

Co-op Way of Life Is Needed!

(Excerpts from the speech of Dr. James Peter Warbasse, eminent Brooklyn surgeon, who has been president of the Cooperative League of the U. S. A. for 25 years. The speech was delivered in Chicago on October 16, before cooperative leaders from 40 states gathered for the 12th Biennial Congress of the Co-op. League of the U. S. A.)

Dr. Warbasse said, "The consumers cooperatives have assumed an important role in American life and that we may be closer to a cooperative democracy in these United States than we know. We are building cooperation in a country particularly adapted to and most urgently needing the cooperative way of life. Gigantic feats of engineering and of thievery, inextricably commingled, have characterized our age. The money motive and the profit motive have brought the world to the disorder which now prevails. The service motive only can save it."

Turning to the broader implications of the cooperative movement as it faces a world crisis, Dr. Warbasse stated, "It is profit business that is forcing the European countries into fascism, and making the expansion of stateism the next step toward still further chaos. Democracy is perishing, because the political state can not be democratic in the absence of democracy in industry. This is proved in Europe today. The collapse of the profit system with all that entails will visit America as sure as the night moves westward. And with this collapse comes the tragedy. Against it stands the cooperative method to save society from stateism and to create a democratic system for the supply of human needs."

"Business in this country," Dr. Warbasse said, "can be made to succeed by changing the motive to service, by changing the ownership to consumers and establishing in industry the safeguards of democracy. These are reasonable, practicable and essential steps to peace and plenty and civilization."

Continuation of Shrubs and Trees

Some plants respond satisfactorily to almost any kind of manure; others give more satisfactory results with certain ones; for some purposes fresh manure may be used; for others only composts. Cow manure is the least heating of the common manures and is especially valuable for roses, lilacs and plants that do not respond to heating manures or to an abundance of quickly available nitrogen. It produces its results more uniformly over a longer period than most manures.

Horse manure is probably the most heating of the readily available manures and should not be used about evergreens until it is composted.

Sheep, chicken and rabbit manures are all rich in nitrogen and should be used in moderation, as they may cause over stimulation and induce soft growth or growth too late in the season. Compost is also good for deciduous shrubs, and it is the only manure that should be used about coniferous evergreens, including pines, spruces, junipers and arborvitae, and broadleaf evergreens, such as hollies and rhododendrons. With most of these it should be used only as a mulch and should not be worked into the soil.

When manure is not available some other organic materials that can be purchased through dealers in garden supplies are prepared stockyard sheep and cattle manures; tankage; dried blood; fish scrap; cottonseed meal; soybean meal; ground raw bone and steamed bone; many brands of moss peat and humus derived from simi-

DOCTOR'S OFFICE IS MODERNIZED

Work was completed last week in the offices of Dr. W. Martin Marbut above the First National Bank in re-decorating and re-arranging the rooms. The office is now completely modern with five rooms for various uses. The walls and woodwork have all been repainted.

Of considerable value is the X-Ray room which contains one of the most powerful machines in the northwest. Several new improvements have been added to the equipment by Dr. Marbut and he is now able to produce clear and concise X-Ray pictures.

SWITZLER RESIGNS AS ROUNDUP HEAD

William H. (Bill) Switzler, president of the Pendleton Round Up since 1939, resigned Monday because of ill health. Bill has been connected with the wild west show since its infancy and for many years was noted as an ace pickup man and since then has served in many other capacities, including judge and president.

It is stated that Mr. Switzler has never missed a show since its beginning and his popularity is widespread. He will be greatly missed by the organization.

HAMMER FAMILY GATHERING HELD

A real old fashioned Thanksgiving was celebrated at the L. Hammer home Sunday when seventeen members of the family and friends enjoyed a bounteous dinner at the beautifully appointed tables.

The harvest colors of yellow, orange and brown were used at both tables. A large bowl of fruit with three yellow tapers on either side made a lovely centerpiece at the large table. The children's table carried out the same idea on a smaller scale. Thanksgiving napkins and place cards helped carry out the color scheme.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Neill and Peggy, Mrs. Carl Hammer and Carole and Dick, Gloria Hammer, Lucy Davison, Bessie Hammer, Elma Mullins, Viola, Rosalie, Louise and Ted Hammer, Bobby Mathers, and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. L. Hammer.

Miss Bessie Hammer is superintendent of nurses at the State T. B. Hospital in Salem and motored up for the occasion. Miss Davison and Miss Mullins are Public Health nurses from The Dalles. The three girls came Saturday afternoon and stayed until Sunday evening.

on which stands the old brick building across the street west of the Umatilla Co-op Creamery. The building has been owned by the city of Hermiston for the past several years, and action by the city council last week Wednesday offered for sale the building to the highest bidder for cash with a minimum of $1000.00, which already has been offered.

The old building has been rented and leased for the past several years, and it was felt by council members that it would be better to dispose of the building than to rent it. The money would go to the building fund which has already been started.

The sale has been set for the 16th of December at 10 o'clock in the morning.
