

White Plague' Ranks Foremost Among Diseases as Killer of Youth

Above chart shows that in one year in the United States tuberculosis took a toll of 5,239 victims between the ages of five and twenty. Although deaths from accidental causes outnumber those from tuberculosis, tuberculosis is no disease that constitutes a greater menace to the youth of our nation than TB. Figures at left indicate percentages of deaths from other leading diseases.

San Francisco Remembers Stevenson With Monument

Tourists to San Francisco are shown the little square at the edge of Chinatown where Robert Louis Stevenson sat and passed the time of day with sailors, booted miners and wanderers from everywhere, back in the seventies.

Called Portsmouth square, it is a historic spot. Around it grew up the little village of Yerba Buena, later called San Francisco. The town's first hotel, theater and schoolhouse faced the square. Capt. John Montgomery of the United States sloop-of-war Portsmouth seized Yerba Buena and raised the American flag in the square on July 9, 1846, during the Mexican war. From his ship the square got its name.

Stevenson was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, on November 13, 1850—just 89 years ago. A wanderer at heart, the frail man, in his twenties, landed on the East coast, then came west by emigrant train.

Motley crowds of people from all quarters of the globe haunted the square when Stevenson frequented it. Among them the slender writer found inspiration for his tales, as he observed strange characters and listened to their yarns. For hours at a time he sat on a bench in the sun, hearing stories about China, the South Seas and strange ports and peoples. It is said that some of these aroused in him a romantic interest in Samoa, where later he visited and died, at lonely Apia.

Portsmouth square remembers "R. L. S." with a monument, the first ever erected to his memory. A simple rectangular block of Sierra granite, it is surmounted by a golden galleon, the Hispaniola of "Treasure Island." A quotation from the writer's "Christmas Sermon" is inscribed thereon: "To be honest, to be kind..."

The scene from Stevenson's day hasn't changed much. Today there are sailors on leave, adventurers and peoples of many races to be found in the square. Chinese children romp on the grass, while their elders doze in the sun. Latin and Oriental boys with bootblack boxes made the rounds—"Shine? Five cents!"

Maine Plans to Restock Their Fishing Streams

Seeking to maintain its claim to being the "fisherman's paradise," Maine has undertaken an intensive program to stock its streams and coastal waterways.

The fish and game department recently released 10,000 four-to-six-inch trout in the Cumberland county waters and now is seeking to increase the number of fighting Atlantic salmon in its streams.

Gov. Lewis O. Barrows ordered the departments of inland fisheries and game, and sea and shore fisheries, to undertake a joint survey of all known and potential salmon rivers to discover ways and means of bringing back the salmon in large numbers.

The governor also proposed that the U. S. bureau of fisheries convert their Craig Brook hatchery at Orland into an exclusive salmon plant, and Washington has sent a specialist to investigate the situation. The hatchery is working only with trout now.

It was suggested that legislation be enacted whereby the state could take over and destroy salmon weirs and reimburse the owners for their losses. The state, according to Barrows, already is prepared to make improvements in fishways, dams, and to clear streams.

Historic Earthworks Preserved

Unique among the national historic sites preserved and maintained in Canada by the national parks bureau, department of mines and resources, Ottawa, is the Southwold earthwork, near St. Thomas, Ont. These aboriginal works, which cover about three and a half acres, are believed to have been erected by the Attiwandaronk or "Neutral" Indians. When the Attiwandaronks were driven from Ontario by the Iroquois about 1650 this prehistoric earthwork is thought to have been the scene of their last stand against the triumphant Iroquois warriors.

Canadian archeologists and officials of the Smithsonian Institution of Washington have declared this Indian fortification to be the only one of its kind in Canada.

The site comprises the ruins of a unique double-walled fort protected by a double line of earthworks by which it was completely inclosed.

Tree Can't Hide Age

A woman's age may be her secret, but any good dendrochronologist can date a tree, says an article in the Field Museum News.

Dendrochronology, or tree ring chronology, has been used by Dr. Paul S. Martin, chief curator of anthropology at the museum, during archeological expeditions in Colorado and New Mexico.

Basis of the science is the fact that trees add a ring for each year of growth. Rings vary according to the moisture supplied to the tree by rain and snow. Wet years produce broad rings; dry years, narrow rings.

By careful study of hundreds of trees a graph of weather conditions for more than 1,200 years has been worked out. When log beams are found in ancient ruins, comparison of the rings with the mastergraph will show what year the beam was cut.

WOOL GROWERS TO KEEP LAST YEAR'S OFFICERS IN 1941

LAKEVIEW—Oregon wool growers concluded one of their most successful annual conventions here last year's officers and the adoption of a series of resolutions on various topics vital to the sheep industry.

Mac Hoke, Pendleton, will continue as president; Wayne Stewart, John Day, as vice-president, and Walter Holt, Pendleton, as secretary-treasurer.

One new feature that attracted much interest this year was a round-table or panel discussion near the end of the session, on the subject of "War and Its Effect Upon the Wool Market." E. L. Potter, head of the agricultural economics department at Oregon State college, led this, with President Hoke, R. A. Ward, head of the Pacific Wool Growers cooperative; J. T. Alexander, a Portland woolen goods manufacturer, and J. A. Gibson, a private buyer, all participating.

Among the facts brought out in this discussion was that the government estimates that it will take an average of 135 pounds of grease wool to outfit one soldier in the present preparedness drive. Already the government has purchased 160,000,000 pounds of wool to care for the needs of the first million recruits.

This type of program number was well received by the members of the association who gathered near the platform and took part in the discussion by directing many questions to the members of the "panel."

METHODIST CHURCH Stearns Cushing, Pastor

"The Nature and Place of Faith in the Christian Life." "Now faith is assurance of things hoped for, a conviction of things not seen." In the tumult of modern life, we need this powerful assurance of trust. Have you been neglecting its development? The church is the only place to make sure its growth. Come worship with us on this Sunday at the usual hours.

HERMISTON BAPTIST CHURCH Grayden D. Loree, Pastor

As we approach the Christmas season we are thinking of gifts. We have a beautiful custom of giving gifts to one another in commemoration of God's great gift to man, His Son. Is Jesus on your gift list this year? But you say, "How can I give to Him? He says, 'Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren ye have done it unto me.'" Let us make some unfortunate one happy or save some life with the money we would otherwise spend for expensive gifts for friends. Our Sunday morning topic will be "Gifts to the Master." Attend some church in Hermiston at this Christmas season.

Postoffice Announces Hours

The Hermiston postoffice windows will remain open until 6:00 p. m. Saturday, December 21, and also from 9:00 to 10:00 a. m. Sunday, December 22, to help relieve the congestion expected over the week end. Patrons are urged to mail packages early.

COMMISSION TO ISSUE LICENSES

With Oregon's 1940 Big Game season history, the curtain falling on migratory bird season in this state, and fishing confined largely to the coastal streams, attention of the Oregon State Game commission is now centered in distribution of 1941 hunting and fishing licenses.

Preparations for supplying more than 200,000 sportsmen with the new licenses has been under way for some little time. The sale opens on December 15 in both the commission's Portland office and at 600 agencies scattered throughout the state.
