

A Cooperative Economy—

The need of the world today. The world has tried out over the centuries three forms of production for profit economic systems in the form of Slavery, Serfdom and Capitalism. All have proven unable to provide plenty for all and peace between the nations. Production for use in the form of a Democratic Cooperative Economy is the only road that can provide security and equality, and also preserve liberty. Labor must become the owners of industry and consumers must become the owners of businesses which distribute goods and services.
