PILOT ROCK WINS HOOP THRILLER

(From the Bulldog)
The Hermiston Bulldogs lost a thriller to Pilot Rock Friday night, 23-22, in a game that was in doubt until the last whistle.
Tiller opened the scoring with a push-shot early in the game and with Rugg and Wilcox scoring soon thereafter, it looked for a time that the Bulldogs were on their way. However, the Rockets started hitting from far out and closed the gap to lead 16-12 at half-time.
Holloman's entry into the game started a rally in the second half that put the Bulldogs in front 21-20 with seconds to play—but the Rockets were not to be denied. A poor pass into Tiller was intercepted by Pilot Rock and resulted in the winning score. With three seconds left, Cullen barely missed a long shot and Rugg fumbled the rebound to end the game.
The B team won its game in the preliminary.
The starting A team lineup for the locals was Lester Wilcox, Lowell Tiller, Bud Rugg, Bernard Cullen and Bob Miller.

PHONE COMPANY PLEDGES SUPPORT IN EMERGENCY

N. R. Powley, president of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company issued a coast-wide message to the 39,000 telephone men and women under his leadership, calling upon them to be more than ever alert to safeguard the service during the present war emergency.
Although it is traditional and instinctive with telephone employees to maintain the strictest secrecy of communications, Powley called attention to their war-born responsibility not only of doing the work well, but also of not talking to others about "what we do or where we do it . . . to keep our lips sealed."
Powley's message supplements a statement he issued in July 1940, early in the defense program, in which he asked employees to support devotedly and effectively the defense efforts of this nation. At that time he stated that the words "Get the message through," more than ever, "call for the continued loyalty, cooperation, resourcefulness, skill, patriotism and indomitable spirit of our telephone men and women."
War-time emphasis to this telephone ideal was given in Powley's message, according to R. V. McGee, telephone manager here. "A Gigantic Task Confronts Us! We Are at War," is the caption of the red, white and blue poster bearing his statement, which has been posted in telephone offices here and also handed in pamphlet form to each employee.

60,000 BULLETS FOR AMERICAN PLANES

can be made from the Copper in a Mile of Power Line

...THAT'S WHY WE CAN'T BUILD LONG EXTENSIONS TO SERVE NON-DEFENSE ACTIVITIES!

☆Electricity has long been so cheap and abundant here that you and your neighbors have come to use it generously, and more or less take it for granted. Farmers have seen Pacific Power & Light rural lines extended out farther and farther every year until today practically every farm in this area enjoys the comforts, conveniences and labor-saving efficiency of electrical equipment.

This, however, is a growing area. New farm and city homes are being built, new suburban tracts are being opened up. In peacetime, electric lines would be extended promptly to these new customers in the area we serve as a part of our daily job.

BUT NOW WE ARE AT WAR. Copper that ordinarily would go into new power lines must be used for bullets to blast the Japs and Nazis, and for other vital military and naval production. Because copper is one of the most essential war materials, the OPM has placed strict priorities on all civilian uses of copper. No longer can we extend lines out into rural areas or into suburban parts of cities and towns, as we could a few months ago. Nor can extensive installations be made to serve stores or industries without approval of the Office of Production Management.

Under present conditions new homes usually can be served if they are a very short distance from existing distribution lines.

Of course it is an inconvenience not to have electric service so easily available as in the past. But until our homes and families have been made safe from barbaric enemies, every American wants copper made into bullets—not into wire!

PLEASE CONSULT US FIRST if you plan to build a home or make any changes in your electric service requirements. Your problems will be given every possible consideration.
