HERMISTON BAPTIST CHURCH
Grayden D. Lorie, Pastor

As we approach our national holiday on July Fourth, we are thinking in terms of independence and liberty. In America we have come to think of liberty as something common place, something taken for granted. Do we appreciate true liberty? One has said, "True freedom does not consist in mere freedom of choice—it consists in choosing the good." Our Sunday morning subject is "The Meaning of Liberty and Freedom".

Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock there will be baptismal services in the First Baptist Church of Pendleton. Cars will be going from here

Beauty Is Not Necessary For Success in Movies

If you are hard to photograph, young woman, the chances are you would make a good motion picture actress.

That is, being hard to photograph is the first step.

You'll have to have talent, you'll have to study, and you'll have a lot of other chores to do. But you can rest assured, right from the beginning, if you haven't one of those even, regular and perfectly beautiful nugs, that you have a chance.

The authority for this statement is Charles Lang, A. S. C. Lang is a head photographer at Paramount studios.

"After 20 years with cameras," Lang says, "I've come to the conclusion that young girls who have beautiful, regular features, although they photograph wonderfully, haven't much chance to get anywhere in films.

"The girls who do get ahead have character in their faces. Some aren't beautiful. In fact, some have very homely features which make them extremely difficult to photograph. But they do have a quality above and beyond beauty—something that stands out."

Lang, who left the University of California to photograph players and has been at it ever since, asserts that the girl who looks like everyone else, although she is beautiful, doesn't have a chance.

"From the standpoint of the cameraman and the lens," he explains, "a face must have something to 'sell'—something which makes it unique, and different, and unusual. Girls with a common, ordinary variety of beauty should stay out of Hollywood. They're just too, too lovely to mean anything in front of a camera."

Dog Aids Mounted Police By Finding Liquor Cache

Not only do the Mounties get their men, but they've trained their dogs to get them, too.

This was revealed for the first time in Canadian legal history when Constable E. Moore of the R. C. M. P. introduced Happy Black Lux, a handsome police dog, as his principal "witness" in a liquor case in Regina, Sask.

The evidence, it might be said, was as clean as a hound's tooth. The constable, it must be admitted, did most of the talking, but the dog's actions did the rest.

Moore told how the dog uncovered some bottles, one containing liquor, in the mangers of a barn on the farm of Christ Hamann. Hamann was found guilty and fined $50 and costs.

The constable described how the dogs were trained to help the Mounties. He related how Happy Black Lux was taken to the vicinity of Hamann's farm, under suspicion of harboring liquor, and "commanded" to make a search.

Before sending him off on a chase, Moore said, he lets the dog smell a vial of liquor containing either home brew or straight alcohol, depending on whatever the Mountie expects to find.

The dog is then released with the command: "Go find him, Happy Black Lux."

Insects' Eyes More Sensitive

Eyes of some insects are much more sensitive to ultra-violet light rays than are human eyes, reports the Better Vision institute. In an experiment sunlight was passed through a quartz prism so that infra-red rays fell on one area, and ultra-violet rays fell upon another area. To human eyes the red area was light, but the ultra-violet area was dark. A nest of ants was disturbed and the ant eggs were distributed over both areas under the prism. The ants hurriedly carried the eggs out of the ultra-violet into the red area. This indicated that ultra-violet rays are visible to ants, but that infra-red rays are relatively dark.

Always a First Time

The old clock in the tower of the New York city hall stopped at 5:22 1/2 p. m. one day recently for the first time since it was electrified 10 years ago. Most affected by the stoppage were the old men in the City Hall park, many of whom measure their slowly dwindling lives by the moving hour hand of the city hall clock. The clock in the mayor's room on the second floor of the same building stopped at the same time, having been cut in on the same circuit that controls the outer clock. There was considerable speculation as to what might have caused the stoppage, but the answer wasn't known until the next day when repairs were made.

Women Past 40

"The woman more than 40 years old has a struggle when thrown on her own resources," reports Miss Mary V. Robinson of Washington, public information director of the Women's Bureau of Public Employment. "Try as we may to believe otherwise, there is still discrimination on jobs on the basis of sex." A survey described by Miss Robinson suggests that older women—who often have had college training before marriage—are excellent tutors for children; may serve as companions or as expert shoppers; may direct parties; may do "fancy" cooking at homes or develop jobs in hotels and other large organizations.
