METHODISM'S DAY OF COMPASSION Emergency Million Sunday, March 2

A Million Dollars in One Day! American Methodism is asked to give a million dollars in one day. The three causes for which appeal is made are: 1. Overseas relief; 2. Help for our British Methodist people and churches; 3. Religious work in or near our army camps.

Sunday, March 2, 1941, has been the day set. It has been named the Day of Compassion. Under Christ we are sons and daughters of British Methodism, our mother church. To our hearts God gives the parental feeling, and we must go with our boys to the camps and hold them for Christ.

Another local aspect of this offering is the possibility of a part being used to promote work in Hermiston for those that are employed in the construction of the Ordnance Depot. The local pastor has drawn up plans and has submitted them to the committee which will administer the offering.

Monday, Mrs. White enjoyed a week's visit here at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Waid.

Sammy Nudo of Portland visited his mother, Mrs. Mary Nudo over Sunday, as did Howard Herick visit his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Herick. They were accompanied by Buff Stoker who was a former resident here.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Hughes have received their annual spring hatch of 299 little chickens.

Robert Christian of Prosser is spending some time here at the home of his mother, Mrs. Tom Moore.

Mrs. Delbert C. Sherry accompanied her sister, Mrs. Judd Rogers to Yakima last Saturday for a week's visit.

Rev. Grover Moore and daughter of Pendleton are conducting special services at the Gospel Mission in Stanfield this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Nye Berry have purchased a 5 and 10c store at McMinnville and will reside there and take care of the business.

Miss Nancy Stolz has been ill with the flu. Also Mrs. Marvin Ray and little Jean have been quite ill.

Mrs. Elsa Winsted of Pendleton will take over the Stanfield Hotel March 1 and a complete renovation and general repair will be made to make it modern.

Mrs. Edna Fisk and Mrs. Roscoe Meyers of the Stanfield-Echo unit attended the Home Interests conference in Corvallis this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Curt Rhea, Cloyd Sturdivant and Mrs. Frankie Lane, all visited relatives in Parkdale over Sunday.

TALL FESCUE GRASS NOW FAVORED FOR PASTURES IN OREGON

Tall fescue grass is by no means a new grass in Oregon, but the extent of its possibilities for forage in this state is only now becoming fully appreciated, according to farm crops specialists at Oregon State college, who have been watching the performance of this grass throughout the state.

Tall fescue is now being grown for seed purposes, for pasture use, particularly by sheep, and is even cut at times for hay because it produces a rank leafy growth which makes hay that compares favorably with that made from other grasses.

Probably the oldest seeding of tall fescue in Oregon is on the central experiment station farm at Corvallis. This seeding is now in its 22nd year of growth and during this entire period it has been a consistent producer of forage and seed.

Tall fescue is a development from meadow fescue but is a larger and more vigorous plant than its parents. It is extremely long lived and has a wide range of adaptability, being able to grow on a wide variety of soils and under practically any climatic conditions prevailing in western Oregon and in quite a number of regions in eastern Oregon.

When it was first introduced as a pasture grass many stockmen thought that, because of its coarse growth, it would be unsatisfactory for sheep pasture. In recent years, however, some sheepmen in the state have obtained a phenomenal amount of pasture from it, and find it particularly valuable for late fall and winter grazing. Its ability to remain green and produce forage in the late summer and fall months can be attributed to its deep root system, according to the agronomists.

Tall fescue is also proving valuable on logged-off land and it is being used successfully in irrigated pastures in combination with other grasses and legumes. Improved seed producing strains have been introduced in the state by the experiment station, so that now fairly large supplies are available for planting by farmers and stockmen.

5 Responsibilities we have as a Commercial Bank

AS A COMMERCIAL BANK THIS INSTITUTION RECOGNIZES ITS RESPONSIBILITIES TO THE FOLLOWING GROUPS OF PEOPLE:

1. To our depositors, whose funds are entrusted to our care.
2. To our borrowers, to whom we have advanced credit.
3. To our stockholders, whose money provides the bank's capital.
4. To our community, which benefits by the sound growth and capable management of this bank.
5. To our officers and our employees.

Though different in many respects our responsibilities to these groups are basically similar. The eternal principle that banking is a trusteeship is the bedrock upon which every policy and action of this bank is founded. It guides us in our daily work of serving the financial needs of the people in this community.
