TUBES NEEDED FOR NEW ONES

The war production board this week prohibited retail merchants from selling toothpaste or shaving cream in tubes to any customer who fails to turn in some type of used collapsible tube for each new one purchased.

The provision, first of its kind and effective immediately, makes retailers responsible for the trade-in transaction and directs that the used tubes thus collected be held subject to W. P. B. order.

Under the terms of the trade-in provision, WPB spokesman declared, retailers are liable to penalties prescribed under the second war powers act—a maximum of $10,000 fine and a year's imprisonment—if sales of tube-toothpaste or shaving cream are made in violation of the order.

WESTLAND GRANGE ELECTS OFFICERS

At the last meeting of the Westland Grange a number of officers were changed, with Guy Shaw replacing as master, J. D. Corliss who resigned because of ill health; J. D. McKay was elected overseer, and Marian Rice replaces Don Sherwood as lecturer. The latter is expecting to be inducted into the army soon.

A total of 24 new members have been initiated into Westland Grange during this first quarter. Members are busy with plans for Victory Gardens, increasing production and sharing of labor.

The Grange meets every second and fourth Friday at Westland school house. All Grange members are welcome. Any non-granger, who wants information about Grange work, is invited to contact Guy Shaw, master, or Mabel Corliss, secretary.

Startling Color Schemes Are Seen

Daring is the word for the startling color schemes that are carried out to a nicety by designers this season. It is really a revelation that colors so intensely "contrasty" can resolve into a symphony of color loveliness under the touch of an artist style creator.

Navy for the skirt, old gold for the blouse, bright red for the wide corselet girdle and the entire sums up to color perfection as a charming dress in sheer wool recently displayed bears testimony.

Clever two or three-color alliances are being handled with brilliant and decidedly novel technique. A dark dress takes on a front panel of vivid tone, such as red with navy, fuchsia with turquoise. An evening gown in blackberry tone has a long train starting between the shoulders of bright fuchsia red.

Dual Personality In Jacket Outfits

Bright print jacket costumes possess a dual personality which more than doubles their practicality. While they may be worn on coatless spring days they also present a smart late winter appearance under fur coats.

A print with a white pattern on pearl gray makes an ideal background for bright-colored accessories. With a gray or black fur coat your accessories might include a gray hat with a red feather trim, and red gloves and bag.

High-Color Gloves Match to Jewelry

A new move in the fashion realm is that of bright gloves that sound the key color for the rest of the accessories. Especially effective is this color treatment when gloves match the color of the enamel flower necklace worn.

Fortunes Spent on Works Never to Be Produced

Hollywood is supposed to have spent $1,739,000 in 1939 for new stage hits and top novels, yet its greatest activity these days seems to be remakes.

Why does Hollywood spend such fortunes on new material, particularly when a good deal of it, for one reason or another, never reaches the screen?

A part explanation, Hollywood buys up literary works occasionally as a protection against plagiarism suits, or possible competing pictures.

Last season Cecil B. de Mille bought the stage play, "A Family Portrait." He then announced that the only reason he had acquired it was its similarity to a story of his own. He had bought "A Family Portrait" merely to shelve it, so that there would be no conflict.

And two other stories which will never reach the screen were bought for similar reasons.

Walt Disney bought Felix Salten's "Bambi's Children," a sequel to "Bambi," because he feared that another producer might buy the sequel and make a film to conflict with Disney's almost completed "Bambi."

And Sam Goldwyn bought Martin Berkeley's unproduced play, "The Wall Between," because it was similar to his "City Without Men." Sam announced he would incorporate part of the purchased play in his own film.

Attractive Draperies

Depend on Length, Width

Most important to success in making draperies is accuracy in measuring and cutting—care in placing the material—sufficient space in which to work. Extend the dining table to its full length, so that you will have length and width as well, on which to work.

Remember that skimpy draperies are about as bad as none at all. Be as careful with the material allowed in width as that measured for length.

If curtains are to be hung under a cornice or valance, no heading is needed. Just allow an inch or two for hem. Otherwise the curtain may be finished with a heading of pleats, pinch or box pleats. Three inch headings are right for the average size window.

As to length, drapery may touch the floor or lie on it for a length of 6 to 12 inches, depending on the effect of luxury you want. Curtains, if not to reach the floor, should cover the window casing, so measure from the top of the window casing to the bottom of the apron below the sill for the finished length.

On unlined curtains there should be a narrow hem, about a quarter inch deep on the outside edges. A 2 1/2 inch hem at the bottom of drapery makes a satisfactory finish.

University Gets Ancient Manuscript

Yale university has been given a musical manuscript written in 1470. The donor was Paul Mellon of Pittsburgh. The manuscript was written for the court of St. Charles the Bold and contains 57 compositions in five languages. It was lost for about 500 years. It is designated by the French name, "chansonner" and is initialed and bordered in gold, crimson and blue. Three of the languages are in English, establishing Great Britain's influence on the music of the continent. Fourteen original pieces are included in one of them, "L'Homme Arme," has been sought for almost a century.

Miss Marjorie Waldow of Hermiston, daughter of Mrs. O. A. Waldow of Creighton, Nebr., became the bride of Mr. Arnold F. Weber of Hermiston, at the Peace Lutheran church in Pendleton, Saturday night at 7 p.m. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. E. M. Butenshon of the Lutheran church, with Mrs. Butenshon singing "O Promise Me" accompanied by her daughter, Miss Lucille Butenshon, who also played the Lohengrin wedding march.

Miss Waldow wore a deep powder blue dressmaker suit with navy blue accessories and a corsage of gardenias and brides roses. Mrs. Paul Van Patten, her matron of honor, wore a rose suit with blue accessories and a corsage of sweet peas and roses.

After the ceremony a wedding supper was served at the La Fontaines in Pendleton with a 3-tier wedding cake centering the table. Covers were placed for the bridal couple Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Weber; the bride's mother, Mrs. O. A. Waldow of Creighton, Nebr., the bride's aunt, Mrs. Roy Hollister of Spokane, Rev. and Mrs. Butenshon and Miss Lucille Butenshon, Miss Jane Boyer, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Van Patten, Lt. After April 15 the young couple will be at home to their friends in their recently purchased home on East Main street.

SUGGESTIONS FOR FARM FOLKS

By Farm Security

Many Victory gardens have already been planted in and around Hermiston this week. Those who have not yet planned a garden for this year should consider these things carefully. Your garden will add from $300 to $400 to your family living. Your garden will help win the war because food is just as important as tanks, planes and guns. Your garden will save you many unnecessary trips to town and will conserve tires. Your garden means a healthier family because you will have more food and a supply of better foods for family use.

If a garden is to be successful there are several things to remember.

Choose good producing land—the best is none too good. Fence the garden—livestock like tender green vegetables too. Clean off the weeds and fertilize and then work soil into firm fine seed bed. Plan a garden to suit the needs of your family. Buy certified and tested seed. Successive plantings of early, summer and fall varieties will insure a continuous supply of vegetables for six months. Keep your garden weeded and guard against bugs—they are members of the fifth column and are planning sabotage.

Here is a recipe for a Victory garden: mix 1/2 acre of good soil with enough fertilizer to insure good growth. Add several varieties of seed and water as needed. Stir in an hours work each day. The resulting product will be plenty of vegetables, interesting meals and a healthy family.

MISS KRAUSE BRIDE OF MR. GERTON

Miss Grace M. Krause, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Krause of Stanfield, became the bride of Marion E. Gerton of Indianapolis, Indiana, in Lewiston, Idaho, on Friday afternoon, March 27, with the Presbyterian minister reading the service. Mr. and Mrs. Krause, parents of the bride, were the only guests of the wedding.

Mrs. Gerton was attractive in a blue ensemble with matching accessories, and her corsage was of roses. She is a senior in Stanfield high school and plans to finish her studies.

Mr. Gerton has been in Eastern Oregon for the past three years before entering the army and was employed at the Texas Company plant in Pendleton. He is now stationed at the Pendleton Field. They will make their home in Pendleton.
