COMMODITY CREDIT
PLAN DISCUSSED
BY A. R. COPPOCK

With the double objective of easing the acute storage problem and of providing abundant stocks of feed for conversion into livestock and poultry products needed under the Food for Victory program, the department of agriculture has announced that Commodity Credit wheat will be sold for feeding purposes and at the same time is asking growers to surrender wheat under loan in warehouse and terminal storage.

Complete details of the program were announced recently by the county AAA office. To assist farmers who are increasing production of pork, milk, eggs and other livestock products needed under the Food for Victory program, including increased marketings of beef cattle, the department is making wheat available at Umatilla county points at the loan value.

Cracked wheat will be sold at the loan value, whole wheat will be four cents less per bushel. If interested in purchasing either whole or cracked wheat, please call at our office and ascertain the loan value at the station where you wish to take delivery.

All prices are for bulk wheat, and no wheat will be sold in less than carload lots except at county points.

where Commodity Credit has stocks of wheat in storage. The "loan value" means the loan value for No. 1 soft white, regardless of the grade or quality of the wheat to be sold.

Dealers wishing to obtain wheat may order direct from Commodity Credit in Portland. Those buying the wheat for resale to farmers are required to post a bond of 50c a bushel. Before this bond is surrendered, Commodity Credit must be satisfied that all of the wheat was sold for feeding purposes.

To obtain release of his bond, the dealer must have the county office certify that all of the wheat obtained by the dealer was sold for feeding purposes or converted into ground feed.

Farmers wishing to pool orders to buy a carload of wheat direct from Commodity Credit should order from the county AAA office. Proper arrangements to pay for the wheat must be made before delivery, however. No bond is required from farmers buying wheat for their own use.

To ease the storage problem by moving as much as possible of the present stocks of wheat into feed and other channels, the department is asking growers who have wheat under loan in warehouse of terminal storage to surrender their wheat to Commodity Credit now.

A. R. Coppock, chairman of the county AAA committee, announced that release forms were being mailed to all growers with loan wheat in warehouse or terminal storage, and asked that this form be signed and returned promptly.

"Umatilla county has 4,263,828 bushels of wheat under loan in warehouses and terminal elevators," the chairman pointed out. "Release of this wheat now will not only help provide additional storage for this year's crop, but it will be a substantial contribution to national defense. Wheat is not of much value when it's just taking up valuable space, but converted into livestock products, wheat can make an important contribution to the nation's wartime food production program."

Stage Students Say 'No'; Love Course Turned Down

The younger generation turned thumbs down on instruction in love making, mass or otherwise, in a solemn vote among the 40 student members studying to be actors and actresses at Walter Hartwig's Manhattan Theater colony in Ogunquit, Maine.

The vote stood 35 to 5 on the first ballot, a clean majority, if not unanimous. The ardent but defeated five were reported to have bowed gracefully to the new order of things and the superior weight of numbers.

The question of love making came up academically during a rehearsal for an apprentice theater group's production. John Kirkpatrick, veteran director and playwright, expressed satisfaction with the progress of a love passage. A student, age 18, of Latin extraction, respectfully disagreed.

Kirkpatrick invited an open forum on the subject, offering his professional services to any who felt they needed it but suggesting that in his experience it was one of those things that couldn't be taught. Love, he felt, like Topsy, just grows.

Discussion followed. A vote was taken. Result: The students this year will search their own hearts for instruction in the delicate though admittedly important, art.

Australian Koalas Are Fighting Life Battle

The real, live "Teddy Bear," the Australian koala, is fighting its greatest battle. And the humans, who almost exterminated this friendly, harmless little animal, are now trying to keep the species alive.

Forty years ago, koalas were plentiful in Australia, but disease and hunters have almost wiped out this small cousin of the kangaroo. An open season on the koala, in 1927, saw 584,000 killed for their soft, heavy fur. Koalas are now protected by government restrictions.

The koala requires a special diet of eucalyptus leaves, rarely survives captivity. Efforts are now directed toward reproducing the natural habitat in protected preserves to keep the koala alive.

A full grown koala is about two feet high, weighs about 30 pounds. The young are less than two inches long at birth, live eight months in the mother's pouch.

Koalas are easily tamed, make excellent pets. But given sweets and starches, instead of eucalyptus leaves, they inevitably die.

Antiques of Copper, Brass

Just as pewter is popular in home furnishing, so are old copper and brass. The beautiful hand-polished pieces of copper and brass may occasionally be found in our shops and add a delightful note of color to a room. Copper and brass may be found in a great variety of articles, for they, too, came into use early in our history.

In America we find large brass and copper kettles which were hammered out of sheet brass and copper brought here in the early days from Wales. In addition there are old brass candlesticks now hard to find, that is, genuinely old ones. Snuffers and trays may be found in both metals and warming pans which were in use for many, many years. Shovels, tongs and fenders, chafing dishes and ladles are rarities. Brass mortars are very much a collective item at the present time. It is to the Dutch we are indebted for the fine old milk cans, tea and coffee pots, skillets and also for the wash-bowls and pitchers now so much desired for the ranch house.

Winter Driving Perils

Two precautionary measures to mitigate the driving hazards of snow, sleet and ice on many dangerous grades were recently advocated by the City of Cincinnati.

One suggestion was that suitable containers holding sand, ashes, or cinders, which could be spread by any citizen when an emergency arises, be placed near such grades. The other suggestion was that every motorist carry in the rear compartment of his car a small box, bag or other container filled with ashes, sand or cinders.

If cities accepted these suggestions, Cincinnati officials feel that it would not only be a means of preventing accidents, but the plans would give work to many unemployed men, who could make the containers and signs to place on them, informing the public of their purpose, and could fill and refill them.

Every Object Has Center

Every object, however irregular it may be, has a center. If it were hung by the center point, the object would not tip lazily, but would balance.

When you stand on the tip of one toe, the rest of your body has to be in such a position as to balance over the toe. A rocking chair tips over when you rock so far back that the center of weight is thrown behind the supporting rockers.

Cut a piece of cardboard in any irregular shape. By resting it horizontally on a pin point, held straight up and down, you can soon find the point where it balances. Now, if you thrust the pin through this point and hold the pin horizontally, you will find that the card will stay in any position that you put it. It is said to be in equilibrium.

EARL SNELL URGED FOR GOVERNOR JOB

Earl Snell, Arlington business man and for the past eight years secretary of state, this week threw his hat into the charmed circle, announcing his candidacy for the governorship on the republican ticket. Governor Charles A. Sprague has already given his intentions to run for re-election on the same ticket and Ray Gill, prominent grange leader of Oregon, is also planning to run.

Mr. Snell's parents were Oregon pioneers of the seventies. He has spent most of his life in eastern Oregon, operating a large wheat ranch in addition to his garage business in Arlington. He is married and has one son.

He served in the House of Representatives from 1927 to 1933, chosen speaker of the house in his last year. He has been prominent in both public and civic affairs in Arlington and is well known about the state because of the secretary of state duties. It is generally conceded that he will prove a strong contender for Governor Sprague should a race develop.

NAVY OFFERS NEW OPPORTUNITIES NOW

Students attending school may now enlist in the Naval Service and complete their current school year. They may enlist now, return to school and will not be called to active duty until the current school year is over. This is a splendid opportunity for those young men who wish to enlist in the service but also wish to complete their schooling.

Students are asked to contact V-1 of the Naval Reserve at the Naval Recruiting Station, Post Office, Walla Walla, Wash.

INTENSIVE DRIVE AGAINST VENEREAL DISEASES STARTED

PORTLAND—All public health agencies in the Pacific Northwest will join forces for an intensive drive against venereal diseases, it was announced here today by Dr. Adolph Weinzirl, head of the division of social hygiene education at the University of Oregon Medical school.

Declaring that venereal disease is possibly the greatest saboteur of industrial effort in war or peace, and also with the exception of injury sustained under fire, the principal cause of physical disability in the armed forces. Dr. Weinzirl revealed that the anti-venereal drive would be mapped out at a social hygiene conference to be held here February 12. Public health officers and medical officers in the armed forces stationed in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and British Columbia will take part in the conference. Dr. Walter Clarke of New York City, executive director of the American Social Hygiene association, will deliver two addresses.

PENTECOSTAL TABERNACLE

Shelby E. Graves, Pastor

When God's Holy standard brings man under conviction one of two things may be done: either we change the standard or change the man. God in His grace changes the man! Either we lower the standard or raise man to measure up to it. God forgives the past and lifts man up to the standard. Victory over sin calls for a two-fold glance—see your sin, then see your Savior.

TOWNSEND CLUB
NEWS

By Mrs. Joe Cady

The Hermiston Townsend club met at the pavilion Tuesday. Flashes and bulletins from headquarters were discussed. One very important flash was as follows: "After Congress passed the pension bill, giving all Congressmen a pension, Jim O'Connor, Montana's Congressman, took the floor of the House when more than 200 members were present to urge that action be taken to get the necessary remaining signatures on our petition. In a dramatic speech, which will be reprinted in full in the Townsend weekly, Congressman O'Connor reminded the House that now they had taken care of themselves with a generous pension measure, it is only right and logical to make it possible to secure the welfare along lines suggested by Dr. Townsend of some 27,000,000 other Americans. He did not let the matter end there. Later he sent a letter to the President, which follows: My Dear Mr. President of the U.S.A.:

"Recently the Congress passed and you approved H. R. 3487 which extends the benefit of the retirement act to the members of Congress. Laudable as the object of this bill may be, it seems to me that primary consideration should be given to making some provision, even at this late hour, for those millions of fellow citizens who are not fortunately situated as to be able to make their own laws. I hope you will be able to give this some thought."

H. R. Hartley was elected president for the ensuing year. Dancing and card playing were enjoyed later. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Eight new members have joined. The dance committee announces that a new series of Saturday night dances will begin this Saturday with a new orchestra.
