

FARM CO-OPERATIVE DIVISION

A MESSAGE TO EVERY MEMBER.

DAIRY RULES AND REGULATIONS ARE ANNOUNCED

In accordance with the provisions of section 16, chapter 279, Oregon Laws 1937, the following rules and regulations are hereby adopted:

Barns.

Milking barns must be thoroughly cleaned daily.

Floors should be swept and sprinkled with superphosphate or lime.

Walls and ceilings should be whitewashed and kept clean.

Ample light must be provided. There must be at least three square feet of light per stallion.

Manure should be removed at least fifty feet from the cow stables. Chickens, cats, dogs and calves are not allowed in milking barns.

Accumulation of feed residue in mangers and troughs should be avoided.

Milking stools should be washed frequently and kept clean.

If a milking machine is used, all teat cups, tubes and vessels must be thoroughly cleaned by use of brushes and cleaning rods, using water containing an alkali (not soap) washing powder, and sterilized after each use.

Planks, udders and teats should be cleaned before milking. The first few draughts from each teat should be discarded.

Milk House.

A satisfactory milk house should be provided, and must not be used for other purposes.

Must have ample light, ventilation and drainage.

Must be rat, mouse and fly proof.

Must not be located in close proximity to any toilet, hog pen, calf pen, manure pile, or any insanitary or contaminating surroundings.

The floor must be watertight. May be constructed of cement or good sound wooden material, laid watertight.

Walls, windows and ceilings must be kept clean.

A satisfactory can rack should be provided. It should preferably stand on the south or west wall in front of a screened window. Cans should be turned neck down on this rack.

If a cream separator is used it must be thoroughly washed, cleaned and sterilized with steam or boiling water or other accepted sterilizer after each use thereof.

(NOTE: It is unlawful for any person who skims milk by cream-separating process to offer or expose for sale or sell any milk coming from a cream separator that is not thoroughly washed and cleaned within three hours after such use thereof. Section 41-302, Oregon Code 1930.)

Care of Milk and Cream.

All milk and cream should be cooled as soon as possible after milking or separating, especially evening milk held over until the following day. Stir milk occasionally while cooling.

Utensils.

Cans used for the delivery of milk or cream to cheese factories or other manufacturing plants must be used for that purpose only.

Whey, buttermilk or any other foreign or contaminating product must not be placed in any can used to transport milk or cream to factory or creamery.

Cans, when returned to farm from factory or creamery, should have lids removed and cans turned upside down on rack.

Milk pails, strainers and other utensils must be thoroughly sanded and contain no open seams.

All utensils should be thoroughly cleaned and sterilized after each use.

Do not leave can cover on evening milk that has not been thoroughly cooled. Poorly soldered, rusty and battered utensils are difficult to sterilize and should be discarded.

Old, soft and porous milking machine rubbers must not be used.

Cleaning of Utensils.

Thoroughly rinse utensils first in cold water, then apply warm water to which has been added a soda cleanser.

Do not use soap.

Use a brush for this purpose.

Live steam is the best sterilizer known. Boiling water is next.

A chlorine solution may be used, but chlorine rapidly loses its effectiveness unless utensils in which it is used are thoroughly cleaned before applying the chlorine solution. (NOTE: Remember that a chlorine solution is a sterilizing agent, and not a wash water.)

Never, in any case, use a disin-cloth.

After a utensil is thoroughly washed, rinse it with boiling water or steam it. If steam is not available, use a chlorine rinse. The solution should be made up in accordance with the directions of the manufacturer of the chlorine compound and test not less than 100 P.P.M. of available chlorine.

Milk must be kept free from barnyard contamination and insects. Straining only removes the visible evidence. Remember "You can not wash milk."

The Milker.

Only dry-hand milking allowed. No person affected with any communicable or infectious disease should be allowed to milk or to handle milk or cream.

Students Return from 4-H School.

Four-H students returned from Corvallis Friday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock. The trip was made on a special train for 4-H clubbers. Reports from those who attended indicate that an enjoyable and profitable time was spent.

COLUMBIA GRANGE NOTES

In spite of Sunday's wind and unsettled weather, thirteen Columbia Grange members, two visitors and children of the families enjoyed a pot luck picnic dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ott. To add just the right touch, Mrs. Ott served oven baked beans and creamed new potatoes as hot dishes. Fried chicken was very much in evidence, as well as tasty salads, sandwiches, ice cream and other picnic delights.

All were enthusiastic about the pleasant afternoon spent as Mr. and Mrs. Ott's guests, and declared that to the second regular meeting of each summer month in some such social diversion was a friendly Grange gesture.

Since the next regular meeting would fall on July 4th, the meeting has been postponed one week to Tuesday evening, July 11th. June 30th is the end of another quarter. Let's do our part to have every member in good standing, and dues paid on time.

TURKEY GROWERS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING SATURDAY

the committee on arrangements and H. K. Dean will have charge of the program committee.

All those present at the afternoon meeting expressed themselves as well pleased with the new plant. An invitation has been extended for other turkey growers of the community to join the association.

The board of the Eastern Oregon Turkey Growers' association met in the evening at 8:00 at which time all officers were re-elected for the coming year. John Jendrzewski is president, Merle Potter, vice president, and Mrs. Julia H. Penney, secretary-treasurer. Representatives to the Oregon State Turkey Cooperative meeting which will be held in Salem on July 15 will be Mr. Todd, Mr. Potter and Mr. Jendrzewski. The four units that belong to the state association are Central Oregon at Redmond, Southern Oregon at Medford, Oregon Turkey Growers at Roseburg and Eastern Oregon Turkey Growers.

Local turkey raisers are asked to brand their birds. Any dispute that comes from mixing birds with a neighbor's flocks will be eliminated by this method. This is the best recognized method that can be used for this purpose. Branding or tattooing ink and branding equipment can be obtained through the office of M. E. Kneckerbocker, assistant county agent.

SOME FOODS NEED "COLOR GLASSES" IN SUMMER TIME

Light as well as heat is a major factor in causing fatty or oily foods to become rancid, a condition which may frequently be prevented by using colored or opaque coverings, says Miss Lucy A. Case, nutrition specialist of the Oregon State college extension service, in reviewing recent experiments of the USDA bureau of chemistry and soils.

During the summer months, when sunlight is long and intense, these foods become rancid more quickly. The refrigerator is a good place to store most of them, not only because it keeps them cold, but because in excluding light it keeps them fresh, says Miss Case.

Research men have discovered that when oil-bearing foods were enclosed in green, black, or foil containers, rancidity is appreciably delayed. Potato chips packed in ordinary commercial bags during the test turned rancid within a week. When wrapped in green paper they remained fresh and edible for at least two weeks. Cashew nuts kept in a clear glass bottle and exposed to direct sunlight became rancid in four days. Another sample of cashews kept in a green bottle under the same light conditions remained fresh for more than eight months. So did cornmeal, peanut butter, walnuts, and lard.

Others have found that green containers preserved the aroma, freshness, and flavor of fruit juices, sauerkraut juice, and coffee better than any other color.

The most effective shade of green for these light-excluding containers is a chlorophyll or grass green. Manufacturers of food containers have means of testing the exact shade of their containers. Ordinarily the homemaker has not, but she can approximate it with good results. She can also keep her supplies cold as well as dark, and buy in small quantities in warm weather.

STATE ALLOTMENT OF WHEAT ACREAGE UP 10 PER CENT

Oregon's 1940 wheat allotment will be $51,458 acres, Will Steen of Milton, chairman of the state AAA farm program committee has announced. This allotment is 10 per cent larger than that received by Oregon for 1939.

The increase in the state allotment is in line with the increase in the national wheat allotment announced recently by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. The national allotment for 1940 is 62 million acres, seven million acres larger than the 1939 allotment.

Steen asserted that these acreage allotments represented "goals" and that farmers cooperate only on a voluntary basis in an effort to hold wheat production down to these levels.

Wide participation of farmers in Oregon and other wheat-producing states with the AAA farm program this year contributed substantially to the adjustment in wheat supplies and the resulting larger allotments for 1940, Steen said.

The state allotment soon will be divided up on a county basis, after which county AAA committees will apportion the county allotments among individual farmers. The state allotment was confirmed almost two months earlier than last year, said Steen, which will make it possible for farmers to have their allotments well in advance of the winter wheat planting season.

"By planting within their 1940 wheat acreage allotments," Steen pointed out, "Oregon farmers will cooperate with other farmers of the nation in balancing wheat acreage with needs for the immediate future. The national allotment is based on the acreage necessary to provide for our domestic markets, our export trade, and a reserve for any emergency which may arise."

The wheat allotment for a farm is the basis for the farmer's participation in all phases of the national program including conservation payments, price adjustment payments, wheat loans and crop insurance.

TOWNSEND CLUB NOTES

All members of the club are urged to be at the meeting Friday night, June 23, to decide on some important business.

Report of the National Townsend Convention will be sent to our president, H. R. Hartley, each day by air mail, and those living in Hermiston or near by are to call at the Hartley home to read this report. Mrs. Udey will get this report from Mr. Hartley by phone, and those living east of Hermiston can get it from her.

Report came to the members that Dr. Townsend and Senator Nye of North Dakota will take part in a radio broadcast from the Fourth National Convention. It will be carried by WLW, radio station, Cincinnati, most powerful radio station in America, and will be available to the Mutual Broadcasting system. This station is offering free time to our Townsend organization, ordinarily such time selling for $2400 an hour.

We will have a program put on by Mrs. Jess Prindle at our next meeting, and the Ladies Auxiliary will serve a jitney lunch at the close of the meeting.

The public is invited to all our meetings.
