Sulu Princess Gives Up Title to Many Islets

Colorful Philippine Moroland, where under the American flag live sultans, rajahs, princesses and imams, was brought closer to Manila when Dayang Dayang (princess) Hadji Piandao of Sulu signed documents renouncing long-standing land claims of the Sulu sultanate against the Philippine government.

Heiress to the late Sultan Jamalul Kiram II, the Dayang Dayang inherited the claims of the sultanate to various lands, including 700 islets in the Celebes sea as well as the people on them and the waters about them.

In renouncing the claims, the princess accepted an offer of the government, embodied in a law, to adjudicate to certain members of the Sulu royal house tracts of land of the public domain in the Sulu archipelago. Titles to these pieces of land accordingly will be issued by the commonwealth.

In the renunciatory documents, however, the Dayang Dayang reserved her claims to exclusive ownership of 14 islets between Sulu archipelago and Borneo. Inhabited by Moros (Filipino Mohammedans), these 14 islets actually are under the jurisdiction of British North Borneo, to which the Dayang Dayang has presented claims of ownership.

According to the princess, she inherited the islets from her royal ancestors and she is the only person who could rightfully govern them. She says the inhabitants of the islets recognize her as their own sovereign.

U. S. to Prepare a Haven in Nevada for Wild Life

A 40,000-acre swamp and meadow in eastern Nevada will be prepared for occupancy by migrating birds and waterfowl, Capt. Keith K. Tatom of the Fort Douglass CCC district headquarters here has announced.

The area, located in Ruby valley, Nevada, will be the third largest migratory bird sanctuary in the United States.

A section of land about 16 miles long and two miles wide has been acquired by the federal government. The area is fed by many natural springs that will provide natural waterways and islands. It will make "ideal swampland" for birds, Tatom said.

The job of engineers is to convert a vast waste land into an even more worthless wasteland. Much of the area will be flooded, and bushes and other herbage planted to create the best possible conditions for migrating birds.

The valley is already a natural resting place and nesting ground for ducks, geese, pelicans and almost every other variety of migratory bird found in this section of the country. By scientific methods they hope to change it into a place more natural than even nature could devise.

Two hundred CCC boys have been put to work clearing the land of worthless vegetation, cutting canals and building islands for the birds to alight on.

The refuge will be surpassed in size only by the Bear River refuge in Utah and the Malheur refuge in central Oregon.

Own a 'Cremona' Maybe

If your hope of sudden wealth rests in a violin case labeled Stradivarius 1716, you may as well abandon it.

Kenneth Warren, violin appraiser for a national musical instrument firm, counsels:

"It is significant that of all the hundreds of so-called Cremonese violins that have been brought in for appraisal not a single genuine instrument has ever been found.

"Hundreds of persons a year, who have violins bearing the labels of the Cremonese makers, Stradivarius, Guarnerius and Amati, come to us to sell them.

"These instruments were not made to deceive anyone. They were originally made as models from those of the Cremonese and a ticket was put inside to indicate that they were copies of the maker. In the course of time, people came to believe that they were original instruments. There are only about 450 Stradivarius instruments left and we know where all of them are. The chances of another turning up are exceedingly slim."

Important Kitchen Sink

The sink has been called the most important single piece of equipment in the kitchen. As both food preparation and the cleaning away processes involve the use of the sink, more than half of the housewife's cooking time in the kitchen is spent at the sink. Among the many types which may be chosen is an acid-resisting, cast-iron, enameled sink, with chromium plated swinging spout and a disappearing spray hose, obtainable in single or double compartment styles, with one or two drainboards. A 60-inch cabinet sink has two drainboards and one basin; the 42 and 52-inch models have one basin and one drainboard. All models are 36 inches high, which is the correct height for the average woman, and all are 25 1/4 inches wide, which is the standard width of the steel base cabinets. The sink, since it is the most used fixture, should be half way between the refrigerator and the range.

Rodents Carry Plague Infection

CORVALLIS — The danger of plague infection in handling rodents is emphasized by a report received by O.S.C. from southern Oregon, that a marmot examined by the state health service had been found positive for plague. Dr. Karl Frederick Meyer, director of the Hooper foundation for medical research, who spoke at Oregon State last winter, called attention to the danger in handling chipmunks, squirrels, prairie dogs and cottontail rabbits, as well as rats, as any of these may be infected or may carry infected fleas.

Sulfur Still Best Fertilizer

LAKEVIEW—The use of sulfur on alfalfa, long a standard practice in eastern Oregon, is still giving better results than any other fertilizer treatment on Lake county soils, reports Vic Johnson, county agricultural agent. On the J. D. Corum farm at Silver Lake, alfalfa yields were increased 210 per cent by the use of 100 pounds of sulfur per acre, in comparison with untreated plots. Gypsum, or landplaster, applied at the rate of 250 pounds per acre, increased the yield 149 per cent, while superphosphate applied at the same rate increased the first cutting 147 per cent.
