OREGON 4-H CLUB MEMBERS TAKE 4 NATIONAL AWARDS

Oregon 4-H club members who entered the various nation-wide contests this year were successful in winning four college scholarships of $200 each in the judging, results of which were announced at the national 4-H club congress in Chicago. In addition to these, several others won trips to the congress.

The four who won places among the coveted blue award groups in the various contests were Hazel Buckingham, Monroe, who won the scholarship in the food preparation contest sponsored by Servel, Inc.; Miss Lorraine Filliger of Astoria, who won in the girls' record contest sponsored by Montgomery-Ward and company; Robert H. King, Moro, whose scholarship was won in the meat animal contest sponsored by Thomas E. Wilson, and Miss Louise Williams of Portland, who was among the top winners in the national canning contest sponsored by the Kerr Glass Manufacturing corporation.

Miss Buckingham has been in club work in Benton county for ten years, during which she completed 47 different projects, mostly in food preparation and homemaking. She is also the 1941 state champion 4-H club news writer.

Miss Filliger, a sister of Mary Filliger, who won the same prize a year ago, has an outstanding club record extending over eight years. She also completed 47 projects, covering 13 different projects. She was grand champion in the state fair style review this year and had previously won a $100 Carl Raymond Gray scholarship.

King has been an outstanding club member for 11 years, during which he specialized mostly in livestock projects. Working on a 2000-acre Sherman county wheat ranch, he raised stock that won 11 grand championships and 86 first places, as well as numerous other awards. Since the death of his father some months ago, he has been assisting his mother, Mrs. Frances King, in the operation of the ranch.

Miss Williams has been in club work seven years, during which she completed 37 projects. She estimates that her total income from canning projects amounted to $1225 and from all projects $2264.

COMMITTEEMEN OF ALL COUNTIES TO ATTEND AAA MEET

Farmers who adapt and direct the AAA farm program in Oregon's 36 counties will meet at Oregon State college December 15-17 to discuss the past year's achievements and problems and express their ideas on the makeup of future programs.

Work at this year's state AAA conference, the second annual such event, will be led and directed by farmers and ranchers who make up county AAA committees. With few speakers on the program, most of the three-day conference will be taken up with committee meetings and reports. Committee chairmen, all farmer-committeemen, were announced as follows:

Education, Glen Cumberland, Clackamas county; county office management, Layton Mann, Umatilla county; range and pasture development, Jack French, Grant county; soil building practices and conservation materials, Chester Wendt, Jackson county; crop insurance, wheat and statistical, Henry Baker, Morrow county; seed purchase program, Robert Pence, Polk county.

Agriculture's all-out program to provide abundant food supplies for American defense workers and military workers and lend-lease aid to Britain imposes a new responsibility on AAA committeemen. County and community committee men have recently completed a farm-to-farm survey of potential 1942 production. The results of this survey and problems attendant to achieving the production called for under the food for freedom program will receive considerable attention at the conference.

Representatives of the AAA's western division who will attend the conference include Arthur Cummings, assistant to the director, Washington, D. C.; Fred Entermille, commodity loan specialist, Baker; and Jack Hartline, division of information, Denver.

The second day of the conference will coincide with the first day of the annual all staff conference of the division of agriculture at Oregon State college including the extension staff in home economics. A joint session will be held with outstanding speakers addressing the combined group.
