WHEAT PARITY PAYMENTS ABOUT SAME NEXT YEAR

Parity payments may be earned in 1941 by wheat growers under essentially the same provisions that have been in effect this year, announces Will Steen, chairman of the state AAA committee in Oregon. Payments will be made to eligible producers from a fund of $212,000,000 appropriated for this purpose.

Payments will be made on the normal yield of the farm acreage allotment at rates which will bring the total price as nearly equal to parity as funds will permit. In 1939 and 1940 the rate of payment combined with the average farm price could not exceed 75 per cent of parity.

Payments are limited to participants in the 1941 AAA program. Any such participant is eligible if (1) his 1941 planted acreage does not exceed his allotment, and (2) if he does not offset his performance by overplanting wheat on any other farm in which he has an interest.

SIMPLE METHOD REVEALED FOR MAKING KRAUT

The newest idea in making sauerkraut is to make it in glass jars that hold enough for a single meal, thus doing away entirely with the bother of using crocks and barrels, suggests Mrs. Mabel Mack, acting extension nutritionist at Oregon State college. This method is used to best advantage if you have a cool storage place and are planning to use the kraut during the winter.

The simple way of making sauerkraut right in the jars is to mix the shredded cabbage with the salt, 4 ounces to 10 pounds of cabbage, and pack it in the jars, Mrs. Mack explains. Place the rubbers and lids on the jars, but do not seal tightly. Have an enamel pan under the jars to catch the juice as it bubbles out. Let the kraut stand for two or three days until there is a good gas formation. Then pour the juice back and seal the jars. Allow the kraut to ripen for a month or six weeks, and then it is ready to serve.

When sauerkraut is to be kept until summer, it is best to make it in a crook or barrel and can it in glass jars after it has fermented for about 10 days. Have the sauerkraut thoroughly hot and then fork it into the jars. Put the rubbers and lids on the jars but do not seal. Place the jars in a bath of boiling water and continue heating for about five minutes until the water returns to boiling. Then seal the jars and continue heating them in the water bath—10 minutes for quart jars, and 15 minutes for 2-quart jars.

These methods have been worked out by Harry E. Gorseline, bacteriologist in the bureau of agricultural chemistry and engineering, United States department of agriculture, adds Mrs. Mack.

CREEPING FESCUE JOINS LONG LIST OF SEED GRASSES

Oregon now has the only commercial seed acreage in the entire country of creeping red fescue, a comparatively new grass so far as general use is concerned, which promises to be a notable addition to the growing list of Oregon seed crops and a valuable grass for lawn and forage purposes.

Three men in western Oregon harvested enough seed this year to provide a combined supply of about 8000 pounds, according to Harry A. Schoth, federal agronomist at Oregon State college, who first introduced the grass on the station test grounds in 1929.

The three who harvested what is probably America's first commercial crop of creeping red fescue seed are Gilmore Hector, Albany; Oscar Loe, Silverton, and Harry Riches, Salem. These three growers have a combined acreage of about 20 acres.

The grass is much like ordinary chewings fescue in appearance and has its characteristics of being deep rooted, fine leaved and hardy to weather and rough usage. Its distinguishing feature is an underground spreading root system in place of the bunch grass habit of the chewings fescue.

Its ability to spread through its roots as well as by seed makes it an excellent sod former alone or in other pasture or lawn mixtures. On the Northrup creek cut-over land grazing experiment it has shown great promise, spreading well under heavy grazing.

Seed supplies for what little has been used in this country formerly came entirely from Canada where it was doubtless introduced from England. Alberta growers produce considerable seed regularly.

Probably the oldest stand of red creeping fescue in Oregon is on a hillside pasture near Estacada. Neither the owner or the neighbors know how the grass was introduced there, but it has persisted for years and produced forage consistently.

The experiment station is now engaged in making selections from the original mixed strains brought here more than 10 years ago, and is now increasing some strains that appear to be definitely superior to anything now obtainable.

ENROLLMENT IN HEPPNER CCC OPEN

Umatilla county still has an unlimited quota of enrollments in Civilian Conservation Corps camp at Heppner. This is an opportunity for boys to receive wages of $30.00 per month in addition to board, room, clothing and medical and dental care. The working hours required of CCC enrollees are reasonably short. If a boy is interested in earning credits toward a high school diploma, he is given the opportunity to study under an accredited teacher.

In addition to the offer of furthering his formal education, the enrollee has the advantage of working under skilled mechanics and learning various types of trades so that upon discharge from the camp he has a start toward doing more interesting and remunerative work than common labor.

The staff members of the Umatilla County Welfare Commission will be glad to explain the program in greater detail to anyone interested, if he will call at the Welfare office at Southeast First and Emigrant avenue any morning between 9:00 and 12:00. The office is closed on Saturdays.

Boys will be sent to Camp Heppner again on October 24, and applications for enrollment will be accepted at the Welfare office in Pendleton up to that date.

WHEAT INSURANCE INCREASE EXPECTED

More than three times as many winter wheat growers have taken out federal crop insurance in Oregon this year than were insured last year, a report by N. C. Donaldson, state AAA executive officer, shows. The big increase came in western Oregon where growers applied for insurance in large numbers for the first time.

Umatilla county also increased its policies from 392 to 741 and leads all counties in total numbers. Clackamas is second with 603, followed by Union, which increased from 97 to 413. Lane county has 375 and Morrow county 344. The state total is 4926 compared with 1610 last year. Spring wheat growers will have until February 28, 1941, to apply for insurance.

Only 416 claims for losses in 1940 were paid, as crop conditions were fairly good.

MISS GERTRUDE PATTERSON

L. C. Dyer, who is now residing with Mrs. Dyer in Pilot Rock, stopped for a short time in Hermiston over the week end following his return from Tacoma, Wn., where he was called by the death of Mrs. Dyer's sister, Miss Gertrude Patterson. Miss Patterson, who for many years has been private secretary to Dr. H. V. Morgan, lecturer, was the victim of a sudden heart attack.

Funeral services were held Wednesday, October 9. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. L. C. Dyer of Pilot Rock and Mrs. Maude Carlin of Denver. Both Miss Patterson and Mrs. Maude Carlin have visited many times in Hermiston and are well known here.

Shaar Auto In Mishap

The cars driven by Mrs. William Shaar of Hermiston and a Portland motorist collided in front of the post office Wednesday morning. The impact came when Mrs. Shaar pulled away from the curb and the other car rounded the curve over the railroad track. No one was injured although both machines suffered bent fenders.

Revival Meetings At Irrigon

Old time revival meetings are in progress every night except Saturday at Irrigon with Evangelist A. M. Ricker in charge, according to their pastor, Edward C. Harness. There is special singing every night and stirring messages from God's Word.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"ARE SIN, DISEASE, AND A DEATH REAL?" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 13.

The Golden Text was, "He that is our God is the God of salvation; and unto God the Lord belong the issues from death" (Ps. 68:20). Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "For the Lord is our judge, the Lord is our lawgiver, the Lord is our king; he will save us. And the inhabitant shall not say, I am sick: the people that dwell therein shall be forgiven their iniquity" (Isa. 33: 22, 24).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Keys to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Sin, sickness, and death are compelled in human material belief, and belong not to the divine Mind. They are without a real origin or existence. They have neither Principle nor permanence, but belong, with all that is material and temporal, to the nothingness of error, which simulates the creations of Truth" (p. 286).

Motorist Tears Up Lawn

The second uninvited guest in recent weeks visited Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hale Tuesday afternoon when a passing motorist failed to negotiate the curve south of the Hale residence and plowed into the rosebushes and irrigation flume. Although the car suffered some damages, no one was injured in the accident. Considerable damage was done to the flume and shrubbery.

Harpers Are Honored Guests

The Young Married People's class of the Church of Christ gave a surprise farewell party for Mr. and Mrs. Glen Harper Wednesday night at the home of Rev. and Mrs. C. Warner. The Harpers are moving to Pendleton Friday where Mr. Harper will be employed with the Pacific Power & Light Co.

He Got Back 15 Cents

Just before the opening of the special session of Congress in November 1937, Vice-President Garner arriving in St. Louis from San Antonio, en route to Washington, made a bee-line for a barber shop.

For 25 minutes, the Vice-President relaxed for a shave at the hands of Dexter Davis, Union Station barber who has had Garner in his chair four of the eight times in recent years he has stopped in St. Louis.

As he left the barber shop, he handed the Negro shine boy a quarter. "Thank you, sub," smiled the boy. "That's a quarter," reminded Garner. "Yes, sub, I know it's a quarter," replied the boy. "Well, I want some change," Garner demanded. He got back 15 cents.
