

FARM CO-OPERATIVE DIVISION

A MESSAGE TO EVERY MEMBER.

AAA FARM, RANGE PROGRAMS REMAIN SAME NEXT YEAR

No major changes are contemplated for 1940 in either the AAA farm or range program, according to Oregon delegates who have returned from national AAA planning conferences.

Farmers of the nation are "well satisfied with the farm program just as it is, and don't want any major changes next year," said Will Steen of Milton, who recently returned from Washington, D. C. "It looks as though the program for 1940 will be very little different from the one in operation right now."

Robert Weir of Lakeview, state committee member who recently attended a national range conference at Hot Springs, South Dakota, announced that ranch operators generally desire no major changes in their 1940 program.

Weir said that increased emphasis will be laid next year on deferred grazing as a recommended range practice, and replacing of natural sagebrush with good range grass also will be stressed.

Steen said that one of the changes recommended in the farm program for 1940 is designed to aid the small farmer by providing for a minimum allowance of $20 which he can earn by performing soil conserving and soil building practices.

The committee chairman said that one of the outstanding benefits to Oregon from the farm program has been its aid in keeping wheat prices up. Without the farm program, he said, wheat in eastern Oregon on July 29, for example, would have been but 18 cents a bushel.

"The wheat price in Oregon normally is based on the world market," he said. "The price in Liverpool, England, on July 29, was 49½ cents a bushel, lowest in many years. Latest figures show that it costs about 3½ cents a bushel to ship wheat from eastern Oregon to Liverpool. Deduct 3½ cents from 49½ cents and you have 18 cents. That's what we would be getting today if it were not for the government program. Instead, however, our price is based on the general loan value of 60 cents, and in addition we get benefit payments totaling 28 cents a bushel."

Steen pointed out that benefits to farmers through increased wheat prices have not been at the expense of consumers, since there has been no rise in the price of bread.

COLUMBIA GRANGE NOTES

Two Columbia Grange activities took place on Tuesday, August 1. In the afternoon Mrs. Helen Fix, Mrs. Doris Panages, Mrs. Tucker and Mrs. Martha Dunham entertained at the third of a series of Diminishing Teas at the latter's home. Guests included Mrs. Weeks, Mrs. C. Hammer, Mrs. Lester Hammer, Mrs. Ben Fix, Mrs. Kopacz and Mrs. Emma Dunham. The afternoon was spent in embroidering and hemming dish towels for the home economics club.

In the evening of the same day, the first regular business and social meeting of the month was held. Fair booth plans were discussed. The second meeting of the month, which is purely social during summer months, will be held at the E. Zivney home Saturday evening, August 12. We have a membership of thirty. Let's see if all can be present. Guests may be brought too. The evening will be enjoyed in the form of a "progressive Screened Porch Party," weather permitting.

Friday afternoon of this week the Home Ec. club will meet at the Percy Corman home in Columbia district, with Mrs. Lloyd Goodrich as hostess. An important meeting is scheduled and a report of the Diminishing Tea series will be given.

The final tea with Mrs. Emery Cox and Mrs. Ben Fix as hostesses was held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ben Fix.

Poison Slays Grant Grasshoppers. Canyon City—An excellent kill of grasshoppers was obtained this summer on range land in the Logan valley area of Grant county, reports R. E. Brooks, county agent. Poison was spread over approximately 600 acres of range land, resulting in an estimated kill of 85 to 90 per cent of the hoppers. Actual counts showed from 84 to 152 dead hoppers per square foot in some sections.

JUNIOR EXHIBITORS PLAN TO ENTER FAIR AT SALEM

Oregon's young farmers and future homemakers, the 4-H boys and girls and the Future Farmers of America, will establish an all-time record in their exhibits at the 78th Oregon state fair in Salem September 4 to 10, report the respective state leaders of these youth groups.

The 4-H club prize winners at county fairs all over the state will show their premium stock and other projects at the state fair, and as usual two girls and two boys from each county will stay in the 4-H dormitory on the fairgrounds to participate in the week-long club program.

Of all the contests and special awards for the 4-H youths, special interest this year centers in the national dairy show demonstrations, with four teams to be chosen at the state fair to represent Oregon at the national show on Treasure Island in October.

The first F.F.A. livestock from Eastern Oregon ever to show at the state fair will be exhibited the week opening Labor day, and the Future Farmer stock exhibits will fill two full barns this year, a record entry. The annual F.F.A. egg laying contest will be continued as one of the outstanding features in this division.

WHEAT-LIVESTOCK BULLETIN ISSUED BY OREGON STATE

A larger portion of the Pacific northwest annual 40 million bushel wheat surplus can be marketed advantageously by using it for fattening livestock, is the belief of E. L. Potter, head of the division of agricultural economics, and H. A. Lindgren, extension animal husbandman at Oregon State college. Possibilities of such use of part of the wheat surplus are discussed in a bulletin by these men, just off the press and entitled, "Marketing the Surplus Wheat of the Pacific Northwest Through Livestock."

Suitability of wheat as a grain for livestock fattening whether for hogs, sheep or cattle is no longer a question. When properly handled it is just as good, pound for pound, as so-called feed grains, according to results of experimental feeding in Oregon and of commercial feeding by certain eastern Oregon growers.

Thousands of head of cattle and sheep now go to feed lots farther east for finishing for market. Hog production along the Pacific coast has long been on a deficit basis resulting in large imports of pork. When there was an adequate outlet for Pacific northwest wheat at fair prices, this procedure was economically sound in the main, according to the authors of the new bulletin. At present, however, it is believed that with wheat prices on a basis comparable to the price of other feed grains, a substantial increase in hog production, as well as increased feeding of sheep and cattle, is in order.

Statisticians have found that if the entire wheat surplus of the Pacific northwest were fed to hogs, it would produce just about the number now being shipped in to the Pacific coast trading area from the corn belt. This would result in placing Portland hog prices around 35c under Chicago prices, rather than the average of 38c higher that has been obtained since 1930. Of course, no one expects the entire surplus to be fed to hogs, while a gradual increase would not be expected to make this much change.

The bulletin is replete with facts and figures on the changing situation with respect to wheat surplus and livestock feeding for the consideration of Oregon growers. It may be obtained free from county agents or direct from the college.

Wool Growers Auxiliary To Meet

The Wool Growers auxiliary will have a no-hostess luncheon Friday, August 18, in Pendleton. The state president and other officers will be present at the luncheon which is an annual affair.

NEW METHODS SUGGESTED FOR CHILD FEEDING

During the warm days of summer the mother with a child who presents a feeding problem is likely to find the problem even worse. No amount of coaxing, threatening, pleading, or promising can induce the child to consume his necessary milk, fruits and vegetables, and eggs. It seems there is no solution, but of course there is. Like every other problem there is always a way out.

To begin with, it is well to always keep in mind the fact that the child is an individual, that he tries very hard to be one, and that he will cooperate much better if he is treated like one.

Many feeding problems have vanished as soon as the child is permitted to serve himself. This method can be used both successfully and practically if it is understood that one takes some of each food on the menu and eats all that he takes. Seconds may be had only after all of the first servings have been eaten, including the glass of milk which the child has poured from a small pitcher.

Care must be taken that the child does not take too large a serving. A polite and unemotional reminder that we eat what we put on our plates may do the work. However, if the child takes an unreasonably large serving, it is probably better to return the food to the serving dish and let him start again. Remember to be cheerful about the whole affair. Also, everyone who eats with the child should follow this practice of eating some of each dish without unfavorable comment.

This has a good purpose in itself for each of us needs the milk, fruits, vegetables, whole grain cereals and eggs just as the child does, except the adult requires a larger quantity of food.

Since the child's desserts are made largely of milk and fruits, they form a beneficial part of the menu and should never be given or taken away as rewards or punishments.

A dessert that should encourage any child to eat his meal without delay or without persuasion is Caramel Custard.

IMPROVEMENT CLUB HAS MEETING

An interesting demonstration on dress scarfs by Virginia Borthwick and Nancy Lee Clark was given at the Magic Room Improvement club meeting this week. Irene Borthwick is the club president and had charge of the business meeting. A discussion was held on scrap book covers.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Ann Peterson. Mrs. D. H. Stouffer is the club leader and Virginia Borthwick is news reporter.

MISS FREDERICK AT CONVENTION

A wedding of the cold calculations of modern science and the abstract doctrines of the ancient mystics was successfully performed by officers of the Rosicrucian Order, AMORC, at their annual convention just concluded in San Jose, Calif.

Agnes W. Frederick of Hermiston, local member of the Order who just returned from the week-long conclave, stated that the declaration of the ancient and medieval mystics and philosophers that the human mind through the action of the sympathetic nervous system produces a magnetic field about the body, called aura, which affects the emotions of others who come in contact with it, is not fantasy but a proven fact. "It is a common experience," says Mrs. Frederick, "that we often meet people who from their physical appearance, mannerisms and speech are quite acceptable; and yet immediately when we are in their presence we are disturbed, restless, and we find that we distrust them. On the other hand, there are those whose physical appearance is objectionable and yet we feel magnetically attracted to them."

The morning worship will deal with the theme of the victorious life. Christians are living on two levels in this day, defeated and victorious. Paul says in Romans 12:1, "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service." It is only reasonable that we make full consecration of self to God. The evening message will center in the story of the marriage of the king's son as found in Matt. 22.
You are welcome.

Miss Marian Troyer, who taught the 7th grade last year, will have the 3rd and 4th grades, while Miss Dorothy Thomsen of Portland will teach the 7th grade. The last Oregon legislature passed a law providing that a child entering school for the first time shall be deemed to be six years of age if his sixth birthday occurs on or before November 15.

Necessary repairs are being made on the buildings and buses. Supt. F. C. Fitzpatrick was in Stanfield on Monday and Tuesday conferring with the local school board and making plans for the coming year's work.

The Misses Blanche and Marie Thorsen have returned following six weeks spent in California where they attended summer school at San Jose Teachers College and also visited the Golden Gate Exposition.
