

FARM CO-OPERATIVE DIVISION

A MESSAGE TO EVERY MEMBER.

R.E.A. HIGHLIGHTS

RAY L. WOOLLEY, Manager

NOTICE! It will be necessary to have the energy cut off on Monday and Tuesday, November 20 and 21, between the hours of 8:00 a. m. and 11:30 a. m., and between 12:15 p. m. and 5:00 p. m., in the Columbia, Echo, Stanfield and Echo districts, in order that certain construction in the vicinity of the substation may be accomplished. Please make arrangements necessary to meet this schedule. These interruptions will be cut to a minimum in order that you will be inconvenienced as little as possible.

The response to the ruling brought to your attention in your last statement has been very good. We find that the large majority of the members are making every effort to cooperate in this matter. We knew you would, too. However, there are a few of us who have not. We are sorry you have not seen fit to help us solve this problem of ours the easiest way, but we hope that you will be good losers and that you will help us cooperate from now on. This arrangement was made for the benefit of all of the members and not for one or a few. So please do not feel that you are being discriminated against as an individual because of any personal attitudes.

The manager and the office personnel wish to extend to each member a hearty Thanksgiving greeting, and we assure you the energy will not be interrupted for construction purposes on Wednesday and Thursday, November 22 and 23, to hamper your holiday plans.

We are considering a new member campaign. The object of it will be to have every house within 1000 feet of our present lines as a member in our cooperative, and receiving its benefits. Each of us should appoint ourselves as a committee of one to investigate in our immediate vicinity for prospective members of this kind. There are several who should become members who are not to date. Talk to those near you about this matter. You will later have an opportunity to receive more information in this regard.

WESTLAND GRANGE NOTES

At its meeting November 9, neat and attractive ballot boxes were presented by Floyd Laird, and the following officers were elected: Harold Laird, master; A. E. Rugg, overseer; Margaret Seeliger, lecturer; J. D. Corliss, steward; Floyd Laird, assistant steward; Monta Prindle, chaplain; Guy Shaw, treasurer; Hazel Rugg, secretary; Frank Seeliger, gatekeeper; Mabel Corliss, ceres; Josephine May, flora; Alma Laird, lady assistant steward. Nominations were left open for the office of Pomona until the next meeting.

The next meeting was postponed one night and will be Friday, November 24th. Interesting reports were given by county Y. G. A. president, D. H. Sherwood, and by members attending state conference and Pomona Grange.

State Deputy Wicklander and Sister Wicklander were welcome visitors as were County Deputy and Pomona Master Claude Hanscom, and Pomona Secretary Bertha Hanscom. A men's chorus was organized by Mrs. Minda Seeliger and the first practice arranged for.

Agriculture Chairman—Sherwood reported plans were being formulated for cooperation with the radio broadcast from station KJW Walla Walla. Brother Virgil Wilkes and Sister Sadie Hartley were reported ill.

During the lecturer's program special mention was made of Patriotic week. Mrs. Eleanor McCulley, assisted by Sister Alma Laird at the piano, led the Grange in some new songs and Sister McCulley and Bro. A. E. Rugg pleased with a duet. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening. Members, don't forget the next meeting, November 24. Visitors cordially welcome.

Closing Hours Announced

New closing hours have been announced by the Farm Bureau Cooperative which will close at 5:00 p. m. and the Inland Cooperative which will close at 5:30. These hours are effective at once. Patrons are asked to take notice of this change in the closing hours.

CANNING SCHEDULE

Meat and squash will be canned Friday morning, November 24. Other products by special arrangement. The laundry and cannery will be closed Thanksgiving day, Thursday, November 23.

Hermiston Co-op Cannery.

AAA DESIGNATES STATE VEGETABLE, POTATO COUNTIES

Thirteen Oregon counties have been designated commercial vegetable growing areas under the 1940 agricultural conservation program, and 15 counties have been designated commercial potato counties, Will Steen, chairman of the state AAA committee, has announced.

"These programs seek stabilization of the commercial vegetable and potato growing industries," Steen said. "They supplement other agricultural conservation programs."

"In the counties named, payments may be earned for complying with potato and vegetable acreage allotments. Deductions will be made if acreage allotments are exceeded."

The commercial vegetable program for 1940 was set up following a conference in Washington, D. C., attended in July by representative vegetable growers from various states. Oregon's representative was M. B. McKay of Troutdale, chairman of the Multnomah agricultural conservation committee.

The counties for which commercial vegetable allotments have been set up are Clackamas, Columbia, Douglas, Jackson, Lane, Linn, Malheur, Marion, Multnomah, Umatilla, Wasco, Washington and Yamhill.

The counties having commercial potato allotments are Baker, Clackamas, Columbia, Crook, Deschutes, Hood River, Klamath, Lane, Linn, Malheur, Marion, Multnomah, Umatilla, Washington and Yamhill.

Commercial vegetable acreage allotments for individual farms are based on the 1936-37 average acreage, with consideration given such factors as tillable acreage on the farm, type of soil, production facilities, crop rotation practices, and changes in farming practices.

Some reduction in the state's total commercial vegetable allotment has come about through a change in definition. In 1940, strawberries, mint, watermelons and perennial vegetables such as asparagus and rhubarb, no longer will be classified as commercial vegetables, but will be given special grouping entitling payments similar to the commercial orchard allowance.

PROGRAM AT CORN SHOW TO INCLUDE SHUCKING CONTEST

The first corn shucking contest to be held west of the Cascades, so far as known, is another added attraction just announced for the state corn show to be held on the O.S.C. campus November 27 to December 2. The two big days for outside visitors are Friday and Saturday, December 1 and 2.

The corn shucking contest will, under the circumstances, have to be with shocked corn rather than that standing in the field, but it is expected to provide some keen competition, as well as amusement among the growers attending.

The two-day program to be held in connection with the show has been practically completed by the committee in charge, says C. W. Smith, chairman. The only event of Thursday, November 30, will be the college judging contest, which will be open to all college students. On Friday the exhibits will be open for inspection starting at 9 o'clock. The corn shucking contest will follow at 10, after which the growers will hold their own judging contest at 11 o'clock.

An educational program will start Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with a general discussion on corn growing and culture by E. R. Jackman, extension specialist in farm crops. This will be followed by a discussion of feeding corn to poultry and livestock by H. E. Cosby, head of the poultry department, and A. L. Oliver, of the animal husbandry department.

Visitors will then see a moving picture on some phase of corn growing or corn machinery, and will hear Dr. R. E. Fore, associate agronomist, discuss hybrid corn in Oregon. The afternoon program will conclude with a talk on corn products by E. H. Wiegand, head of the food industries department.

SIX OREGON 4-H CHAMPIONS EARN TRIPS TO CHICAGO

Fresh from competing with 4-H club teams from the entire country at the National Dairy show in San Francisco, Oregon, leaders in 4-H activities have now turned their attention toward the next big event in the club world, the National 4-H club congress in Chicago December 1 to 9.

Free trips to this congress have been won by six Oregon club members by becoming state champions in their respective projects. Four others have been chosen to compete in regional or national contests, winners to be sent to the Chicago conference, held annually in connection with the International Livestock exposition. Following are the six winners already assured of trips, who will compete for national honors at Chicago:

Charles Kik, Hermiston, state champion in rural electrification projects; Geraldine DeLancey, Corvallis, state champion in national 4-H girls' record contest in home economics; Patsy Chalker, Portland, state champion in national canning contest; Orr-Lyda Brown, Eugene, state champion in national 4-H food preparation contest; Mary Patricia Clark, Russellville, state champion in 4-H style review; Paul DeCoursey, Maupin, state champion in national health contest. DeCoursey's trip is made possible through the assistance of Wasco 4-H club supporters.

In addition to those six winners, Robert Zielinski, Salem, has been entered in the national Moses trophy leadership contest, and Jacqueline Morton, Cottage Grove, is representing Oregon in the national achievement contest for girls. Wilbur Burkhardt, Albany, will represent Oregon in the regional semi-finals of the national 4-H meat animal production contest, and Allen Parker will be Oregon's entrant in the western states finals in the national home beautification contest. The winner of each of these will go to Chicago.

At the National Dairy show in San Francisco, Oregon's 4-H cattle judging team, from Blachly, was second in Ayrshire cattle in competition with teams from 16 other states. Oregon's production demonstration team from Hermiston was third among all western states, and the dairy consumption team from Cottage Grove placed in the blue award group.

EMERGENCY SHELF SUGGESTED FOR BUSY HOUSEWIFE

The beginner in home economics responded to the review question, "What is an emergency shelf?" with, "It's a shelf in the kitchen where you lie down when you get tired."

This coed's idea of an emergency shelf may not be such a bad one, but fortunately this business of feeding a hungry family three square meals a day is not as time-consuming and energy-wasting as formerly. What with all the emphasis on properly balanced meals and the inclusion of the protective foods . . . milk, fruits, vegetables and eggs . . . in adequate amounts, we find that these are often the very foods which require the least amount of preliminary work before being set on the table.

Even in rural homes few of us have any longer to make endless trips to the cellar, the milkhouse, and the smokehouse in preparing a dinner. Our kitchens are planned to save us steps, we own many labor-saving devices, and with our modern refrigeration we can keep innumerable fresh foods in supply and know they are safe. Homemakers today have little excuse for appearing at the dinner table as if they had been "through the mill". So, while an emergency shelf is not to rest on, it has a purpose.

Guests do drop in occasionally at mealtime (even our Aunt Sue by marriage has been known to arrive just at noon with every evidence of not having eaten lunch) and then we can thank our lucky stars if we have foods stored on an emergency shelf.

Have on your emergency shelf a tasty and well seasoned salad dressing. Then vary your salads by adding to this basic dressing a generous amount of crumbled Roquefort cheese or a combination of Roquefort and horseradish, or chili sauce. Any number of ideas could be suggested.
