 chicks in which he now has six weeks old cockerels, feeding out as broilers. He expects to put in baby chicks by the first of April ready for the laying house this fall.

John Conrad has built two small brooder houses in which he now has 1000 White Leghorn cockerels feeding as broilers. After the cockerels are out he will put in 250 Buff Orpingtons to be caponized. Conrad plans to put in 2000 turkey poulters later, utilizing another brooder house on the farm. He boasts of having hatched the first turkey poulters for the season on his farm; 14 being hatched under turkey hens.

Conrad also has 16 calves and expects 30 more during the spring season. He will keep the heifers and beef the steers.

Jack Allen built a small chicken house this year and expects to place 200 pullets in the laying house this fall.

S. E. Wall and his son Curtis Wall built a two-decker chicken house this spring with a capacity for 500 New Hampshire reds. They expect to hatch eggs in their own incubators and also have some custom hatched.

E. R. Buzzard now has 300 laying hens and will put in 500 pullets this fall. He also will feed cockerels for the broiler market.

Frank Blom came to the project in November and has built an 18 by 40 brooder house to house 700 White Leghorn cockerels feeding as broilers. He expects to put 250 pullets in the laying house this fall.

Al Cable recently built a 24 by 60 laying house with a capacity for 400 laying hens. He plans to get 500 ten day old sexed chicks this spring.

TOWNSEND FLASHES.

All members of the Townsend club are urged to be present at the meeting Friday, March 10th, in the Legion hall at 7:30 p. m., to decide on important action. Reports from headquarters is that the Townsend bill will soon be in the house for vote.

Townsend talks will be on the air over Hollywood K.N.T. every Monday night at 8:00 o'clock, and every morning over KWJJ, Portland, at 9:00 o'clock except Sunday.

The question box is always on the desk in which to drop questions. The program for the meeting will be conducted by the Shipp Brothers. The public is invited to all meetings.

The ladies auxiliary club will meet Thursday, March 16, from 1:00 to 4:00 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Fred Lenz. The advisory board will meet Wednesday, March 15, at 7:30 p. m., at the home of Mrs. Victoria Churchman.

GARDEN CLUB CHATS

Virgil Smith was guest speaker at the club Monday, presenting a talk on "Conservation." In the minds of many the name of Wild Life association, of which Mr. Smith spoke, is associated solely with fishing, hunting and other pursuits of sports men. He showed where this was a wrong impression. In the course of his very interesting talk he said: "Everyone should take interest in this program of conservation. It not only pertains to fishing and hunting preservation but to our timber, wild life, shrubs, rivers, lakes and any natural scenic beauty. These are assets of the state that cannot be replaced by man.

"Refuges for game birds, fish ladders, soil conservation programs, national parks and forests, and the work of firefighters, forest rangers and many others help toward the conservation of nature. Our tourist trade alone brings $11,000,000 to the state; our scenic beauties, hunting and fishing grounds, the sections of the state that have been developed for winter sports enthusiasts, all contribute to attract this revenue."

Many garden clubs have a voting representation in their county wild life units, and anyone may attend the Umatilla county meeting held in Pendleton. The conservation program is carried on by the sale of wild life stamps, which are obtainable from any unit of the organization.

A paper prepared by Mrs. H. K. Dean was read, in her absence, by Mrs. George Wagner, and told club members what should be done in the garden in March. For those who were not at the meeting, the following advice was given: Hot beds should be started now. Be sure your plants have true leaves before transplanting. Separate and plant perennial snapdragons, carnations and chrysanthemums, also spider lily or supderwort. Do not disturb Oriental poppies, iris or hollyhock if you wish them to bloom well this year. Move or separate these in the fall. Plant early peas, radishes, carrots, turnips, potatoes and onion sets.

That pie plate that you promised to return to the Hermiston Trading Co. store after the pie sale—do you still have it at home? Maybe the plate that you asked to have returned is there too. Just a gentle reminder.

Mrs. Eunice Brandt from O.S.C. will be here Friday and Saturday to talk on home ground improvement. Friday forenoon, at 9:00 o'clock, she will talk on plants suitable for local climatic conditions and hold a general discussion, at the Legion hall. In the afternoon Mrs. Brandt will go to the J.H. Reid home in Columbia for a demonstration.
