

Now We're a Real— Consumer Cooperative!

The recent decision of your Board of Directors to place the store on a strictly cash basis enables us to conform in every respect to the best approved practice for cooperation.

A recently approved statement of principles by a committee appointed by the International Cooperative Alliance has this to say about cash:

“VI CASH PAYMENT—an essential factor not only of the financial stability and liquidity of cooperative enterprise but also of the power of capitalism to moralize trade and industry, liberate the community of consumers from the thralldom of debt, and train them in habits of economy.”

♦(The sixth of seven great principles expounded by the committee.)

Your management pledges anew their best effort to the further building of a real cooperative, run always with the best interest of the membership and customers in mind. We will try to merit and will of course, covet your confidence and continued loyal support. Remember your own stores gain is your gain.

George Weston, Evangelist

Jesus describes as a vain worship, that which is not in "Spirit and in Truth." In Eccl. 7:29 we find, "God hath made men upright; but they have sought out many inventions." We invite you to worship with us according to His word.

Lord's day—10:00 a. m., Bible study; 11:00 a. m., worship, communion and exhortation, subject "The Divine Measuring Rod"; 8:00 p. m., gospel service, subject "The Divine Call".

Wednesday, 8:00 p. m., gospel service, subject, "The Sower and The Seed."

Bible drill for young folks before each evening meeting. Come to a friendly church and meet a friendly people.

METHODIST CHURCH
Stearns Cushing, Pastor

"The Gospel According to You," will be the theme of the service at the Methodist church Sunday morning. What does the world see of Jesus living in you? Jesus is just as able to help today as he was in the early days of the church but we have not been willing channels through which he could act. What are you doing to make Hermiston more Christlike?

The Epworth League meets at 7 o'clock with Miss Rebecca Pierson leading the discussion. Join the happy fun and fellowship of these fine young people.

A cordial welcome is extended to all who enter our doors to worship God in their own mood.

Skill in Auto Driving Is Result of Practice

In the United States, each year sees nearly 1,000,000 brand new motorists take the wheel and begin the process of acquiring skill in driving. Driving is one of the things that can best be learned by doing. To many it comes quite naturally; to others it does not.

There is reason to believe that the beginner who is of a mechanical turn of mind has advantages over the beginner who, lacking mechanical interest, is forced to learn his driving technique entirely by rule. This is because the mechanical-minded driver understands the reasons for each move, comes to see, subconsciously, the mechanical processes set in motion by his hand or foot, and thinks of his driving in terms of what is happening under the hood.

But anyone who will take the trouble to ground himself in certain fundamentals about his car is likely to develop into a safe and skillful operator, whether he happens to be mechanical-minded or not.

With modern automobiles, the driver's control over his car is just as complete in bad weather as at any other time. But it frequently requires greater skill to exercise this control, and for this reason, the new driver should be extra cautious during the season when rain and hazy weather complicate the task of driving.

There is no better safety advice than the rule that is now almost axiomatic: Always drive in such a manner that you can stop in the clear space ahead. Many a motorist has thought he was obeying this rule, only to find that the stopping distance on wet pavement, or in slippery leaves, was something quite different from the stopping distance on hard dry pavement.

New Style Heating Plant Operates by 'Direct Ray'

A new type heating system now in the process of development may make possible comfortable winter living in house temperatures ranging down to 50 degrees, according to Dr. C. E. A. Winslow of Yale university.

Dr. Winslow terms the new system "the pleasantest and perhaps the most economical form of winter heating for residences."

He explained that the new method depends on rays which cause warmth when they strike the human body, thus differing from the usual method which depends primarily on warming the air.

Most of the efficiency loss in current heating systems is derived from the fact that a large percentage of the heat energy produced goes to warm the air rather than the human body.

In the new system, the air temperature can be as low as 50 degrees with perfect comfort to dwellers, because the heat that is generated radiates directly to the human body.

Speaking of "the air-cooled human body," Dr. Winslow emphasized that the general objective of air-conditioning "is to maintain a desirable rate of heat loss from the surface of the human body."

"What we desire," he said, "is atmospheric conditions which produce an active sense of physical well-being such as is experienced on the mountain top or sea beach."

Although not commercially available as yet, three radiant heating systems are now operating successfully in and near New Haven and the British have made extensive use of the method, he said.

Eskimo Reindeer Herders

Canada's Eskimos are making good as reindeer herders, says the department of mines and resources, Ottawa. A roundup shows that a herd placed under native management in December, 1938, has increased about 350 fawns and now totals approximately 1,200 head. Since its transfer to the Anderson river area, about 150 miles east of the government reindeer station, the native herd has been managed by Eskimo herders, under the supervision of the chief government herder. Establishment of this native herd is another step in Canada's plan to establish reindeer ranching among the Eskimos as a means of assisting the natives by providing a staple supply of food and clothing. The herd is reported to be in excellent condition and the natives entrusted with its management are taking a keen interest in the enterprise. Thus Canada's experiment in converting the Eskimos from hunters to herders appears to be making favorable progress.

Water Supply Pollution

One source of water supply pollution in many homes with old fashioned and obsolete plumbing fixtures is through back siphonage, a process whereby possibly contaminated water standing in fixtures may be drawn back into the supply piping by suction resulting from partial vacuum or backflow in the supply pipes. A menace to the health of every member of the family, back siphonage is best prevented by replacing unsafe fixtures, and examination of the piping system to determine whether it is properly designed. The American Medical association recently issued a warning to state authorities, urging them to be on the watch for sale of old-fashioned fixtures, barred from cities, on small villages and rural communities.

HERMISTON BAPTIST CHURCH

Grayden D. Loree, Pastor
"If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from Heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land." 2 Chron. 7:14.

A pastor recently said, "I believe that prayer will do more to protect our country than will billions of dollars spent for armaments, and it is the only power that will be able to stop the God-denying, Christ-hating, Bible exterminating dictators. Let us earnestly and mightily pray." Find your way to the house of prayer this Sunday.

GARDEN CLUB CHATS

Did you ever stop your work, sit down a moment with paper and pencil and try to see what you could write that would interest you, and you, and you?

Wasn't that rain Friday to Saturday morning just the grandest thing ever? We didn't irrigate and I suppose we will pay for it by having to drag the hose around the end of this week.

It is so good to know that our forests will be safe from fires for a while. But do not throw precaution to the winds and throw your burning cigarettes and matches down without putting them out first. Outside of our forests, lighted materials are still dangerous and though it might only be a field of weeds to catch afire, soil erosion cannot be prevented if the vegetation is burned away.

Have you noticed the fire stops on each side of the highway from here to Stanfield. The C.C.C. boys from Stanfield did that work. It helped for it stopped one fire from spreading.

Now is the proper time to start cuttings from your favorite shrubs and vines. Keep the ground moist at all times around the cuttings. The wood of this season makes the best cuttings. If nature works hand in hand with me I'll be able to tell you what results I had with my shrub cuttings.

Do you have an interesting little story to tell about your garden or birds? There is so much interest in these little episodes that I would like

Have you any suggestions or ideas that you wish this columnist to express? Remember I am at your service to serve you and to have the column be interesting for all of you.

There will not be a meeting August 9th, but we will convene August 23, and we want each of you to bring a suggested program for one meeting. These will be turned over to our program committee chairman to use in making up the year's program. This should be a means of making our Garden Club program for the ensuing year of interest to every member of the club and to make better attendance.

At this present time an appointed committee from the Garden Club is busy making plans for the flower show to be given by the Umatilla County Fair September 26, 27 and 28.
