GAS ATTACK PRECAUTIONS

By Dr. Ward L. Mould

You Can Protect Yourself
 This article will present a few simple rules by which injury by war gases may be prevented or modified. If mustard or lewisite are used, the most serious injuries will result from the liquid agent. Therefore, during a raid, remain inside, or go inside if you are out of doors.

Remember that war gases are heavier than air, and will cling to the ground. You can get away from the vapor by avoiding basements and other low places. Even after a raid, it is better to remain inside a building than to try to leave the gas area unless so directed. Your air raid warden will guide you to safety when it is safe for you to move.

The basic rules for self-aid in a gas attack are as follows:
 1. Self-aid is the best aid for the prevention of injuries due to war gases. War gases are usually not dangerous if you take steps immediately to remove them from the skin and eyes. Effective means to accomplish this are in the kitchen and bathroom of every home.

2. If you are inside a building, remain there and go upstairs. Do not leave your house unless it is absolutely necessary. If you are outside and not able to get indoors, immediately walk, don't run, to get out of the gas area. Avoid puddles of liquid gas, basements, valleys and other low places.
3. If you have been exposed to a war gas—
  - a. Breathe through cloths wet with baking soda solution.
  - b. Get inside a building if possible, but first remove your outer clothing and leave it outside.
  - c. Wash your hands first, and then your face, with laundry soap and water.
  - d. After cleaning your hands, wash your eyes at once with a large amount of a solution of baking soda: one teaspoonful of baking soda in a glass of water.
  - e. Take a bath, using plenty of laundry soap.
  - f. Wash your eyes again with baking soda solution.

4. If splashes of liquid gas have gotten on you—
  - a. Using small pieces of cloth, cleansing tissues or toilet paper, blot up as much of the liquid as you can, being careful not to spread it.
  - b. Daub the contaminated area with cloths wet with bleaching solutions containing sodium hypochlorite, such as Clorox, etc.
  - c. Follow directions b, c and d in above.
5. Never get excited. Lie down and cover yourself with a blanket. Medical aid is on the way. There is no immediate serious danger from exposure to any known gas.
