TURKEY OUTLOOK FAVORABLE EVEN WITH EXPANSION

Favorable market demand conditions for turkeys are expected to continue during the 1942-43 marketing season, despite prospects for increased production of turkeys, chickens and other meats, according to an analysis of the turkey outlook for 1942 which has been released by the agricultural extension service at O.S.C. for distribution by county agents. The report also points out that costs for producing and marketing turkeys will be somewhat higher owing to increasing wage rates, feeds and other items.

The indications are that turkey production will be substantially bigger than in 1940 and 1941 when record sized crops were produced which were twice as large as in 1929. In the country as a whole growers reported intentions to increase turkeys 8 per cent, but the number of turkey hens to lay eggs was only five per cent greater than a year ago.

The price of turkeys per head was practically the same for the crop of 1941 as for that of 1929 when the supply was only one-half as large and the purchasing power of consumers was also at a high level. A steady increase in the per capita consumption of turkey meat in the United States has occurred since 1929.

With respect to chickens and eggs, the report contains data showing an increase of 12 per cent in the country's laying flocks compared with a year ago, with producers indicating intentions to purchase 12 per cent more baby chicks this year.

In terms of grain-consuming animal units, the total number of livestock on farms at the beginning of 1942 was six per cent greater than a year before. These conditions suggest a material increase in the meat supply, but on the other hand demand for meat is unusually great and the purchasing power of consumers is high.

The extension service report also shows a favorable potato outlook for 1942 and gives information on the horse and mule situation. That further decrease in work animals will take place is indicated by the fact that only 6.5 per cent of all horses and mules are under two years old compared with 13 per cent in 1920.

U. P. SCHOLARSHIPS GIVEN 17 LEADING 4-H CLUB MEMBERS

Seventeen boys and girls chosen as the outstanding club members of respective counties have just been named recipients of the annual Carl Raymond Gray college scholarships awarded by the Union Pacific railroad in counties served by its lines.

The list of winners was selected and recommended by county and state 4-H club specialists of the O.S.C. extension service, and has just been approved by Joe W. Jarvis, Omaha, supervisor of agricultural development for the railroad. Each of the scholarship winners is either a senior or junior in high school and will use the $100 award to enter Oregon State college, either in the fall of 1942 or 1943.

In approving the recommended list Mr. Jarvis praised the accomplishments of the club members, a number of whom he knew personally from previous experience in this state. The awards are announced this year just prior to national 4-H mobilization week, April 5 to 10. The list follows:

Baker — Dorothy Green, Haines, and alternate, Wanda Creger, Haines Clatsop—Mary Ann Tittinger, Astoria; Crook—Percy Reynolds, Prineville; Deschutes—Shirley Helmholtz, Redmond, and alternate, Warren Cyrus, Redmond; Gilliam—Janet Boyer, Condon; Grant county—Jessie Lee Moore, Dayville, Karlin Merrill, Monument; Harney—Margaret Thies Burns, Hood River, Georgiana Moore, Hood River, and alternate, Fred Moe, Odell.

Malheur—Susan Zamora, Nyssa, and alternate, Walter Duncan, Willowcreek; Morrow—Dick Edmondson Heppner; Multnomah—Lillian Anderson, Portland; Sherman—Cassie von Borstal, Grass Valley; Umatilla—Laura Jean Hampton, Pendleton, and alternate, David Duffer, Hermiston; Union—Robert Chenault, La Grande; Wallowa—Betty Ann Warlock, Imnaha; Wasco—Betty Jo Chestain, Maupin, and alternate, Dorcas Crabtree, Maupin; Wheeler—Fredrick Metteer, Fossil, and alternate, Betty Mathews, Kinzua.

CORN SHOW TO BE HELD TO HYBRID VARIETIES IN '42

Hybrid field corn has now proved itself to be so generally superior to open pollinated varieties in all sections of the state that the 1942 Oregon state corn show, if held as now planned, will be limited to hybrid corn, according to announcement just made by Dr. R. E. Fore, secretary of the state corn show committee, and associate agronomist at Oregon State college.

Present plans call for including the three-acre hybrid yield contest again, which will be open to all growers who enroll this spring and keep complete records on methods used and cost of production. If enough funds are available, a one-acre yield contest will be open to 4-H club members on the same basis.

"We feel that growers will profit by shifting from open pollinated to hybrid corn whether the state corn show is held or not," said Dr. Fore, in announcing the tentative plans. "That growers are recognizing the value of hybrid corn is indicated by the fact that acreage seeded with hybrid varieties has increased from 5 per cent of the total in 1939 to approximately 30 per cent in 1941."

Considerable home-grown certified seed is available this spring, though not enough to meet the expected demand. Dr. Fore recommends that growers place their orders as early as possible so that arrangements can be made to ship in more seed of adapted varieties if necessary.

An extension circular No. 78, issued last fall, gives a list of Oregon growers of certified hybrid seed corn. While some hybrids not listed in this circular are adapted to certain sections of Oregon, Dr. Fore recommends checking closely on the adaptation of any new hybrid before seed of it is purchased.

Most widely used hybrids in western Oregon are the Oregon 525 and 570 (formerly Wisconsin 525 and 570), Wisconsin 606 and 355, and Minhybrid. Malheur and Umatilla counties, as well as some southern Oregon regions, use other varieties successfully.

PRICE SUPPORT FOR WHEAT DEPENDS ON REFERENDUM MAY 2

Continuance of a federal price support program for wheat depends entirely on marketing quotas receiving at least a two-thirds favorable vote at the referendum May 2, A. R. Coppock, chairman of the county AAA committee, reminds Umatilla county wheat growers.

The existence of other price support programs and the recent enactment of the price control law has resulted in the false impression in some circles that a price support program will be continued for wheat regardless of the outcome of the quota referendum, the chairman said.

No existing legislation provides for any form of support to wheat prices except loans, and the law specifically provides that if quotas are rejected, the loan program cannot be continued, Mr. Coppock declared.

Under the Steagall amendment, prices are supported at 85 per cent of parity for those commodities for which increased production is needed in the Food for Freedom program, the chairman explained, adding that wheat is certainly not one of those commodities. The price control law, the chairman added, is strictly a price ceiling measure, and does not provide any form of support to the price of wheat or any other commodity.

What will happen to wheat prices in event quotas fail and the loan is withdrawn is anyone's guess. Mr. Coppock believes. "When you consider that the United States has a surplus of 700 million bushels, and Canadian and Argentine wheat farmers are getting around 50c a bushel it's not difficult to determine which way U. S. wheat prices will go," he added.

DUFUR NAMED AS AWARD ALTERNATE

Laura Jean Hampton, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Hampton of Pendleton, is one of nine Oregon 4-H club members announced recently by the Union Pacific railroad as winners of the annual Carl Raymond Gray College scholarship given in cooperation with county and state 4-H specialists of the Oregon State college extension service.

David Dufur, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Dufur of Hermiston, was named as alternate for the scholarship, which includes $100 for OSC entrance in the fall of 1942 or 1943.

Laura Jean, junior in the Pendleton senior high school, has been engaged in 4-H club work for six years. Last year she won the championship in class 4 clothing; championship in the style review and first place for renovated garments, at the 4-H club fair in Salem, and won first at the county fair in Hermiston, for a formal gown.

Young Dufur, junior in the Hermiston high school, has conducted 4-H dairy, pig and crops projects, and has won several awards.
