

FARM CO-OPERATIVE DIVISION

A MESSAGE TO EVERY MEMBER.

R.E.A. HIGHLIGHTS

BY R. L. WOOLLEY

Now is the time when we as members of the association must remember that it takes the support of ALL members to make a success of our organization, and to insure continuous service over our lines. So do not think that your association just runs along by itself. Do your part to see to it that it does go. There are a few of us who have not taken care of our delinquent accounts. Be sure and take care of them. The penalty on all delinquent accounts begins today. Avoid it! If it is necessary for the service car to call after the first of the month your service charge will be required. So, avoid all this.

Some interests not in sympathy with R. E. A. have inquired in the past about the financial success of the movement all over the U. S., and have suggested that R. E. A. file periodic financial statements. I am informed that a report by Mr. Slatery's office in Washington, D. C. is now available. In fact there is a copy of it in the office of your association. In addition the report of your own cooperative is rendered the membership at the annual meeting.

We are now taking steps in the construction of additional lines to serve the City of Boardman. Those who have recently been seriously handicapped there will be able to get relief in the near future, unless some unforeseen delay occurs. The right of way is now being cleared preparatory to digging holes and erecting the poles.

COLUMBIA GRANGE PLANS COMEDY

"A Week's Trial" is the title of the two-act comedy to be presented by Columbia Grange members the second week in May. The play is being sponsored by the Y.G.A. of Columbia with Mrs. M. E. Knickerbocker as president.

Next week's Herald will carry a list of the characters with names of members taking the respective parts. The play cast will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Zivney Saturday evening for a short rehearsal and a social evening.

COLUMBIA GRANGE NOTES

Twenty-five officers and members were present for the second regular meeting of the month, Tuesday evening, April 16, with P. H. Corman, master, presiding.

H. J. Ott, chairman of the executive committee, asked that all grange members acquaint themselves with the policies and tolerance toward farm betterment of these office seekers desiring nomination in the primary election. Not only is it the duty of every citizen to be a registered voter and vote, but every granger should be interested in helping to select public officers, who are allied with national grange policies for farm betterment.

Emil Zivney in reporting for the agricultural committee spoke at length on the use and values of various fertilizers according to soil needs.

For the lecturer's hour, Mrs. Ott introduced Mrs. Thelma Knickerbocker, president of Columbia Y.G.A., to announce the program. An interesting brief history of early Oregon was presented by members reading prepared slips. The Oregon state song was sung. A humorous reading "The Movie Mother" was given by Mrs. Zivney. Mrs. Helen Fix pleased with a contest using the entire group.

Mrs. Blinston, Mrs. Carl Hammer and Mrs. Jessie Goodrich served delightful refreshments.

Mr. Corman earned the 100 pound sack of White Rose potatoes donated by Emil Zivney to the winner of three months question and answer contest.

FARM AUXILIARY HOSTS AT DINNER

Members of the Farm Bureau auxiliary were hosts to their families and those assisting on the building at a dinner in the recently completed club house Saturday evening. More than 75 persons were present to enjoy another of the famous dinners for which that group is famous.

Miles Baragar acted as toastmaster for the evening who introduced H. J. Ott, president, and C. M. Jack-

CANNING SCHEDULE

From April 29 to May 4
Asparagus canning every day from 8:00 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. Other products canned by special arrangement.

Those interested in getting asparagus to can should do so immediately while it is in its prime and at its peak of production.

We have canned beans, tomatoes and tomato juice for sale at 9 cents a can.

Hermiston Co-op Cannery son, secretary of the Farm Bureau, Mrs. Percy Corman, president of the auxiliary, Mrs. A. E. McCulley, Mrs. M. Baragar, H. K. Dean, John Jendrzewski and H. M. Sommerer.

The general theme of the evening was the cooperative spirit which made the new club house possible. An addition costing $1000 was made during the past few months.

TOWNSEND CLUB NEWS

By MRS. JOE UDEY

Another very important meeting and encouraging flashes from headquarters will be heard at the Legion hall Friday, April 26, at 8:00 P.M. All members are urged to be present and bring a friend.

A flash from Congressman Homer D. Angell of the third district dated April 19th: "When we adjourned today we had increased the number of names, signed on the discharge petition, to 133. We have had many recesses lately, owing to week end vacation, adjournments and other interruptions, so many have not had an opportunity to sign the petition. There are 50 of your loyal congressmen who will sign in a few days."

We will have a later flash which will be read at this meeting so every one interested in knowing the truth will want to be present.

This being the last meeting of the month the chairman of the finance committee asks that the Townsend banks be turned over to him.

Watson Has Choice Lily

Garden club members and others may be interested in the fact that M. L. Watson is the proud possessor of a very choice Indian lily named "Stand behind me lily". The original lily from which it is supposed to have been propagated were to have been produced by the original Umatilla Indians.

COLUMBIA SCHOOL NOTES

The kite tournament held in the non field across from the school house recently was a fine success.

The kite flyers were divided into two groups according to kite size. This is the second such tournament, and with the interest shown in such an activity it may become an annual April school affair.

HERMISTON UNION CHURCH

Cecil Warner, Pastor

Our sermon for the Sunday morning worship service will be centered around the words of Pilate uttered at the time of the trial of Jesus, "Behold the Man." And the evening service will be in charge of the Christian Endeavor, the young people bringing the message of the hour.

Young people worship at 6:45. Evening message at 7:45.

METHODIST CHURCH

Stearns Cushing Jr., Pastor

"Rural Life Sunday" will be the thought of the worship service this Sunday. In keeping the place of the 4-H club work will be given by Eugene Rugg.

You will find a warm friendship and welcome in our midst. Be with us this and every Sunday.

PILGRIM HOLINESS CHURCH

Alice Norris, Pastor

Our Sunday School still continues to open at the hour of 10 a. m. with a message at 11 a. m., and we continue to extend to you a Christian welcome. We are here as a people to point you to God.

Young people worship at 6:45. Evening message at 7:45.

HERMISTON BAPTIST CHURCH

Grayden D. Loree, Pastor

At our Sunday morning worship service we shall be thinking along the line of the importance of the individual. The topic, "The Importance of Me," is suggested by the words of Paul in First Corinthians 12:14. "For the body is not one member, but many." One asks: "What sort of a church would my church be if every member were just like me?"

Our evening message will deal with the story of the loaves and fish as found in John 6.

TIMELY WARNING ABOUT POULTRY REMEDIES GIVEN

This is the time of year that thousands upon thousands of day-old chicks are about to start new life, and it is a foregone conclusion that in some of the broods there will be diseases and losses. Many poultry raisers have a constant fear of losses that are the result of disease. It is only natural, therefore, that numerous poultrymen will try any "new" or "mysterious" treatment that is suggested to prevent or control disease. Since so many thousands of dollars are spent uselessly each year for worthless remedies, it seems advisable to caution poultry raisers against the promiscuous use of drugs, vaccines, bacterins and other treatments for disease.

There are but few vaccines and drugs that are specific and efficient for the prevention or treatment of diseases of poultry. By far the most important factor in disease control and prevention might properly come under the heading of "good management practices", based on the knowledge of the specific disease that confronts the poultryman. It is not possible in a short space to cover all the fundamental knowledge of the many diseases of poultry. Neither do poultrymen usually acquire this information by some quick process of education. The successful experienced poultryman has acquired this knowledge over a period of years based on observations and experimental data that have established certain poultry disease facts.

The seasoned experienced poultry raiser is inclined to let the venture some and less-experienced try out the new remedies, because experience has shown that over a period of years literally thousands of remedies have been offered to the poultry industry and most of them do not last more than a few years or so. Many poultrymen suspect, and justly so, that a great many of the new remedies each year are new, in name only. On the other hand, avian mixed bacterins and other treatments have been used intermittently for many years although they have not stood up under critical experimental tests and the field results are too inconsistent to be relied upon. It is self-evident when a treatment or vaccine is universally satisfactory. For examples, fowl-pox vaccination has proved itself so universally successful that no one questions this method of controlling the disease, and nicotine sulphate is generally accepted as a treatment for body lice.

It is very easy to be misled into believing that some remedy is responsible for certain field results. For instance, it is a known fact that some acute contagious infectious diseases, such as pullorum disease in chicks, may run a rather definite course. Under such circumstances, often by the time treatment is started the disease is about to subside of its own accord. Thus an improvement is noted in spite of the treatment not because of it; although the treatment usually gets the credit. Then there is the coccidiosis treatment that invariably carries the direction to clean out the house. Many poultrymen become too enthusiastic over the treatment to realize that they have paid to be told what they already know; namely, that daily cleaning of the house for a few days will check almost any outbreak of coccidiosis. Further, coccidiosis is a disease that will run a rather definite course depending on the management and environment of the birds. Methods that will prevent a disease are preferred to trying to cure a disease, however, some poultrymen have been persuaded to give their birds this or that treatment or inoculation to prevent some mythical disease in spite of the fact that the birds may be healthy and laying heavily.

This all sums up to the point that "cures" and "remedies" are no substitute for good management practices, and while the poultry producer is looking for lower costs of production, he well might consider saving the amount he contributes to the millions that are spent for worthless remedies.

Poultrymen should be suspicious of any stranger or person who readily diagnoses disease and who promptly has on hand some "secret" or "exclusive" treatment that will either cure or prevent the disease. A number of such individuals have been located and prosecuted already, however, it will require cooperation from poultrymen to make this protection more effective.
