

UMATILLA PROJECT FARM BUREAU OFFERS SAVING TO FARMERS

By A. H. Cable,
Chairman, Executive Committee
Umatilla Project Farm Bureau.

Do you want to save a dollar? Here is how you can do this.

The annual dues of the Umatilla Project Farm Bureau are due March 1, 1942. An arrangement with the Hermiston Herald has been made whereby a year's subscription of $1.50 includes the Project Farm Bureau paid up dues for one year. The regular year's subscription to the Hermiston Herald is $2.00, but by this group subscription only $1.00. Your dues to the Umatilla Project Farm Bureau is 50 cents a year. All subscriptions must be paid in under this plan not later than March 1, The combined dues and subscription are taken at the office of the Farm Bureau Co-op or at the Farm Bureau Co-op Service Station.

The Umatilla Project Farm Bureau is the oldest continuing farm organization in west Umatilla county. Every cent it receives is spent for this community's needs. It has helped start, finance, and develop practically every successful cooperative business in this territory. It has helped to eradicate T.B. and Bangs disease among cattle and to develop better dairy practices. It regularly supports 4-H club work by sponsoring scholarships, providing leadership, and giving other financial aid. This organization also has supported Boy Scout work and wild life and better farming practices including every phase of local farm operations.

We should continue rodent and pest control, encourage better dairy practices, and herd improvement. Best farm practices should be stressed.

We are in war and must by all means win decisively. More food is one of the decisive needs. The United States must produce its own food needs and that of its allies because shipping is confined to protected sea lanes. The organized farmer knows that greater production means lower prices. Shall he make the sacrifice in the fact of the adverse action of organized labor? The only way out is to produce abundantly but be well organized.

Unless otherwise informed an engineer from the Bonneville office will meet with a co-op group and the PUD sponsors in the near future. If interested in this meeting, leave your name and address at the Farm Bureau Co-op and an attempt will be made to notify interested persons.

Again we urge all cooperative members to join the Umatilla Project Farm Bureau. Dues are 50 cents per year, or better still, pay the group subscription price of the Hermiston Herald of $1.50 which includes Umatilla Project Farm Bureau dues. Either should be paid at the Farm Bureau Co-op or at the Co-op service station on or before March 1, 1942.

VICTORY GARDENS TO GROUP PLANTS BY FOOD VALUES

Oregon's victory garden program, launched officially by a statewide garden conference held at Oregon State college, is going to be more than a campaign to increase quantities of just any kind of garden produce. Instead it is to be directed as well toward the production of well balanced gardens which will provide the best nutrition for the family. This was determined with the adoption of the report of the special committee of the conference dealing with nutrition, storage, and preservation.

Vegetables are no longer considered merely vegetables, to be arranged in alphabetical order or perhaps in seasonal order in planning a garden. Instead they are grouped according to their contributions to the diet, pointed out Mrs. Inez Langdon, Scappoose, committee chairman. Here are the groups of vegetables from a nutritional standpoint and the principal members in each group:

- (1) Tomatoes.
- (2) Leafy vegetables — cabbage, kale, spinach, mustard greens, turnip greens, Swiss chard, Brussels sprouts, endive and lettuce.
- (3) Green vegetables — green beans, Italian broccoli, green peppers, asparagus and peas.
- (4) Yellow vegetables — carrots, sweet potatoes, yellow squash, rutabagas.

(5) Potatoes.

Individual families will want to choose among the specific kinds in each group but plans from all groups are necessary to give the best balance as far as nutrition is concerned. It was pointed out.

The victory garden program, aimed at increasing the number of farm and home gardens in Oregon by some 16,000 units in 1942, is to be handled in such a way as to avoid undue waste of materials and effort such as occurred in the first world war, the conference decided. Those who have had experience in gardening, whether in the country or city, will be urged to do more of it this year, but those who know nothing about handling a garden will not be encouraged to try it.

A Flag Like This Brings War News Close to Home

☆ Olongapo... Pearl Harbor... Singapore... Wake... these names have special meaning now in many a home. "My son was there... my neighbor's boy... my brother... the chap who worked beside me."

Reach for the newspaper... turn on the radio... anxious for news... eager to help!

We know a little of how it is. For each star on the flag you see above there is one of our own Pacific Power & Light Company boys in the uniform of his nation. And for every one of these stars, five more might be added for the sons, the brothers and other close relatives of those who carry on the work of our company family.

So keep the lines "hot", and keep the wheels turning! Give them the guns and the planes, the ships and the food! Give them a chance to come home when the victory's won. That's the job today... and beside it, nothing else counts.
