STAR TRIO ENACT "IN NAME ONLY"

"In Name Only," in which moviegoers will see the season's outstanding all-star cast including Carole Lombard, Cary Grant and Kay Francis, is at once a straightforward and convincing depiction of the romantic triangle and an excellent dramatic entertainment.

The plight of a wealthy young husband whose lovely but cruelly selfish wife married him solely for his money and social position is the stimulating subject of "In Name Only." The wife, splendidly depicted by Miss Francis, has so firmly ingratiated herself with her in-laws that they believe that their son (Grant) is an unfeeling brute.

At this point Grant meets Miss Lombard, a young widow making a living for herself and her little girl as a fashion artist. They fall in love, and Miss Francis aggravates matters by deftly bringing the affair to the attention of Grant's parents.

Now Grant begs to be allowed his freedom, but after considerable delay she refuses, prizing the luxuries her husband affords her above every thing else.

Broken over the collapse of his plans Grant goes on a spree which develops into a dangerous case of pneumonia. How Miss Lombard saves him, and reveals the true state of affairs, to his astonished parents, lead to the memorable climax of this intensely human and realistic drama.

"In Name Only" starts at the Oasis Theatre Sunday.
