

FIRST SHIPMENT OF NEW FORD TRACTOR ARRIVES

The first large shipment of new Ford tractors with Ferguson wheelless implements for local distribution arrived at the Rohrman Motor company this week. Rohrman Motor company is exclusive dealer for Umatilla and Morrow counties.

The shipment consisted of seven tractors and a stock of Ferguson wheelless implements including plows and two types of cultivators, which are controlled by the built-in hydraulic mechanism.

Mr. Rohrman is optimistic regarding business possibilities with this new type mechanized farm equipment. He states that it is designed to meet the requirements of the majority of farmers and that it is so simple, effective and economical in operation that it should sell readily.

Arrangements are already underway for demonstrations of the new tractor and implements on local farms, said Mr. Rohrman. Farmers will be invited to attend these demonstrations where they can gain first hand knowledge of this different kind of power farming. "The most revolutionary feature of the new Ford tractor is the power and traction it develops although it weighs only about 2,000 pounds. The hydraulic control and special coupling makes it possible to use this lightweight tractor for heavy jobs such as plowing with two bottoms. Because dead weight is not needed for traction such work can be done on one gallon of fuel an hour even under difficult soil conditions," said Mr. Rohrman.

The tractor and implements are now on display at the Rohrman Motor company showrooms.

36 Years on 'The Hill,' Garner Succeeds by Reason of Seasoned Experience and Sound Judgment

By BASCOM TIMMONS

John N. Garner would make a great President. He has a better practical understanding of national Government than any other living man. It is his life, and has been for 36 years.

At the end of the three dozen years under the Capitol dome he is, according to the calendar, 70 years old. Off the calendar he is 50 years old and in tip-top physical condition. This vigor and physical toughness he would carry into the greatest office within the gift of the people and he would have the extra 20 years of knowledge of affairs, domestic and foreign. He came to his present place of eminence the hard way. In his public service there is no problem of Government with which he has not grappled.

Bascom Timmons

Garner would make a great President because he has the proper temperament for the office. He knows when to advance and when to halt and take stock. He understands the Nation's legislative and administrative digests better than any man in the country. He would take no outposts he could not hold. He would be the best insurance against reaction, which so often follows unwise action. He has the poise and the patience to work for permanency. He would insist on sound legislation and coherent administration.

Best Judge of People's Temper

He is probably the best judge of the temper of the people and their representatives in Congress, at any given time, of any man in the United States. He has an uncanny perspective, which enables him to disregard the clamor of volatile and vociferous minorities and find the desires of the submerged majority. Perhaps this is because he is a typical American, neither radical nor reactionary, but progressive and forward-looking.

Garner would make a great President because of his gifts of leadership and his judgment of and ability to work with men. He has often said that most men he has known in public life were men of the good will, patriotically interested in the welfare of their country. He has always found a zest in sitting down with men who review problems from diverse angles, men of different experiences. He believes that out of such deliberations come sound, practical, beneficial and progressive solutions. He takes to such counsel tables his own fidelity to principles, clarity of reasoning and ability to get at facts.

His judgment of men is excellent. When he became Speaker, in 1931, he demonstrated his ability to choose men for important assignments — of finding the proper man to do a job. Men were placed in roles for which they were best qualified. He has always liked to reward merit in young men, and this gave him the opportunity. Although the Democrats had a fragile majority of only three votes overnight, he welded them into a cohesive, fighting organization.

Far-Flung Network of Contacts

Because his acquaintanceship in all parts of the country is second to none, I believe this far-flung network of contacts and knowledge of men would make it possible for Garner to call into service men of outstanding ability for his cabinet and other administrative places. His standard for judicial appointments would be high. He would be especially anxious to find proper men for diplomatic posts. His long experience on the House Foreign Affairs Committee imbued him with a deep and informed interest in international relations.

That Garner considers the solution of the unemployment and agricultural problems as the two outstanding challenges to the Union and that the chief attention of a Garner administration would be bent to this end, no one who knows him doubts. He likes to tackle tough problems, and here are two tough ones.

Opposed to Government in Business

If any one is supporting Garner on the theory he would be a do-nothing President, that supporter would better begin looking for a new man to support. His would be a heads-up administration. He believes modern government must meet evolutionary process must go forward to meet ever-changing human needs. He would not have the Government evade any legitimate function, but he would be zealous in his endeavor to see it did not encroach on functions outside its field. "Putting the Government into business is a violation of the Nation's industrial and commercial fabric," he declared in his 1932 acceptance speech.

Garner would make a great President because he thoroughly believes in our democratic system of three branches of Government. He has been called congressional-minded. It is true he has fought invasion of the prerogatives of Congress, but he is just as firmly against trespass against the executive and judicial branches.

Believing as he does in a Government of laws and not of men, he abhors unnecessary bureaucracy and would undoubtedly seek to dissolve some of it entirely, put back in Congress some of the legislative powers it exercises, back in the courts some of the judicial powers it occupies, and back in the States some of the local powers that belong there. All this would preserve the natural dignity of the executive branch, rather than weaken it.

Garner believes, as did Grover Cleveland, that the whole art of government is simply applied common sense and common honesty, with reason, justice and tolerance as handmaidens.

Has Vivid "Sense of Humanity"

Garner as President would be guided by a sense of humanity. It was he who introduced the first general relief bill in 1932. It was a pay-as-you-go measure, and carried a tax to pay its cost. He believes in an ever-increasing standard of living for the working man and woman. He has a passionate devotion for the well-being of men, and women who work for their daily bread. He has always fought monopoly and the concentration of wealth, and has insisted that the Government lay down rules to guarantee free and fair competition. He is for property rights because he believes them the very base of human rights. Ownership of property, he thinks, is one of the best guarantees of the dignity and independence of the individual. He is against favoritism in law enforcement.

Garner knows you cannot get something for nothing. He believes in constructive economy. He is the indestructible pioneer type who learned in a pioneer country how hard it is to make a dollar. He would be scrupulously careful with the taxpayer's dollar. He has the courage to resist fantastic proposals and boldly to meet its issue.

To continued efforts to find solutions of the Nation's problems Garner would take to the presidency vast experience. "Experience," to paraphrase the great Justice Holmes, "is the life of administration."

Garner loves his country, believes in it, knows it is durable and wants it to believe in itself. He wants the Government to do its part toward preserving freedom of opportunity. He believes economy, thrift and self-reliance are still the hallmark of the majority of Americans.

Here Comes the Sensational New Ford Tractor with FERGUSON SYSTEM of HYDRAULIC CONTROLLED UNIT IMPLEMENTS

CAST ASIDE ALL PREVIOUS NOTIONS OF HOW TO FARM WITH POWER. GONE IS THE DRUDGERY OF WORKING YOUR LAND.

FORD'S REVOLUTIONARY TRACTOR

Plowing is a thrill and a pleasure. So simple a child can do the work. Positively more power and more capacity for work than ANY other wheel tractor in its weight class.

- An all-purpose lightweight Ford tractor on four wheels.
- That is easier to steer on soft ground than your car.
- Has two 14-inch plow capacity and operates on less than half the fuel required by other two-plow tractors.
- Is light enough not to pack the land, yet plows 28 inches wide.
- Has built in Ferguson Hydraulic mechanism for raising and lowering the implements, and also keeps them at an even depth in the land.
- The wheelless implements become a part of the tractor and can be put on or taken off in a few seconds.

The Ford-Ferguson tractor is an innovation in a wheel tractor that is mystifying, uncanny and magic in its operation. Plow full speed into a rock, root or any obstacle that would damage any other implement—with the NEW FORD TRACTOR you automatically stop, the rear wheels raise up and spin. This is brought about by the built in Ford-Ferguson hydraulic system of control.

There is nothing you can do with your horses that you can not do with this New Ford tractor—and do it better, cheaper, quicker and with less effort on your part. Make no mistake about it! The Ford tractor will work on your farm to a degree of perfection you won't believe until you've tried it.
