LOOK!

At the many features built into John Deere tractors. When you buy John Deere you get a fully equipped machine.

1. Large oversize tires.
2. Greater turning ability (can turn on one rear wheel).
3. Full vision ahead (cultivators are mounted in front).
4. Donaldson oil bath air cleaner.
5. Full force feed lubrication.
6. Purolator oil filters.
7. Ventilated crankcase.
8. Oil bath breather.
9. Exhaust muffler.
10. Belt pulley drive (standard equipment. No extra cost).
11. Built in power shaft (standard equipment. No extra cost).
12. Dial type heat indicator.
13. Manually controlled radiator shutter, without leaving the operator's seat.
14. Easily accessible, hand clutch. (Can be relined in 20 minutes.)
15. Timken bearing transmission.
16. Foot controlled differential brakes.
17. Direct line of power from crankshaft to rear axles.
18. Swinging drawbar.
19. Complete line of integral equipment available.
20. Hydraulic power lift fully inclosed. No moving parts exposed to dirt and weather.
21. Fuel oil burning ability—Burning less gallons per hour than gas burning tractors of equal H. P.

And yet, all these features put together could not make a tractor, if not properly balanced in relation to Horse power, traction and weight. A tractor to do your work must have these three items, horsepower, traction and weight, and have them scientifically balanced as John Deere engineers have exerted their efforts to do. Seventy per cent of the weight on rear axle.

That's the reason these tractors have proven their merits. You can't go wrong when you buy John Deere Tractors.
