GARDEN CLUB CHATS

Mum is the word! The club held a chrysanthemum tea at the last meeting, November 6th, and had as guest speaker, Mrs. Earl Thompson, president of the Pendleton Garden club, whose subject was Chrysanthemums. There were many vases of beautiful mums on display. The flowers were sold at the close of the tea. Mrs. Thompson brought specimen chrysanthemums with her from her garden, told of the most hardy varieties, told about the culture, and demonstrated the approved methods of propagation, which developed into a very interesting talk.

Mrs. Julius Gimble, chairman of the Christmas lighting committee, has called a meeting of that committee for seven o'clock on the evening of November 14th, at her home.

A short article in the Sunday Oregonian states that violets potted now, in rich soil, will repay the gardener by furnishing blooms for the dull days of January.

One of the most satisfactory plants we had in our garden this Summer was the old fashioned verbeena, much improved, no doubt, over the verbeena our grandmothers grew. The plants make a lacy green spread with their fern like leaves. They are fragrant and bloomed from early Summer until killed by frost. There were pure white blooms, clear reds, and one color particularly pleasing.

was a clear bright true blue, as well as pinks and orchids. They were used to edge a tulip bed. The rest of the bed could be planted to annual phlox and after the tulips are gone, the whole would make a delightful spot of color all Summer, and will provide cut flowers throughout the season.

The next meeting will be November 24th, and thereafter on the second and fourth Fridays of each month. The meeting dates have been changed to avoid conflicting with meeting dates of the other organizations. Don't forget the date, and we hope we will be seeing you.

JUNIOR GARDEN CLUB ORGANIZED

The first unit of Climber's Junior Garden club of Hermiston was organized in the Columbia district November 6, with 25 charter members. Officers selected include Rachel Weeks, Golden Marguerite; Dorothy Nelson, Adelweiss; Clayton Buell, John Quill; David Blahm, Forget-Me-Not. The above officers' names correspond to the usual ones, president, vice president, secretary, treasurer.

Dean Stout was appointed chairman of the plant exchange committee. Donna Marie Beck, flower seed exchange chairman, and a committee Albert Liebe, Rosemary Keller, Eileen Hunt, with Adelweiss, serving as chairman. Soon this committee will meet with the cabinet and plan the year's program, making booklets showing meeting dates, roll call request, field trips, Spring parties or hikes to be planned occasionally with the Hermiston unit. December 6 is the next meeting date. Each member is to answer roll call naming a flower he can readily identify, bringing a picture of that flower for his program booklet if possible. Each climber is to know and identify five common flowers.

Hermiston boys and girls between the ages of 8 and 14 who would be interested in becoming members of the Hermiston unit of the Junior Garden club are asked to sign membership blanks now at the librarian's desk, giving name, age and nearest phone number. The charter membership roll will be open one week, and then a meeting will be arranged for officer selection.

The Better Homes and Garden magazine offers to furnish membership pins free to all members. There are no dues. These two clubs are under the sponsorship of the adult Hermiston Garden club, with Mrs. Fern Zivney as counselor for the clubs.

See The New, Improved JOHN DEERE Model "L" TRACTOR It's Built for REAL ECONOMY

NO matter how small your crop acreage—you will want to come in and get full information on this new John Deere tractor built for market growers and small-acreage farmers. Its engine is of simple, 2-cylinder design. Its operating costs are amazingly low. Many owners use only 5 or 6 gallons of fuel for a full 10-hour day's work.

On small acreages, it is the only power unit needed—it does the plowing, seed bed preparing, planting, cultivating, hauling and other jobs—completely replacing horses. Best of all, the price of the tractor and equipment is within reach of every pocketbook.

Everyone should see this new John Deere—the only way to really appreciate its easy handling, its compact design, and its flexibility, is to come in—get the feel of the wheel.

JOHN DEERE QUALITY IMPLEMENTS AND SERVICE

NEW DIAL SYSTEM REPLACES OLD MAGNETO TYPE PHONES

readiness for dial operation with the aid and cooperation of telephone company engineers. To do so meant the rebuilding of old lines, the building of five new lines for the 46 new customers, and the replacement of the old hand crank telephones with dial telephones.

With the new dial service, transmission on all of the rural lines is expected to be measurably improved. All of the lines are metallic two-wire circuits, rather than single wire grounded circuits.

Another new feature of the Hermiston rural lines will be that the ringing also will be done by machine, thus materially improving the service as far as ringing is concerned.

Also, there will be no ringing signals heard on the lines when the user makes a call, such as was the case with the magneto telephone.

With the change-over of the Hermiston, Echo and Stanfield rural lines to dial operation, the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company in Oregon now is giving dial service to about 800 rural line customers, or about 10 per cent of the total served in the state. This number is expected to be increased rapidly in the future.

Though the rural line customers own their own telephone facilities, the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company is cooperating in every way possible to assist them in improving their service. As a result of this cooperation, there has been a substantial increase in the number of rural line telephones throughout the state since January 1, this year, the increase being greater than for any similar period the last 10 years.

Complete directions on the use and operation of the new dial telephones is contained in the supplemental telephone directories, sent to all Hermiston, Echo and Stanfield customers last week. Mr. Murray announces that local and long distance calls may be placed at booths at the Hermiston Herald and the Hermiston hotel. Also, bills may be paid at the Hermiston Herald office.
