FALL-HATCHING OF PULLETS MAY INCREASE PROFITS

Fall-hatched pullets produce somewhat less than spring-hatched pullets and their mortality is slightly higher, according to experimental results by the poultry department at Oregon State college, which department, nevertheless, recommends their use under certain conditions.

During the present period of demand for additional eggs for defense, a group of fall-hatched chicks may be worth while for a limited number of producers that have adequate equipment, says N. L. Bennion, extension poultryman. It is good business to operate a poultry plant at normal capacity throughout the entire year, particularly under present conditions, he says.

The 10 per cent increase in the size of laying flocks requested by the federal government is practically assured in Oregon this fall. By the use of fall-hatched pullets, which would start laying about next March, this increase can be maintained despite normal mortality of the laying flock.

Bennion has made other suggestions for maintaining high production, which he has sent to all county agents who in turn will pass them on with local additions to interested poultrymen.

ENROLLMENT HITS HIGH MARK HERE

According to Superintendent W. G. Kersbergen, a total of 1216 students have registered for school work in the past ten days. Every possible effort is being made to enter the students but to date a large number have been refused entry due to lack of facilities, including teachers' salaries and other expenses.

Word is expected in the near future from the United States government for aid in the situation here.

RAINS THREATEN PENDLETON SHOW

The weather forecast for the week-end indicates cloudy skies with occasional showers. This in turn forecasts wet grounds for the annual Pendleton Roundup now in session. However, the show has experienced rains in former years and has never been seriously affected. The huge crowds forget the weather in order not to miss any part of the show.

The report for the past week, according to Charles Taylor, weather man, follows:

September 3	67	57
September 4	75	53
September 5	82	60
September 6	75	55
September 7	75	50
September 8	79	42
September 9	72	61

TRUCK DAMAGES STORE WINDOWS

A runaway truck caused considerable damage last Friday night when it crashed into the front of Connor's Cash Store, breaking four large plate glass windows. The machine, driven by Jewell Bradley, jumped the curb and struck the building with quite an impact.

Bradley appeared before Justice of the Peace E. P. Dodd the next day and was fined $50 and sentenced to six months in jail which was suspended. His driver's license was also revoked for one year. The driver agreed to pay all damages.

BIG INCREASE IN COVER CROP SEED SOUGHT FOR 1942

An increase in cover crop seed acreage in Oregon amounting to 52 per cent more than this year's record acreage is being undertaken by Oregon seed growers as the result of a decision reached by more than 300 growers called together at Oregon State college by the Oregon Seed Growers' League.

The decision to expand the acreage came as a result of a virtual ultimatum given by the Agricultural Adjustment administration that the seed purchase program could not be maintained unless assurance could be had that a large enough volume of seed could be obtained more nearly to meet the demands and AAA commitments in the south. For two years, according to N. C. Donaldson, executive officer for Oregon, the amount of seed delivered to the AAA has not been anywhere nearly large enough to meet the needs in the southern states.

The new proposal by the AAA, and agreed to by the mass meeting of growers, was that if a sign-up of at least 425,000 acres can be obtained for 1942, the following guaranteed price schedule will be in effect: hairy vetch, 19c a pound; Austrian winter peas, 5c; Willamette vetch, 6 1/2c; crimson clover, 10c; common or Hungarian vetch, 5c, and common rye grass, 5c.

All these prices represent a substantial advance over those paid this year, it was pointed out. The agreement also provides that growers will deliver at least half of their production to the AAA next year.

While a minimum of 425,000 acres was set as compared with a seeded acreage of approximately 272,000 this year, it was pointed out at the meeting that "the sky's the limit" and that growers may plant as much as they like with an assured market. Should more be produced than can be used next year, the AAA is eager to establish a carry-over supply for future use in the event of a poor crop yield such as occurred in Oregon last year.

A series of meetings in the counties was arranged by the extension service and AAA committees for the week ending September 13, as the aim is to have all growers contacted and reports in by September 18.

TELEPHONE CO AIDS DEFENSE NEEDS

A saving of more than five million pounds of metals vital to defense needs, including enough aluminum to build more than 275 fighter planes, is being effected by the Bell System this year through a materials substitution program, according to word received by J. A. Murray, Telephone Manager here.

Made possible through long range planning, research and readjustments in manufacturing, the substituting of materials in 1941 will divert for use in defense work nearly 1,700,000 pounds of aluminum, almost a third of a million pounds of nickel, well over three million pounds of zinc and 8,300 pounds of magnesium. Additional reductions are foreseen for 1942.

The Western Electric Company, manufacturing arm of the system, now saves 65 tons of aluminum annually by replacing aluminum with steel in the "finger wheel" on dial telephones. This is only one of many items of telephone equipment in which aluminum is being replaced by other materials. The total saving of aluminum is enough to build more than 275 military planes other than bombers, or half as many bombers, in accordance with the estimate of the aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America that the average non-bomber requires three tons of aluminum and the average bomber six tons.
