

EDWARD SCHELL INJURED AGAIN

Young Edward Schell, who some time ago lost the sight of an eye when a rubber band backfired, again figured in an odd accident recently when he was struck on the head by a playmate with a rock while playing at school. The rock caused quite a bruise but was not considered dangerous, although it did not respond to treatment.

Edward was taken to Pendleton this week where he underwent an operation to have the wound corrected. He was brought home Thursday and seems to be getting along nicely.

More power lines...
...or...more BATTLESHIPS?
America can't build both, for there isn't enough copper!

Nothing can take the place of copper in wiring a man o'war, or in making its miles of tubing, its condenser equipment, and anti-magnetic mine devices. A modern battleship requires more than 200,000 pounds of copper—the equivalent of 66 miles of rural or suburban power lines.

★ America can't go on building power lines and still have enough copper for the hundreds of new fighting ships under construction. There just isn't enough copper to go around.

America has made its choice—until the war is won, copper must be used for battleships, ammunition, airplanes and all the other tools of war.

No longer can power companies build long extensions to serve farms or suburban homes. Nor can extensive new installations be made to serve stores or industries without approval of the War Production Board.

The challenge of the day is to save precious time and materials by getting the very utmost out of production facilities already here. With enemies striking savagely on many fronts, America can't wait to build everything new from the ground up. Time is too short. Your power system, the village machine shop, the giant automobile factory... each has to do its part, now!

When the victory's won, you'll see again Pacific Power & Light crews stringing copper down country lanes and freshly graded streets, to carry cheap and plentiful electricity to the proud new homes of a land at peace.

IF YOU PLAN TO BUILD a home, electrify your farm, or make any changes in your electric service requirements, PLEASE SEE US FIRST. Your problems will be given every consideration.
