Important TO YOU OWNERS OF HIGH-COMPRESSION CARS

Even if your car has gone less than 10,000 miles, it now may have higher compression than when it left the factory—may knock because of this!

UNFORTUNATE, BUT TRUE! There is, today, no known way to keep the compression ratio of your motor from changing constantly.

The reason for this is carbon, which accumulates inside today's compact combustion chambers, making them smaller—and your high compression higher than ever. This causes knocking.

You cannot avoid such carbon completely, regardless of what kind of gasoline or oil you use. You can keep removing it, of course, at some expense. You may even get temporary relief by changing the spark adjustment, thereby cutting down your engine's efficiency.

But Shell scientists have a better answer. They've developed a motor fuel that will automatically compensate for these carbon-created higher compressions.

This super motor fuel—Shell Premium—is a blend of clean-burning gasoline fractions...a patented, scientifically prepared anti-knock compound... and powerful alkylate (similar to that used in 100-octane aviation fuels). And what this means to you is more miles of new-car performance.

It means a quieter, cooler running engine... faster and smoother pick-up... excellent mileage. And you get all this from Shell Premium for 2¢ more than "regular"—or just about $1 a month extra, if you drive the average amount.
