

PATRONAGE

Customer patronage has built many BIG BUSINESSES—but BIG BUSINESS exists to exploit the customer. As a protection the customer must himself own the business that furnishes him with goods and services. Thus the customers' patronage will make his OWN BUSINESS BIG. That is consumer cooperation—a higher, better, more satisfactory system of business.

GARDEN CLUB CHATS

by Mrs. Vera Doyle

Gardeners of flowers, here is your chance to show your wares to advantage. The Echo Garden club has extended the public an invitation to participate in their Flower Show, Monday, September 16. Further information may be had by procuring one of their schedules left in the Hermiston Drug store. Ask for them at the fountain. A silver tea will also be served during the show. Let's all try to send in an entry and also attend their show.

Our annual picnic to be held this coming Wednesday, September 18, will have an honored guest present. Mrs. Daniel Heffner, president of the Oregon State Garden clubs, has accepted our invitation to attend. This will give all in the Blue Mountain district a chance to meet our charming president.

The picnic will be held on the W. E. Logan lawn. Drive out west of town past the Prann Funeral home and about two blocks more you turn to the right into a lane, going to a white house on the hill top. That is your destination. Local members are asked to bring dishes and a card table.

Do you want to learn the art of candy making at home? Ask the Echo Garden clubbers about it.

GEORGE BEDDOW RANCH SOLD

George Beddow has sold his place in Columbia district and Mr. and Mrs. Beddow will move to Pendleton next week to make their home. The purchaser of their 40 acres was Herbert Snapp of Adams who will seed the entire tract to pasture grasses for his Aberdeen-Angus cattle in the summer time. In winter seasons he will move his cattle to his wheat fields near Adams.

Mr. and Mrs. Beddow have been residents of this project for 23 years and have many friends here. They plan to buy a home in Pendleton where they lived before moving to the farm. During the late fall and winter season the place will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jeppe, and in the spring will be occupied by the purchaser.

SUNFLOWER SOCIAL SCHEDULED FRIDAY

The Columbia Grange will sponsor a Sunflower Social next Friday night, September 20, in the Columbia school house beginning at 8:00 p. m. There will be no door admission but baskets will be sold during the evening. The Grange will furnish free ice cream, coffee or punch to participants.

Ladies are asked to bring boxed lunch for two, decorated with wild sunflowers. Men will wear work clothes and sufficient money to purchase the baskets. An interesting short program has been prepared and the general public is invited.

WIND STORM DOES LITTLE DAMAGE

The Hermiston area was spared from severe damage which visited other parts of eastern Oregon Monday when a mild dust storm proved annoying to housewives and others in general. Several reports from other parts of eastern Oregon stated that considerable damage was done. At Yakima many acres of hops were blown down and growers were offering 2 1/2 to 3c per pound to pickers.

The first rain in some time fell in Hermiston that night, totalling .02 in. The report for the week follows:

Date	Max.	Min.
September 4	76	56
September 5	79	55
September 6	79	43
September 7	88	50
September 8	93	53
September 9	96	54
September 10	85	58
September 11	92	55

Hermiston Residence Sold

Arrangements were completed last week for the sale of the Charles Best property north of Hermiston to Delbert Demert of Ione, who has purchased the property for his father and mother who will take possession soon. The transaction was for cash and included the property and considerable equipment. The place has been occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John A. Clarke and family, who moved Saturday to the Thomas Campbell place which they have leased.

Jess Myrick Plans Building

Jess Myrick, who conducts a stock farm on the old Frank Waugaman place in the Columbia district, will soon begin construction of a new house. Present buildings will be torn down. Claude Wilcox and William Struthers will be employed on the work.

Vic Epperson Suffers Fall

Vic Epperson, who last week fell from a horse and suffered serious injury to his neck, is reported as somewhat better in the Pendleton hospital. Epperson was riding a young horse which became frightened and began bucking, throwing him on a hard-surface road.
