JUNIORS TO PRESENT COMEDY NOV. 28TH

"Practice for the junior play, 'Mistakes at the Blakes,' is coming along fine," says Miss Lynch, the director. "We've had a bit of difficulty in filling the part of 'Billikins' which was originally given to Jack Drake, but things seem to be ironing out very nicely."

This hilarious 3-act comedy will be staged in the school auditorium Friday, November 28, at 8 o'clock. The roles of the two brothers, Tom and Gary Blake will be portrayed by Kenny Elwood and Bill Bucknum. They have journalistic tendencies and their writings get them into all sorts of jack pots, even with their unsympathetic land lady, Mrs. Perkins, played by Doris Follett.

Lyle Tilden does a bit of clever acting in his portrayal of the timid lawyer, Herman Carter, and he appears to be rather hen-pecked by his better half, Mrs. Carter, enacted by Mary Sommerer.

The go-getter with ideas of her own is Genevieve Blinston in the role of Linda Larson. Her love scenes with Kenny Elwood, alias Tom Blake, are all one-sided, but she makes up for

Add to these advantages the economy of burning low-cost fuels . . . the dependability of fewer but sturdier parts . . . the easy maintenance of simple, two-cylinder design, and you'll know why a John Deere Tractor is "tops" with every man who owns one.

both of them. When she does not get her own way, she rings in her prize-fighting brother, Billikins, who always get the situation a little more entangled. Billikins will be played by David Hamm, a post-graduate.

And who's crazy, and who gets the prize package from Tom and Gary's Uncle Mac? Roberta Sims in the person of Wanda Dunning will help you figure that out. Mrs. Pinkle and the nurse (Dorothy Hiatt and Marjorie Knapp) employed by the Bruce Home for Feeble Minded will convince you that half the cast is crazy.

Mrs. Greengas, one of the nervous boarders, will be played by Barbara Follett and the expressmen, Mike and Ike, by Carl Long and Alfred Buell.
